TAFT WOULD REFUSE A CARNEGIE PENSION

Would Avoid Discourtesy or Demagogy, However, and So Remains Silent Temporarily.

ACTION BY NATION FAVORED

Widows Now Receive Government Allowance, and Prominent Persons Desire Extension to Ex-Presidents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—While no announcement on the subject is forthcoming from the White House it appears to be settled in President Taft's mind that he will decline to be a beneficiary of the Carnegie Foundation's Pension Fund for ex-Presidents. His rejection of the proposal is expected to be announced in advance of a formal tender of the pension which presumably will not be made prior to his retirement from office on March 4 next.

From the little that can be learned of the President's attitude he does not wish to place himself in a position where he might be accused of a bit of demagogy on the one hand or of discourtesy to the Trustees of the Carnegie Foundation on the other in declining the pension. For that reason he probably will express his views in a statement that will show appreciation of the action of the Carnegie Foundation and will point out why he feels that he cannot take advantage of it.

Following the President's decision not to discuss the matter for publication, members of the Cabinet declined to-day to give interviews. A few of them, however, dropped hints that they were opposed to recognition of the idea that a private corporation should provide for the future ease and comfort of persons who had served as Presidents. The Cabinet view is that any such provision for ex-Presidents should come from Congress. The idea of ex-Presidents being dependent on private bounty is distasteful to many of Mr. Taft's associates and friends.

Almost Unanimous Condemnation.

The tone of the interviews with public men printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning was reflected in the more matured comment heard to-day. If the Senators and Representatives in Washington at this time express the sentiment of their Congressional fellows the Carnegie Foundation's offer will meet with the practically unanimous condemnation of the Nation's legislators. Inquiries to-day failed to disclose a single member of either house of Congress who approved the plan. All declared that no President with dignity could accept the pension.

Senator Curtis of Kansas said that Mr. Carnegie would have done much better if, instead of offering a retiring fund for Presidents and their widows, he had created a retiring fund for superannuated Government clerks.

Senator Works of California regards Mr. Carnegie's plan humorously. He suggested that the pension should be granted only on the condition attached to the pension of the deposed King Manuel of Portugal—that he should take no active part in politics.

For a President to accept the pension would be "undemocratic" in the opinion of Senator Culberson of Texas.

The general feeling here is that Mr Carnegie's offer will be chiefly important in stirring Congress to make some general provision for ex-Presidents and the unmarried widows of Presidents. Pension bills of this character had not been uncommon in both branches of Congress, but as far as known only one has ever come out of committee. That granted to Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Cleveland each $5,000 a year.

A strong suspicion exists in Washington that the action of the Carnegie Foundation was intended mainly to bring to the attention of Congress and the country the manner in which ex-Presidents are left to shift for themselves. It was said here to-day that if the real purpose was to stimulate interest in the subject, the Trustees should find compensation for the stinging comments of public men in the satisfaction of having made it a living issue.

There was much adverse comment over the exclusion of ex-President Roosevelt from the benefits of the proposed pension. Men who have anything but a kindly feeling for Col. Roosevelt were just as emphatic as his friends in declaring that the people would not sanction what appeared to be intended as a slight to him.

Plea for Pensions to Presidents.

In a minority report from the Senate Committee on Pensions on the action of the committee last session in eliminating the main feature of his bill to grant a pension of $10,000 to every ex-President by virtue of his having been Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, Senator McCumber had these things to say:

"The President of the United States becomes by virtue of his office Commander in Chief of both the army and the navy. While his service may be from four to eight years only, still that service may be greater in character and importance than that of retired army officers. We could well allow the President of the United States, say, $10,000 a year as a retired Commander in Chief and keep within both the letter and the spirit of that policy which has limited annuities to the army and the judiciary, and the granting of a pension to the widow of one who has been President would be clearly within the rule which grants pensions to widows of officers and soldiers of the army only.

"It is probably true that sentiment is sufficiently strong, and with the growing wealth and importance of the country it will become more strong that pensions will be granted in the future, as they have been in the past, to widows of ex-Presidents irrespective of their financial necessities.

"If there is any reason whatever for granting a pension or an annuity to the widow of one who has been President, that reason applies with greater force in favor of an annuity for the President himself. If there is any reason for the widow to maintain a certain standard of social relation toward the country and the community in which she lives, there is a far greater reason why the President himself, after having been retired, should maintain such a standard. Upon the death of any President or ex-President the widow retires practically from public life.

"Upon the retirement of the Chief Executive from the duties of office he does not retire from the social or active life in the country. The position which he has occupied demands that he maintain a certain reasonably high standard of living; that he respond to invitations over the country to make addresses; that he entertain diplomats and persons of high standing with whom he was brought into daily communication during his official life. It would therefore appear that any sentiment which demands a pension for the widow would demand, for far more weighty reasons, an annuity for the man himself.

"It is undoubtedly true that a number of our ex-Presidents have been sorely pressed financially to meet the obliga-

AUGUSTUS SAYS HE LIED.

Admits Inventing Cruelty Tale, Police Declare, but He Denies Confessing.

Young Augustus Wilkerson, the Harlem negro lad whose tale about police oppression aroused Mayor Gaynor, broke down yesterday and told all about it, the police say. He had been brought before Commissioner Waldo, in obedience to the Mayor's stern command that no pains were to be spared in exposing the outrage done to the boy, and after he had been questioned for a quarter of an hour he wept and blurted out the whole truth.

He had not been arrested by any policeman, he had not been shut up in a police station for fifteen hours without food or drink, and he had not been whipped. Moreover, no law had been broken in letting him go without bringing him before a Police Magistrate. He had just gone to the home of another lad and had fallen asleep. When he awoke it was dark, and he was afraid to go home. So he stayed there all night and crept back to his aunt as early as he could next morning. But he expected a whipping, and so he just made believe that he had been ill-treated by the bluecoats.

This is what the police say, but the boy last night denied that he had confessed earlier in the day at Police Headquarters that his tale was untrue. At his aunt's home he repeated his original story.

Before Master Wilkerson had been questioned a full-dress investigation had been conducted at Police Headquarters. Yesterday morning, in obedience to the summons of Police Commissioner Waldo, who was acting under positive instructions from Mayor Gaynor, Inspector Sweeney of the Harlem District; Capt. James H. Thompson, Lieuts. John McDermott and Henry Boerner of the West 125th Street Station, Capt. Bernard Keleher and Lieuts. William McCoy and William Wettlaufer of the Lenox Avenue Station, two police matrons, and a small squad of doormen and patrolmen had been brought down to Broome Street. They were solemnly questioned as to all they knew of small colored lads on the night of Nov. 13. Their answers were recorded by the official stenographer and reduced to affidavit form and they were required to swear to them.

After their testimony had been taken in full, it occurred to somebody or other that it might be as well to find out what the small complainant had to say for himself.

The uncle of the boy declared last night that after hearing the boy's story from his wife, Mrs. Aurelia Farrington, he examined the lad's back and found several welts, which, in his opinion, bore out the child's cruelty story.

BAD TANGLE IN CALIFORNIA.

Progressives, Defeated in Los Angeles, Demand a Recount.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Seventeen days after the National Presidential election the question whether Wilson or Roosevelt carried California was to-night in a worse tangle of legal complications and threatened law suits than at any previous time.

Progressive leaders, disappointed by a court decision in Los Angeles invalidating totals for Electors in precincts where the election judges had thought to save time and trouble by putting down tally marks only for the Elector at the top of each ticket, took heart to-day and decided to institute like proceedings in all the counties of the State which showed a plurality for Wilson.

This prospective action was announced following the receipt in Los Angeles of a telegram from Gov. Hiram W. Johnson at Sacramento beginning: "It is reported in the press here that the Progressives are going to quit." He urged the contrary attitude.

Secretary of State Gordon to-day declared that if the recount in Los Angeles County ran over Nov. 25, the date provisionally set by law for certifying returns from the State as a whole, he would wait until Los Angeles County reported.

Among the counties in which contests are promised by the Progressives are Sacramento, Alameda, San Francisco, Humboldt, and Del Norte.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 22.—Gov. Hiram W. Johnson sent a telegram to Meyer Lissner of Los Angeles to-day saying it was reported that the Progressives there "are going to quit" because of the court ruling yesterday in the election case, and urging that the fight be carried on.

"It is of little consequence," says the message, "how the Electoral vote of California is cast. It is of grave consequence how the votes of the citizens of California are counted. I hope therefore that every effort will be made by you and every Progressive in Southern California to see that the vote of Los Angeles County is squarely counted as cast, and that the decision of the voters of Los Angeles shall not be altered or overturned by unjust judicial decisions or otherwise."

LANDS ON FEET, BREAKS BACK

Girl Turns Somersault in Fifteen-Foot Fall, but Fractures Spine.

Mary Burke, an inmate of the House of Mercy, in Dyckman Street, was cleaning a window on the ground floor this morning when she lost her balance and fell fifteen feet to the ground. In falling she turned a complete somersault and landed on her feet, but with such force that one of the vertebrae of the spinal column was broken.

At the Washington Heights Hospital, the surgeons found that the effect of the injury was to paralyze the girl from her neck down. She was operated upon immediately for the removal of the fragments of bone pressing on the cord, and she now lies strapped to a bed that is inclined at an angle of sixty degrees. She will not be moved for ten days. There is some chance of her recovery.

The girl is an orphan and came here from Pawnell Centre, Vt.

WOMAN SUES SNODGRASS.

Giant Centre Fielder Defendant in Action for $75,000 Damages.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 22.—Although he has been married for more than three years, Fred Snodgrass, centre fielder, whose muff at Boston cost the New York Giants the world's championship, is defendant in a breach of promise suit, the filing of which became public to-day.

Nellie K. Frakes is the plaintiff, and she asks the court to award her $75,000. She alleges that Snodgrass won her consent to marry him on Jan. 15, 1908, and that, more than a year later, while she believed herself to be his fiancée, he married Josephine Victor. Snodgrass is spending the Winter in Southern California.

BURNS OUTLINES IDEAL POLICE FORCE

Noted Detective Would Drive Out Politics and Put Commissioner in Office for Life.

HIS POWER TO BE ABSOLUTE

Captains Would Be Stationary in Their Districts and "Stool Pigeons" and "Third Degree" Would Go.

Detective William J. Burns, speaking before the People's Institute at Cooper Union last night on the best way of policing a great city like New York, gave ten rules by which he said he would be governed in creating an ideal Police Department. These principles differed in a marked degree from those on which our police force was organized, he pointed out. Mr. Burns found only two features of the police system in this city worthy of praise. These were the Traffic Squad and Commissioner Waldo's "fixed post" plan. In almost every other respect, he declared, New York's department was inferior to those of the other great cities of the world.

Mr. Burns said that his first step toward reforming the force would be to drive politics out of the Police Department. There was absolutely no hope of improving conditions, he said, until this was done. The suggestion was greeted with hearty applause. Then the speaker declared that he would have the Police Commissioner appointed by the Mayor for life. He would have him put in absolute charge of the department and subject to recall only for misbehavior or incompetency. The Police Commissioner, he said, should have the power to make and break every man under him.

Would Recruit Men from the State.

The members of the police force, Mr. Burns said, should be recruited throughout the State instead of merely from the city. He would have his force so disciplined, he declared, that it would be classed with the best army in the world. He would insist on a rigid examination of recruits, and would hold the Civil Service Department responsible only for the educational examination, making the Police Commissioner responsible for the physical tests.

If he were Police Commissioner, Detective Burns continued, he would make it a rule that Police Captains should be permanently assigned to their districts with their staffs of subordinate officers, patrolmen, and detectives. He said that he expected to be criticised for suggesting such a plan, but he declared that in his opinion, it would not only tend to end grafting, but would make it impossible for serious crime to exist in any district of the city for long. The Captain's head, he said, would pay the penalty for any laxity in his district.

At Police Headquarters, the speaker said, he would have a competent staff of "real" detectives for general work throughout the city. He would have a chief of detectives at their head, and he would not tolerate "any flashing of badges nor notoriety seekers." These men would be secret service men. He would abolish all "stool pigeons" as the next essential in an ideal system, allowing the Police Commissioner to surround himself with picked "confidential investigators" who would do the work of the stool pigeons. Then, he said, he would issue this commandment:

"There shall be no third-degree methods at any time or under any circumstances."

Dismissed Men Should Stay Out.

His ninth suggestion, he said, was a particularly important one. No man once dismissed from the police force, he declared, should be reinstated under any circumstances. He advocated the passage of a law permitting men who felt they were unjustly dismissed to sue in the courts for damages, but never for reinstatement. Finally, he would aim to make the policemen more courteous to citizens, he said, and, in turn, ask the public to reciprocate and to regard the policemen on post as the policemen in London are regarded; as gentlemen, and not as suspicious persons. Mr. Burns said he would insist upon fair trials for policemen who came up on charges, and would never have it announced beforehand who the trial Commissioner would be. The findings at a trial for a serious offence, he said, should always be turned over to the Grand Jury.

After Mr. Burns had completed the outline of his ideal police force, J. A. Hodge of the People's Institute announced that, following the usual custom at the Institute's lectures, the speaker would answer questions. The audience had listened quietly to the detective's address, but as soon as Mr. Hodge invited questions it became evident that many Anarchists, Socialists, trades unionists, and others who hate the police as an institution had gathered in Cooper Union to heckle Mr. Burns.

At first the questions were harmless enough, although most of them were inane. Then men of the sort who can be seen on street corners addressing Socialist gatherings took a hand. They plied the detective with questions on economics, attacked all private detective agencies, and criticised the methods they alleged Burns pursued in his exposure of graft and in his capture of the dynamiters.

"Suppose you got 'the goods' on the New York Police Department, Mr. Burns," one man asked, "wouldn't you hesitate to give your information to the District Attorney for fear of losing the support of the Police Department?"

"Nothing has stopped me so far in probing into any Police Department," the detective replied. "There are District Attorneys whom I would not approach with information, but that does not apply to Mr. Whitman. I'd tell Mr. Whitman anything I unearthed. My best assurance that I'm not afraid of any Police Department is that I have only recently put the Chief of Police of Seattle in the penitentiary for ten years."

"Are not the private detectives the greatest crooks on earth?" another man asked.

"Some of them are," replied Burns. "They will stoop to any kind of blackmailing scheme that can be invented. But I do not condone the acts of such men. The only kind of detectives I want around me are honest detectives."

"Do you call it honest when a detective joins a trade union, learns the secrets of the union, and then becomes a Benedict Arnold?" asked a man in the audience.

"You must ask the man who does that kind of thing," the detective answered.

"You do that kind of thing," the heckler retorted.

"I deny the charge," the detective said, keeping his temper.

At this point a man with long hair walked down one of the aisles and some one asked what Mr. Burns would do to suppress graft in this city if he was the Police Commissioner.

"Nothing," the man in the aisle called out before Mr. Burns had time to answer.

"I'll answer the question myself," shouted Mr. Burns above all the tumult, shaking his hand at the troublemaker all the time, "but I want it understood that I will not stand here and be insulted by a man who may be prejudiced against me because I may have investigated him. Probably I have sent that very man to jail at some time in his life. I am sure that if I investigated him I would 'get' something on him."

The audience cheered heartily at this, and before the applause subsided the man in the aisle beat a hasty retreat.

HUSBAND SHOT WIFE TO END HER AGONY

SHE PLEADED LONG IN VAIN

Twice Attempted Suicide and Finally Won Him Over—Her Sister Praises Him.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The question whether a husband is justified in ending the sufferings of a wife afflicted with an incurable disease has again been raised by a case at the village of Sannois in the Department of the Seine and Oise. Emile Brèguery, formerly a magistrate, 60 years old, and his wife, five years younger, for many years lived happily together in a bungalow in the village. A year ago Mme. Brèguery had an attack of paralysis. Her illness was complicated and rendered fatal by cancer of the liver.

The doctors concealed the fact that she was suffering from cancer from both the patient and her husband. Mme. Brèguery suffered so much pain that she tried twice to take her life. The first time her husband wrested the revolver from her hand; the second time she tried to asphyxiate herself with gas. So great was the pain at that time that she implored her husband to end her sufferings, but he would not comply and gave her drugs to deaden the pain.

On Sunday last there was a heartrending scene. Mme. Brèguery implored her sister, Mme. Baron, to take her life. The sister refused. Frantic with pain, Mme. Brèguery reproached her and called her a coward. Then she turned again to her husband and made him swear if he did accede to her request he would not take his own life afterward.

During the next four days she continued to appeal to her husband to relieve her of her pain in the only possible way. He still refused; but the pain grew worse and worse; repeated doses of narcotics brought no relief, and last night the tragedy ended. Driven well-nigh mad by the sight of his wife's sufferings, M. Brèguery took a revolver and shot her three times in the head. Death was instantaneous.

For two hours the husband sat distracted by the body of his dead wife; then he went to the police station and confessed what he had done. "I have killed my wife," he said. "She suffered so much pain, and the doctors said they could not save her. I am at your disposal."

When M. Brèguery returned home in custody of two policemen he found there his wife's sister, who fell into his arms, exclaiming: "Emile, you are a good man! For a year you both suffered terribly. You have done right. I approve your action."

WOMEN MAY LOSE MICHIGAN.

Majority Seems Against Them, but the Courts May Upset It.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—With only three precincts of the official count missing, Woman Suffrage is loser in Michigan by a margin of 447. Two of the missing precincts are in Detroit and the other in Port Huron, and it is conceded that their returns will be adverse to the amendment.

Officers of the Equal Suffrage Association charge that their apparent majority of 5,000 has been overturned by fraud, and have engaged attorneys to apply to the courts for a recount. Eleven precincts in Detroit have been held up since Election Day with no count whatever, and the suffragists assert they were kept out purposely by the liquor interests in control of the election machinery until it was learned how many votes would be required to defeat the up-State majority for the amendment. Since Gov. Osborn's denunciation of the trickery nine of the precincts have been returned showing the expected majorities against the amendment.

If the suffragists should carry the case to the courts they have a good chance to win. The law makes it compulsory to count the Constitutional amendments first. In Detroit it was lived up to in only a few cases, making it possible for the suffragists to throw out almost the entire votes of Wayne County, which gave a majority against the amendment of almost 12,000.

THIS IS HOW SHE'LL LOOK.

Narrow Skirt, Slashed—for Safety—Checked Coat and Fancy Vest.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Woman's dress is to take on an aspect of militancy for the coming year according to the edict of the National Cloak, Suit, and Skirt Makers' Association, which met in convention here to-day. Skirts are to be perfectly straight, looking like an envelope. Jackets are to be the same. Narrow skirts will prevail, with a slash, because women wearing narrow skirts, unslashed, are in constant danger from falls.

Waistcoats will be worn with nearly all of the Spring suits. They will be made of contrasting material.

The Spring coats are to be made of stripes and checks, mostly. There are few plain materials in the new goods.

C. N. BLISS'S ESTATE WORTH $4,100,519

His New York Home Valued at $120,000, Furnishings $17,000 —Fortune Mostly in Securities.

ENTIRE FORTUNE TO FAMILY

About Equally Divided Among His Widow, His Son, and Daughter—Heavily Interested in Textile Mills.

Cornelius N. Bliss, the merchant who was Secretary of the Interior under President McKinley, and who served as treasurer of the Republican National Committee in 1904, left a gross estate of $4,351,854 according to an appraisal filed yesterday by State Transfer Tax Appraiser Joseph I. Berry. Mr. Bliss's only real estate in New York State was his home at 29 East Thirty-seventh Street, assessed at $120,000. His gross personalty was $4,231,854.

Appraiser Berry allowed total deductions of $251,335, making the net estate taxable $4,100,519. In the list of deductions was $77,659 for funeral expenses which included $12,000 paid for a plot in Woodlawn Cemetery and $45,000 for a mausoleum; $25,000 for administration expenses, $17,231 for debts, and $131,144 for executor's commissions.

The appraisal showed that Mrs. Elizabeth M. Bliss, the widow, got $1,376,248, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., a son, $1,377,935, and Lizzie C. Bliss, a daughter, $1,344,335 under the will. During Mr. Bliss's last illness, Dr. Arthur W. Bingham received $3,420, Dr. W. Gilman Thompson, $300; Drs. Kinnicut and Draper, $698, and Dr. Howard B. Reed $5 for professional services.

Mr. Bliss was heavily interested in New England textile mills, the appraisal of his estate showed. He was a 25 per cent. partner in Bliss, Fabyan & Co., wholesale dry goods merchants, at the time of his death, and besides held that company in his debt on two promissory notes of $1,016,500 and $502,678. He had originally been a 33 per cent. partner in Bliss, Fabyan & Co. The other partners in Bliss, Fabyan & Co., were Edwin H. Baker, of Greenwhich; George Fabyan, Chicago; Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., Frances W. Fabyan, Manchester, Mass., and Philip Y. Normandie, Milton, Mass.

Among Mr. Bliss's effects were several trophies of his political activity, thus valued: Certificate of Appointment as Secretary of the Interior, $3; Testimonial by Members of the American Protective Tariff League, $40; and a loving cup presented by the 1904 Republican National Committee, $70. Autographed portraits of President McKinley and Vice-president Hobart were appraised at $3 each. Mr. Bliss also had an autographed survey made by George Washington, appraised at $25; four etchings of Joseph Pennell, $48; and several paintings, of which these were the most valuable, Vibert's Patience, $666; Cazin's Country Road in Summer, Approaching Storm, $666; Corot's The Edge of the River, $1,500, and Cazin's Country Landscape with Thatched Dwelling, $1,667.

The executors of the Bliss Estate reported that $400 promised by Mr. Bliss to the Broadway Tabernacle had been paid by them. This was the only public or philanthropic payment made by the executors. There were no bequests for such purposes in the will.

Mr. Bliss had two automobiles appraised at $1,900 and $3,500, respectively. At his estate Oceanic, Monmouth County, New Jersey, he had an old brown horse worth $20, a team of bay horses worth $400 and a $15 donkey. On this estate also he had an old cow worth $15, three Jersey and Alderney cows worth $225 and three heifers worth $90. His furniture at Jekyl Island was appraised at $150, that at Oceanic at $2,436 and that in his New York house at $17,813.

The security holdings of the estate included: $25,275 in Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé bonds, $66,561 in Baltimore & Ohio bonds, $54,812.50 and $48,548 joint bonds Northern Pacific-Great Northern, $34,098 Delaware & Hudson bonds, $40,260 New Haven bonds, $40,890 Union Pacific bonds, $24,375 New Jersey Central bonds, $48,154 Atlantic Coast Line bonds, $23,692 Lake Shore bonds, $23,150 Southern Pacific bonds, $23,400 New Jersey Central bonds, $22,000 stock Chemical National Bank, $116,236 stock Fourth National Bank, $42,064 Pennsylvania Railroad stock, $99,331 New Haven stock, $6,200 Westinghouse stock, $84,341 American Telephone stock, $50,774 Pullman stock, $17,200 Associated Merchants stock, $12,000 New York Dock Co. stock, $25,437 United Dry Goods stock, $65,000 New York Central stock, $35,562 Northwestern stock, $52,181 Boston and Maine stock, $50,400 Old Colony Trust Co. stock, $47,320 Pepperell Manufacturing Co. stock, $27,000 Androscoggin Mills stock, $2,125 Edwards Manufacturing Co. stock, $286,000 Otis Co., of Ware, Mass., stock, $72,000 Columbian Manufacturing Co. stock, $90,000 Thorndike Co. stock, $93,600 Boston Dock Co. stock, $15,200 Franklin Co. stock, $50,250 Cordis Mills stock, $20,500 Draper Co. stock, $35,375 Edison Electric Illuminating Co. stock, $19,400 Massachusetts Gas stock, $13,640 Bates Manufacturing Co. stock, $306,000 Central Trust Company stock, $15,000 Second National Bank stock, $39,000 American Surety Co. stock, $34,000 Home Insurance Co. stock, $21,000 Borden's Condensed Milk stock, $14,250 C. G. Gunthers Sons stock, $11,105 Mail and Express bonds, $35,750 bonds of Broad Street Realty Co., of Philadelphia, $50,000 stock of Metropolitan Opera, and $12,000 Kimball Building Trust Company stock.

THIS PIG HUNTS RABBITS.

Runs with Dogs Now, but Owner Will Train It to Follow Trail Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., Nov. 22.—J. H. Lankford of Lewes, Md., a village just across the lower Delaware line, has a pig that hunts rabbits and joins in chases with its owner's dogs.

This pig is a thoroughbred of the Chester County White variety, and is known as Sir Grunter. It first saw the light last August, and was allowed to run around the Lankford homestead with a pair of rabbit dogs, and it followed the dogs to the woods and hunted with them.

When the rabbit season opened and the rabbit dogs went on a hunt, the pig followed. Mr. Lankford tried to fasten up the animal, but in vain. Finally he gave the pig its liberty and permitted it to follow the dogs at will.

Mr. Lankford says he will endeavor to train the pig so that it will hunt without dogs.

Woman Makes Record Flight.

JOHANNESTHAL, Germany, Nov. 22.—The Russian aviator, Ljuba Galantschikow, made a record for altitude for women to-day by reaching a height of about 7,300 feet. She used a monoplane.

PALACE FOR AMERICAN GIRL.

Miss Ward Becomes Owner of One in Nice by Court Order.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—By a verdict of a Nice court to-day, Miss Yolande Ward, daughter of Eber Ward, a wealthy American, becomes the owner of Yolande Palace, Nice.

Eber Ward married a Frenchwoman, who died in September last. Her grandmother occupied the palace, but the court ordered her to quit within three months.

NO SHIPPING MERGER PLAN.

Neither P. and O. Nor Cunard Is Negotiating, Says London Paper.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—With reference to the rumors of a big shipping combination said to be projected by Sir Owen Phillips, The Daily Telegraph says:

"We are officially informed that no negotiations whatever have taken place with the boards either of the Peninsular & Oriental or the Cunard Steamship Company in connection with any scheme for purchase or amalgamation."

JOHNSON'S THANKS.

Designates Thanksgiving Day "In Accordance with Custom."

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 22.—Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, the defeated Progressive candidate for Vice President, to-day issued the shortest Thanksgiving Day proclamation on record in the State archives. It reads:

"In accordance with custom and the proclamation of the President of the United States, I do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of November, nineteen hundred and twelve, as Thanksgiving Day."

SULZER BAGS DUCK IN VIRGINIA

Will Spend Week Hunting Turkeys, Then Go to Washington.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 22.—William Sulzer, Governor-elect of New York, who reached here by steamer yesterday morning, spent last night and early to-day at Cape Henry, where, with a party of friends, he bagged wild ducks. He forwarded the game to New York friends.

Mr. Sulzer and his party then left Cape Henry for Charlottesville. In the mountains of Albemarle County they will spend a week hunting wild turkeys. Afterward the Governor-elect will go to Washington to clean up his Congressional affairs before taking hold in Albany.

ROOSEVELT CASE DWINDLES.

Michigan Editor Can Be Sent to Jail Only for Ninety Days.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 22.—The trial of George A. Newett, editor and publisher of Ishpeming, charged with criminal libel on complaint of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, will take place in a Justice's Court in this city instead of in the Circuit Court. The date fixed is Nov. 26. It is improbable, however, that anything more than the arraignment of the defendant will be accomplished at that time.

This new turn in the proceedings is a result of an error in considering criminal libel a misdemeanor under the common law, whereas it is merely the violation of an ordinance, the maximum penalty for which is a fine of $100 or imprisonment for ninety days. A case of the kind can be tried only in a Justice's Court. The action in holding the defendant for trial in the higher tribunal was quashed to-day.

This case is distinct from the civil proceedings filed against Mr. Newlett in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt, and in which $10,000 damages are asked.

'DAM—' SAID JUDGE IN COURT.

What He Started to Say Was Merely "Dampstiesacktiesselspabet."

Judge Coxe was calling over the motion calender yesterday in the Federal District Court, and the lawyers were paying just enough attention to catch their own cases, when they heard from the direction of the bench a word which made everybody sit up and take notice.

"Dam—" said the Judge.

They listened again while the court exclaimed, "Damp sties act," and stopped.

Clerk Rockmore sprang to his feet and conferred with Judge Coxe.

"You say it," his Honor was understood to say, and Rockmore enunciated in clear, ringing tones:

"No. 17."

Then the lawyers scanned their calendars and discovered that there was a case entitled "Dampstiesacktiesselspabet vs. United Fruit Company," but the parties were not ready to proceed, not one of the counsel present could find out what the Dampstiesacktisesselspabet was all about.

JAIL TERM FOR COAL MAN.

Ernst, Convicted of Short Weighing, Gets Twenty Days Besides Fine.

Convicted of having delivered only 3,310 pounds of coal, when 4,000 pounds was ordered, Ehler J. Ernst, a member of the firm of Ernst Brothers, coal dealers, with yards at 109th Street and the East River, was sentenced yesterday in Special Sessions to pay a fine of $500 and to serve twenty days in the Tombs.

Ernst was convicted several days ago. An Inspector from the Bureau of Weights and Measures intercepted one of Ernst's coal wagons in front of the house of Abraham Cohen, at 417 East 109th Street, and asked the driver, Tomasso Velomino, how much coal he had. Velomino handed him a receipt calling for 3,310 pounds, but the driver had one for Cohen for 4,000 pounds. Velomino said he usually had two receipts, one for Inspectors and one for the consumer.

Investigation also showed that the bookkeeper at the coal yards was instructed to make out two bills for each load of coal.

Senator Rayner Sinking.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The condition of Senator Rayner of Maryland, who is ill here from a complication of diseases, remained critical at a late hour to-night. During the day the Senator rallied twice from his state of coma, but early this evening he sank back into unconsciousness, and is perceptibly weaker.

NEW TERMS FROM BULGARIA

Envoys Are Named and Sofia Expects Peace with Turkey—Dardanelles Are Threatened.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—That increased uneasiness is being felt in European capitals over the possibility of a new and greater conflict growing out of the Eastern war is shown by many dispatches to the London newspapers this morning.

While there is no apparent reason for the anxiety with which the general European situation is regarded, the fact remains that such anxiety exists and has been reflected on all the European Stock Exchanges.

During a speech at Nottingham last night Premier Asquith, speaking on the same platform with John Redmond, touched on the Balkan situation. He stated that the attitude of the great powers remained as he described it a fortnight ago in his Guildhall speech.

The powers were all anxious, he said, to stop further effusion of blood between the actual combatants, and even more anxious to limit and circumscribe the field of possible conflict. The powers were working together to that end, and, added the Premier, "I am glad to be able to repeat to-day that, while we and the others retain with unabated constancy our friendships and understandings, we are satisfied that there is no division of wish or purpose in the co-operative policy of all."

In the face of this statement and the equally reassuring official statements issued in Vienna and Berlin, the reports of the mobilization of troops by Austria and Russia continue, while Germany also is said to be holding railway rolling stock in readiness to transport troops.

In default, perhaps, of a more definite explanation, rumors have arisen that Austria is backing up Turkey in her refusal to accept the Balkan allies' terms. The reasons upon which such rumors are founded are obvious, but no actual grounds for crediting them have yet developed.

RUMORS OF WAR FILL VIENNA.

Russian Cossacks Mobilizing, 'Tis Said, and Austrian Reservists Called.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
Dispatch to The London Daily Mail.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—The important state visit, which Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria is to-day paying to the Kaiser, coincides with an almost imperceptible aggravation of the international situation.

The rumors, which have been persistently circulated in Vienna for the past few days, of Russian mobilization are beginning to take definite shape. Reports are current to-night in military circles here that the Don Cossacks have been mobilized and that the Russian authorities are holding all the available railway rolling stock on the lines running to the Austrian frontier.

It is an extremely significant feature of the situation that the Vienna Bourse, which has hitherto resisted the action of alarmist rumors regarding the state of the Austro-Russian relations, opened very weak this morning on the news that reservists, employed in banking circles, had been called out and on reports regarding the military activity on the Austrian frontiers.

It is understood that Count von Berchtold, the Foreign Minister, in private conversation with politicians at Budapest, reaffirmed the official denials, already given to the rumors of Austrian mobilization.

It is certain, however, that certain army corps have been brought up to increased peace strength, and that final measures can now be taken with extreme rapidity.

The large bridges, spanning the Danube at Vienna, have been closely watched since yesterday. The sentries have been doubled and every precaution has been taken to prevent any tampering with the bridges, on the safety of which the railway communications with the northern part of the empire depend.

During the past fortnight troops have been drafted in small detachments from all points of the dual monarchy, whence they could be conveniently spared, to Bosnia, where, at present, there are understood to be some 80,000 men. The troops on the Russian frontier to the north have been similarly reinforced.

The eventuality of Southern Slav soldiers proving unreliable in a war against Russia or Servia is to a great extent being guarded against by the manner in which these reinforcements are distributed. In the south the troops are understood to be concentrated at Sarajevo and Foca for possible transport to Durazzo to hold the Montenegrins in check.

The troops withdrawn from the Italian frontier since Count von Berchtold's interview with the Italian Foreign Minister at Pisa, have passed into Bosnia.

In the event of war with Servia the Austrian military plan will probably be found to be a concentration of the army near Temesvar in Hungary, whence Belgrade can easily be reached.

According to my information, Austria is counting on Rumanian support in the event of hostilities with Russia. It is stated that on the outbreak of war Rumanian troops will enter the Russian Province of Bessarabia.

Russia, according to rumor, is massing her troops on a line facing Pomerania.

As for the active support, which there is reason to believe Germany has promised her Austrian ally, I hear that the Germans are massing forces in Pomerania.

Great political importance is attached in Vienna to the Archduke Francis Ferdinand's visit to the German Emperor, I have reason to believe that the expectation that grave decisions will be taken, as a result of the conversations between the Emperor and his guest are not destined to be realized.

It is more probable that the object of his visit is the ratification of decisions, already taken at the important conferences, which have taken place at Budapest between Emperor Francis Joseph and his military and diplomatic advisers and with the German and Italian Ambassadors.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—Commenting on the visit of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, Crown Prince of Austria-Hungary, for a conference with Emperor William concerning the situation in the Balkans, The North German Gazette, the official organ of the Government, says:

"In the existing circumstances a personal exchange of ideas between the Crown Prince and the Emperor is of especial value and can bear only good fruit."

Field Marshal von Schemua, Chief of the Austrian General Staff, who accompanied Archduke Franz Ferdinand, had a conference this evening with Lieut. Gen. Count von Moltke, Chief of the German General Staff.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—According to The Chronicle's Vienna correspondent, about 300,000 Austrian soldiers have been massed around the Servian frontiers and equally steady preparations are going forward in Galicia.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Cracow, Galicia, says:

"There are great military preparations here. The reserves have been called out and masses of troops are marching through the city."

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, learns that all the preliminaries of mobilization have been completed, and says that reinforcements are arriving there in large numbers.

SERVIA SEES CRISIS NEARING.

She Is Balkan League's Agent in Albania and Cannot Draw Back.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent in Belgrade sends this dispatch:

"There is practically no change in the political situation between Austria and Servia and it is unlikely that the relations between the two countries can become acute before the conclusion of peace.

"The really critical period will come when the arrangements for the division of the conquered territory are under consideration. The failure of the attempt to arrange an armistice at Constantinople delays this for a time, but Turkey must very soon give up the struggle and then the peace of Europe will actually be in the balance.

"Meanwhile Servia has carried out the occupation of a portion of the Albanian coast. It must not be supposed that in this Servia is acting a mere willful part in defiance of Austria. She is only carrying out the part assigned her in the plan of campaign arranged by the Balkan States before the beginning of the war.

"Loyalty to the other Balkan States obliged Servia to march her armies to the Adriatic in fulfillment of her undertaking, and therefore for the moment there can be no question as between Austria and Servia.

"If Austria wishes to protest against the occupation of Albania, her representations should be addressed to the Balkan confederation, on whose behalf Servia is carrying on her operations and on whose joint mandate she is acting.

"This aspect of the question does not appear to receive sufficient consideration. Servia is in duty bound to carry out the task assigned her in the combined plan, and it will be for the Balkan confederation to decide, when the time comes, what portions of the territory shall be retained, and not the individual State which actually conquered a particular district."

"Bulgaria and the other States of the confederation have for the present just as much to say with regard to the future of Albania as Servia, and Austria's attitude leads one to believe that she recognizes this aspect of the very critical situation.

"Reports from Monastir show that the flight of the Turks after the battle there was quite as bad as at Kumanovo. Near the village of Medjidili a force of ten battalions of Turks with ten guns, who had escaped from Monastir, were attacked by Servian cavalry. They threw away their rifles, abandoned their guns and stores, and fled each man for himself into the mountains.

"The cavalry continued their march unopposed to Florina, where the inhabitants received them with enthusiasm. Later on Greek troops, advancing from Salonika, joined hands with the Servian cavalry and remained in occupation of the town, while the Servians continued the pursuit of the enemy.

"The condition of the scattered Turkish regiments from Monastir is pitiable. They were abandoned by their officers and are without leaders, save Djavid Pasha. All the other Generals, including Ali Riza Pasha, the Commander in Chief, left the troops, disguised themselves as peasants and are trying to escape to the coast.

"Djavid Pasha with a few followers is retiring toward Falister.

"It is reported that Fethi Pasha committed suicide, but in any case his escape is impossible. It is believed the wily General spread the report himself in order to facilitate his escape.

"It will be remembered that Fethi after Kumanovo declared that he would defend Uskub, if he had only a single battalion, and the same night fled in disguise to Salonika."

BUDAPEST SCOFFS AT ALARMS.

Correspondent Says Servia Cannot Fight Europe, and Czar Wants Peace.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—Dr. E. J. Dillon, The Daily Telegraph's Budapest correspondent, sends this dispatch:

"Pessimism is rampant in journalistic circles in Vienna, based on wild rumors of the mobilization of Austria or Russia, of the murder of an Austro-Hungarian Consul by the Serbs, and other imaginary occurrences. In Government circles, on the contrary, the situation is regarded as satisfactory and with perfect reason, for war is inconceivable without belligerents, and Servia alone cannot wage a campaign against Europe, which has resolved to disallow her exorbitant demands.

"Among themselves the great powers are agreed respecting vital questions and will not risk a tremendous conflict for secondary matters. Consequently there is really nothing to fear on that score.

"A source of the apprehensions, which are none the less felt by the initiated, is the assumption that the Russian Government is lamentably weak and that Pan-Slavism in St. Petersburg and Moscow is undoubtedly strong, so strong that the hand of the Czar may any moment be forced and a bellicose line of action struck up.

"I am well enough acquainted with the currents of Russian politics to be able to affirm that such a consummation is practically eliminated. Russia has but one policy, that of the Czar, which is pacific. All the real elements of danger are, therefore, dispelled.

"The rumors of forthcoming diplomatic action of the Triple Alliance to be reinforced by a military demonstration are also unfounded. The powers and the Triple Alliance cannot advantageously take action with a view to safeguarding their interests against the Balkan coalition because the nature of the damage, which threatens them, is still unknown and because any injury the Allies may inflict is not irreparable.

"Moreover, in some cases the interests of two powers, belonging to the Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente, respectively, are more closely identified than those of the two members of the same group.

"Turkey's determination to continue hostilities caused little surprise here when the terms, demanded by the Allies, became known. The conviction prevails in Constantinople that the Bulgarian Army has been cut up by the sanguinary combats and is now suffering from cholera, typhus, and even hunger.

"Furthermore, the Porte is aware that Europe will look favorably on the retention by the Sultan of the territory inclosed by a line drawn from Midia on the Black Sea to the mouth of the River Maritza in the Gulf of Enos in the Aegean Sea.

"Even if Bulgaria should now force the Tchatalja lines and deprive Constantinople of its land defenses on the European side, it by no means follows that she would be allowed to remain in possession of the conquered territory.

"In like manner the temporary possession of Dibra and Durazzo by Servia, even if ratified by a treaty of peace, will not give her the slenderest chance of annexing them. That point is settled and done with, and only a war which no great power has an interest to wage can cause it to be opened.

"These are the cardinal facts of the situation, a dispassionate survey of which attunes the mind to optimism."

Special Cable to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—It is learned in financial circles that a serious shortage of railway and freight cars prevails in the Rhenish-Westphalian industrial region owing to the action of the German authorities in holding back thousands of cars for the transport of troops to the Eastern provinces.

The National Zeitung has a Vienna telegram declaring that the First, Ninth and Eleventh Austrian Army Corps have been mobilized for the purpose of guarding the Austro-Russian frontier.

Two newspapers, the Vossische Zeitung and the Deutsche Tageszeitung, declare to-night that they have indisputable authority for stating that Austria has now mobilized the reserves of three different yearly classes. This means that conscripts, who left the army in successive years, have now been recalled to the colors.

The Vossische Zeitung states that it is in possession of exact details as to which and how many army corps are affected by these measures, but refrains from publishing them. It also refers to "other measures" which the Austrian War Office has taken.

FURIOUS FIRING AT ADRIANOPLE.

New Positions Taken by Besiegers, Who Repel Turks' Sorties.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—Bennet Burleigh wires to The Daily Telegraph from Mustapha Pasha under date of yesterday morning:

"The great bombardment of Adrianople proceeds furiously.

"It became intense about 2 o'clock in the morning. The Turks used an electric searchlight and replied hotly for a time with all their guns.

"There were attempted sallies, but these were repulsed with much slaughter. New positions and forts have been captured.

"In this fighting there was by far the heaviest fire of the siege."

SOFIA, Nov. 22.—The Mir says the Turks made a sortie from Adrianople Wednesday with the purpose of recapturing Kartaltepe Fort, but were repulsed, leaving 350 dead on the field.

NECESSITY OF CENSORSHIP.

Admiral Mahan Says Severity of Authorities Is Inevitable.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Rear Admiral A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., is spending a brief holiday in London en route to the Continent, where he will take the rest cure. Admiral Mahan, in speaking of the attitude of the military authorities in the Balkans toward war correspondents, said that it had caused him no surprise.

"I think it was inevitable," he said, "when it became possible for the correspondents to send long messages by cable giving the disposition and strength of the armies. Such information would inevitably fall into the hands of the opposing force, and might materially affect the issue."

When America was fighting Spain, said Admiral Mahan, there was no such severe restriction, and enterprising American journalists sent such messages as they pleased. If Spain had been an alert power, she would have been able to make use of these messages to her own considerable advantage.

FIGHT NEAR DARDANELLES.

Report That the Allies Are Advancing on the Forts.

Special Cable to The New York Times.
Dispatch to The London Daily Mail.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Saturday, Nov. 23.—A report was circulated last night that the expected battle was going on at Gallipoli, on the European side of the Dardanelles, where an attack from the land on the Dardanelles forts was anticipated.

SOFIA, Nov. 22.—The Bulgarian troops have occupied Dadeaghatch, on the Gulf of Enos, and Malgara, about forty miles east therefrom, which opens the entire territory west of Constantinople for the advance of the allies.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Telegraphing from Constantinople, the correspondent of The Standard says:

"Much alarm is felt here over a report that 30,000 Greeks have left the neighborhood of Monastir for Katarina Harbor, whence they will be shipped for the Gulf of Saros, north of the Dardanelles, in order to seize the Dardanelles and reinforce the allied army at Tchatalja."

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—A dispatch to The London Times from Constantinople says:

"The protected cruiser Hamidiyeh returned here to-day down at head and entered a dock. It seems that her engagement with Bulgarian torpedo boats took place outside the heads in the direction of Midia.

"The commander says in his report that his men did their duty admirably and carried out orders automatically without budging from the stations."

The portrait is to be made on the lines of the mosaic representing the Byzantine Emperor Justinian and the Empress Theodora which was found in the Church of St. Vitale at Ravenna, Italy.

MONTENEGRINS NEAR DURAZZO.

Town Is in Great Fear as the Army Approaches.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph, dated Friday at Durazzo, says:

"There is apprehension here owing to the report that the Montenegrins have reached the northern bank of the River Mat, thus being within five or six days of Durazzo. The river, however, is in flood and 100 yards wide, and no boats are available."

GREEKS SEARCH A STEAMER.

Albanian Leader, However, Had Been Landed at Durazzo.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—A wireless dispatch received at Trieste from the steamer Graf Wurmbrand says that two Greek torpedo boats searched her off Durazzo for contraband. The Albanian leader, Ismail Kemal, who had been aboard the Graf Wurmbrand, and who is to proclaim the independence of Albania, had already landed with his followers when the search was made.

The dispatch added that up to noon to-day neither Servians nor Montenegrins had appeared at Durazzo.

TURKS AGAIN SEEK A PARLEY FOR PEACE

Some Skirmishing at Tchatalja, but Nazim Pasha Looks for the Bulgarian Emissaries.

CABINET PREPARED TO LOSE

Yet Strengthening of Army Is Expected to Bring More Favorable Terms —More Young Turks Arrested.

Special Cable to The New York Times.
Dispatch to The London Daily Mail.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.—To-day has been spent by Nazim Pasha and the other Turkish peace plenipotentiaries in trying to get into touch with the Bulgarian emissaries. The Turkish Government hopes that they will manage to arrange a meeting to-morrow.

I have the highest authority for saying that the only hope of any results from this meeting rests on the possibility that the Bulgarian negotiators may prove to be the bearers of modified conditions for an armistice.

Meanwhile the Turks are maintaining a certain amount of artillery fire, as they claim, to their advantage. Although I believe the Turkish Government are ready to resign themselves to the inevitable loss of much territory, the facts that many of the troops at Tchatalja are fresh, that the nearness to their base makes the problem of supply simple, and that Asiatic reinforcements are constantly arriving, are cards that strengthen their hand.

"If the Bulgarians ask so much for an armistice," said a Minister to me to-day, "what further may not they ask for peace? Why should we surrender all they could ever hope to conquer when we have yet 500,000 men to draw on and they not one?"

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.—There was only a slight skirmishing to-day on the Tchatalja lines, according to the latest information received here from the Turkish army headquarters, and several unimportant outpost fights. No mention is made of the armistice pourparlers, and it is understood they have not yet been resumed.

A dispatch from Nazim Pasha, the Turkish Generalissimo, says:

"There was a slight cannonade on our right wing to-day. The enemy's battery in the environs of Ezzeddin fired on our works at Mektebharbich, to which our batteries replied. In reconnaissances on the left wing we collected a quantity of army effects abandoned by the enemy. The Bulgarians also bombarded. Biyuk Chekmeje on the Sea of Marmora, firing eighty shells. The fleet replied and silenced the enemy's guns.

"Last night our reconnaissances advanced as far as Ezzeddin and drove back the enemy, inflicting a heavy loss and silencing their artillery, posted on the heights near the villages. At intervals this morning the enemy's batteries in the environs of Ezzeddin re-opened fire, but the effects of the cannonading were unimportant."

Another telegram, sent by Nazim Pasha at 9 o'clock to-night, says that reconnaissances by his men within a radius of four or five miles from the centre of the Tchatalja lines showed the ground littered with the bodies of Bulgarians, numbering several thousand.

Strict precautions have been taken the last week to exclude war correspondents and sightseers from the Tchatalja lines. Mounted gendarmes have arrested all persons visiting that vicinity unauthorized and sent them back to Constantinople. Gendarmes were even posted at the gates of the city to prevent the exit of sightseers.

Nevertheless, in a few instances, generally by disguising themselves as Turkish officers, war correspondents have been able to escape the vigilance of the authorities but only for short periods.

Arrests of members of the Young Turk Party continue. Among the latest are Djelal Hairi and Dedjmeddin, ex-Ministers of the Interior, and Evkaf, ex-Minister of Works.

ALLIES WILL YIELD A LITTLE.

May Give Up Demand for Tchatalja, but Otherwise Will Fight On.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—The Times's correspondent in Sofia telegraphs:

"Dr. Daneff, President of the Chamber; Gen. Savoff, the Commander in Chief, and Gen. Fitcheff, Chief of Staff, the Bulgarian delegates who have been appointed to discuss the conditions of an armistice with Turkey, left Kirk-Kilisseh to-day for Tchatalja, where they expect to meet the Turkish delegates.

"The Porte has already declared the terms of the allies unacceptable, but there is no disposition here to make any modification, except with regard to the surrender of the Tchatalja lines, which may not be insisted upon.

"I understand that all the other conditions will be maintained by the allies, and, should the Turks not accept them the war will be prosecuted at all costs."

The Morning Post's correspondent in Budapest says:

"A telegram to the Hestor Lloyd from Sofia says that as the allied States did not give their note to Turkey the character of an ultimatum there is possibility of peace negotiations being begun in the near future. The note is excluded by the declaration of the Turkish Government that the conditions put forward are unacceptable.

"The allies do not wish to hasten matters, as the cholera is causing terrible devastations in the Turkish Army and they do not wish to sacrifice more men in order to obtain possession of Constantinople, as they know the capital will not remain in their possession, even if they occupy it."

SOFIA, Nov. 22.—M. Panas, the Greek Minister here, and Capt. Frantzis, the Military Attaché at Constantinople, who is now attached to the Bulgarian Army headquarters, have been appointed to represent Greece in the armistice negotiations, for which Dr. Daneff, Gen. Savoff, and Gen. Fitcheff have been named by Bulgaria. Servia and Montenegro will be represented by Bulgarian Plenipotentiaries.

The indications are that Bulgaria will accept a conciliatory attitude and will modify the conditions originally offered to the Turkish government.

The rejection of the preliminary terms by the Turks caused little surprise here. The Bulgarians expected to encounter the Turkish propensity for bargaining. Therefore they demanded more than they expected to obtain.

The Balkan allies are prepared to grant reasonable modifications of their terms, as they are confident that Turkey will finally agree to them.

As they do not fear that delay will cause them any serious disadvantage, the Bulgarians are all the more ready to make concessions because they are anxious to settle affairs with Turkey alone and without the intervention of the Powers.

It is asserted that the Bulgarian Cabinet has given the European powers the assurance that the Bulgarian troops will not enter Constantinople and that this will obviate interference from Europe.

In the meantime military operations will not necessarily be stopped, but it is understood that the Bulgarian troops will remain passive, unless attacked by the Turks.

It is thought improbable here that active hostilities with the exception perhaps of an artillery duel will be immediately resumed, as the commanders of both armies are fully occupied in combating the cholera.

AUSTRIA CALLS CORPS RESERVES

Three Corps Are on Russian Frontier and Three on Servian.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The first classes of the reserves of six Austro-Hungarian Army Corps have been called to the colors, according to a news agency dispatch from Vienna. Three of these army corps are stationed in the north and three in the southwest of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The Austro-Hungarian reservists in Chicago have received official orders to hold themselves in readiness for a call to rejoin their regular stations in the Austrian Army, subject to immediate notice.

CAMPAIGN PLANNED LAST MAY.

Ex-Minister to Greece Says the Allies Moved Like a Trained Eleven.

Among the cabin passengers arriving yesterday from Liverpool on the Mauretania was Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France, who was accompanied by Mrs. Herrick. Mr. Herrick said he had come over on official business and was leaving at once for his home in Ohio, and then going to Washington to see the President. Mr. Herrick returns to his post on Dec. 22, to be there by Jan. 1, the date of the French Presidential election.

Speaking of the suffering among the poor caused by the present war in Eastern Europe, the Ambassador said that Mrs. W. W. Rockhill, wife of the Ambassador to Turkey, had opened the embassy in Constantinople, and was taking care of the wounded soldiers. An average of a hundred soldiers a day had been treated there, he said.

"It is hard to realize the terrible conditions which exist in Turkey," said Mr. Herrick, "and the desperate straits to which the Turks have been reduced. Mrs. Rockhill has allied herself with the Society of the Red Crescent, the Turkish Red Cross Society, and help is badly needed. Any assistance to be given should be cabled, so urgent are the conditions in the Turkish capital. Many Americans in Paris have sent contributions, and they collected $1,900 for the earthquake sufferers."

G. H. Moses, retiring United States Minister to Greece and Montenegro, who was a passenger on the Mauretania, was present at one of the first battles in the Balkans.

"The armies of the allies," said the Minister, "have been moved with the organization and precision of a football team, and the attack upon Turkey was carefully prearranged last May. At that time a secret meeting of military representatives of Montenegro, Servia, Greece, and Bulgaria was held in a small town in Dalmatia. I witnessed the mobilization of the Greek troops in Athens, and then the mobilization of the Montenegrins at Cettinje.

"Two days before the Montenegrins commenced hostilities King Nicholas gave me an audience, and said that if I went to Detchnick, a small town across the Turkish border, at 8 A. M. on the next Wednesday, I should hear the first gun fired in a victory. I took the King's advice, and arrived promptly on the scene, and had only just time to dismount from my horse when I heard the dull boom of a heavy cannon across the valley firing a big shell on the fortifications behind the town.

"The war had begun, and the single report, which was evidently a signal, was followed by the heavy artillery of the Montenegrins firing on the Turkish entrenchments. The fire was answered by the Turkish garrison, and I stood with the staff of Gen. Martinovich, the commander of the Montenegrin artillery, and watched the action through my field glasses.

"The town of Detchnick was protected by a fortified rock situated high on the mountain road to Tchipchanik. Crown Prince Danilo, in command of the Montenegrin Army, advanced two columns of heavy infantry under cover of the artillery fire, and the place capitulated after a severe bombardment which lasted several hours.

"The precision of the Montenegrin artillery was wonderful. From my position beside Gen. Martinovich I could distinguish the rending and havoc wrought in the Turkish fortifications by the explosion of the big shells. It was a grim and terrible sight to watch the Montenegrin Army closing in on the doomed fortress, and after five hours' shelling and fighting the final dash was made up the slope to the parapets of the fort itself, and in a short time the red flag inscribed with the crescent fell, and in its place the Montenegrin colors were hoisted."

Before leaving for home Mr. Moses said he saw two or three minor engagements between the Montenegrins and the Turks, and the commencement of the siege of Scutari. He added that the Montenegrins were men of splendid physique, over six feet tall, and inured to hardship in their daily lives.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Disregarding race and creed in the hour of distress, the Red Cross has stretched out a helping hand to the Red Crescent. Ambassador Rockhill, at Constantinople, to-day cabled the State Department that the Red Cross relief organization in that city under American supervision has not only supplied the Red Crescent with complete outfits for several hundred wounded in the Military Hospital at Tashkissla, but has equipped a ward in an operating room and supplied surgeons, assistants, and nurses under the supervision of Major C. Sinclair Ford of the Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Relief work will be carried on elsewhere with the assistance of the missionaries among the refugees in Asiatic Turkey.

NO BALKAN WAR LECTURE.

Carnegie Hall Dark and No Explanation Why a Prince Didn't Appear.

Carnegie Hall was dark last night, although an illustrated lecture on the Balkan war by Prince Stefan Nehamjich-Duchanjich had been announced to take place there under the auspices of the Red Cross of the Balkan allies.

The doorman said that up to 8:30 o'clock only two persons had sought admission to the lecture, and, having complimentary tickets, sorrowfully turned away. He said he had been told two days ago that the lecture had been called off, though he did not know why.

Prince Stefan Nehamjich-Duchanjich is the father of the young man who also calls himself Prince Stefan Nehamjich-Duchanjich, and who delivered a lecture last Sunday night in the Reformed Church of the Reconciliation in Brooklyn, collecting $13.18. At that time the boy Prince—he is only 17—warmly defended his title and right to collect funds for the Pan-Balkan Red Cross Society, which had been questioned in a statement attributed to Prof. Michael I. Pupin of Columbia University, who is Chairman of the Serbo-American Red Cross.

The Princes of Macedonia with the hyphenated names are living at an apartment hotel in Brooklyn. They could not be reached by telephone last night, and a woman who answered for them declined to say when, if ever, the lecture would be given, or why it was called off.

Later in the evening the young Prince was found in Brooklyn, leading a bulldog for an airing along Clinton Street. He declined to be interviewed beyond admitting that his father had arrived from the Balkans during the week.

Relief Fund Sent to Sofia.

LOVING CUP FOR BRIDGMAN.

Psi Upsilon Honors Geographer Long Its President.

Herbert L. Bridgman, the Arctic traveler and geographer, received a loving cup on the fiftieth anniversary of his initiation into the Psi Upsilon Fraternity on Thursday night. He was a guest at the dinner marking the seventy-ninth anniversary of the founding of the fraternity served at the Hotel Astor.

William M. Kingsley presided, and Senator John C. Spooner, Justice Isaac F. Russell, Herbert S. Houston, and Frederick P. Keppel, Dean of Columbia University, were the speakers. Mr. Bridgman was graduated from Amherst College in 1866. The presentation was made by George S. Coleman, on behalf of the fraternity. The cup bore this inscription:

> In recognition of his inspiring service as a member for thirty-five years of the Executive Council of Psi Upsilon and as its President during twenty-nine years of that time.

Next Actors' Fund Fair in May, 1914.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Actors' Fund of America took place at the offices in the Gaiety Theatre Building yesterday afternoon, the last meeting before the fund moves to its new quarters in the Longacre Building, at Forty-second Street and Broadway. Those present were Daniel Frohman, F. F. Mackay, Joseph R. Grismer, Charles Dickson, Sam Scribner, James J. Armstrong, Edwin D. Miner, Ralph Delmore, and Walter Vincent. The Executive Committee reported that the fund was taking care of 140 cases of distress, and that there were 37 guests at the home on Staten Island. Mr. Frohman proposed that the next Actors' Fund Fair take place in May, 1914, and the board approved the suggestion.

A Subtle Distinction

¶ "I understand you are a habitual drunkard," said the court.

¶ "You are wrong," said the man at the bar, "it is a gift with me."

¶ Habit is one thing, and genius is another.

¶ There is a saying among artists that drawing can be taught, but color is a gift.

¶ This dictum holds good with respect to our business, too—tailoring can be taught, but Style is a gift.

¶ Any man can operate a pair of shears, but not all men can endow them with intelligence.

¶ When you buy Saks clothes you are not buying mere yardage and labor, but the brains of the finest tailoring organization in existence.

¶ The great trouble with clothes today is, that they are without one redeeming touch of distinction, that despite all the riches of color and the opulence of design they are bankrupt in style.

¶ And right here is the great divide between average clothes and Saks clothes, between mediocrity and art, between the commonplace and the distinctive, between the rule and the exception, between mere tailoring and Style, between clothes as they are and clothes as they ought to be.

HYDE HOPES TO TURN THE TABLES ON ROBIN

Counsel Parrying to Show $130,000 to Carnegie Trust Was Robin's Payment of Called Loan.

ON THIS HYDE CASE RESTS

Steuer Also Attempts to Prove Robin Banks Were Interlaced with the Carnegie and Had to Fall with It.

In one question which Max D. Steuer, of counsel for ex-Chamberlain Charles H. Hyde put on cross-examination yesterday to Joseph G. Robin, wrecker of the Northern Bank and of several other financial institutions, persons who had followed closely the trial in Justice Goff's Extraordinary Term of the Supreme Court believed they saw the defense which Hyde would offer to the charge that he asked for a bribe and received an unlawful fee after he had forced Robin to arrange a loan by the Northern Bank of $130,000 to the then tottering Carnegie Trust Company. Mr. Steuer's question was this:

"By demanding payment of $130,000 of the $230,000 loan which you had made from the Carnegie Trust Company, on demand notes, don't you know that the Carnegie Company would have been able to obtain the money which it needed without forcing you to arrange such a loan from the Northern Bank?"

The hasty objection of Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss saved Robin from being forced to reply, and Mr. Steuer did not press the question. It was accepted throughout the courtroom as an indication of the plans of the defense, for the possible contention is obvious that, could the Carnegie Trust have called in a Robin loan, there would have been no need to negotiate a loan on behalf of the trust company, and if it did so call in a Robin loan, then the charge that Hyde forced a loan from the Northern Bank would be revealed as ridiculous.

Mr. Steuer's question in its potential bearing on Hyde's defense was easily the most important development of an otherwise somewhat dull day. Aside from this, the proceedings were productive of only two points of interest.

Most important of these to the prosecution was the reading into evidence of the records of the Tremont Branch of the Northern Bank from Feb. 28, 1910 to the day the bank suspended shortly before Christmas of that year. Only those accounts were read which dealt with the deposits of city funds in the Northern Bank. Assistant District Attorney Clark did not comment on them as he read, but the entries showed a remarkable increase in the amount of city fund deposits in October, 1910, the month following Robin's complaint to Hyde that the latter had not kept his word in increasing the deposits in return for the Carnegie loan. Through February, March, April, May, June, July, August, and September of 1910 the working balance of city funds in the Northern Bank seldom exceeded $150,000 and then only by trifling amounts. In October, however, the balance frequently exceeded $200,000 and rose as high as $300,000, $400,000, and $500,000.

May Call Montgomery, Now a Convict

The second development of the day's proceedings was the mention by Mr. Steuer of William R. Montgomery, the convicted President of the one time Hamilton Bank. The lawyer interrogated Robin concerning conversations he had had with Montgomery in the Tombs, and it became apparent that Montgomery might be called from prison to testify for the defense as to these conversations.

Except for the morning session, which was devoted principally to the cross-examination of Robin, the day was given over to the highly technical task of reading records and figures into evidence. Finishing the statements of city fund deposits in the Northern Bank, Mr. Clark read into the record a complete list of the transfers of city money to and from the Northern and Carnegie Banks for the period between February and December, 1910. He had only just completed this task and Mr. Steuer had begun his cross-examination of Deputy Chamberlain Henry J. Walsh, who furnished the records, when court was adjourned until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

It was after 7 o'clock before Justice Goff decided to stop the proceedings for the day, and it is likely that there will be night sessions of the court from now until the end of the trial, for at the opening of court yesterday Justice Goff announced that he desired earnestly to send the jurors home to their families for Thanksgiving, and to accomplish this should bend every effort to completing the trial by Wednesday night.

"We will sit to-morrow," he said, "and whether we hold night sessions or not will depend upon the progress of the trial."

When adjournment came last night, however, it appeared that even with night sessions the trial scarcely could be completed by Wednesday. District Attorney Whitman said several days ago that he had between twenty-five and thirty witnesses, and so far just three had been examined. Hours were consumed in the reading into evidence of the various bank records, and it is likely that as many more hours will be occupied with the affairs of other banks which the District Attorney hopes to introduce into evidence on the groundwork laid by Robin's statement that Hyde asked him to get his friends to help out the Carnegie Trust Company and promised in return to make them allowances of city funds.

Expect to Quash Indictment.

The trial was delayed at the outset yesterday first by the argument of a case on the calendar before Justice Goff entirely disconnected with the Hyde case, and then by the submitting of a brief by John B. Stanchfield in support of his contention that the indictment against Hyde should be dismissed on the grounds that its counts were insufficient to prove a crime. Justice Goff accepted the brief and authorized the District Attorney to file an answering brief. The question will be argued at the conclusion of the case of the prosecution, and both Mr. Stanchfield and Mr. Steuer are hopeful to the point of confidence that Justice Goff will take the case away from the jury and dismiss the indictment.

It was 11 o'clock, therefore, before Robin was recalled to the stand for further cross-examination. He was under a fire of questions by Mr. Steuer for more than an hour and a half, and in that time he did not falter. If anything, he made a more satisfactory witness than he had on Thursday, for he no longer wore a sneering smile and conducted himself with more apparent respect for the lawyer who was questioning him.

Mr. Steuer, as he had done the day before, practically separated his examination into fixed divisions. At the start he sought to develop further his contention that Robin and the institutions with which he was connected were closely allied to the Carnegie Trust Company by common financial interests and were so involved in the affairs of the Carnegie that disaster to the latter meant disaster to Robin and the various companies which he had organized or in which he was heavily interested.

Next the lawyer questioned Robin on his association with Hyde, endeavored to show that the $130,000 loan was a repayment of a loan he had taken from the Carnegie Trust Company, and not a loan made by him. He sought to reflect on Robin's integrity of purpose in protesting to Hyde that the Northern Bank's bond for city deposits was not adequate, whereas the lawyer contended the deposits had been in excess of the bond for months. Mr. Steuer also endeavored to trap the witness into an admission that he attempted to bribe the then City Chamberlain, an especially grave offense for an officer of a bank in the eyes of the law. He reverted again to his deserted father and mother and to the insanity proceedings through which he had passed.

Personal Questions Barred Out.

Justice Goff barred all questions along this line, however. Then he took up the conversations with Montgomery in the Tombs and tried to show that Robin once had said he knew nothing to Hyde's discredit, but would have to testify against the Chamberlain, nevertheless, to save himself. It was with Robin's intimate connection with the interests of the Carnegie Trust Company that Mr. Steuer began his examination.

Mr. Steuer asked Robin whether the Fidelity Development Company and the Washington Savings Bank had had deposits with the Carnegie Trust Company on Aug. 22 and 23, 1910. Mr. Moss objected, and in response to Justice Goff's question as to what he wished to show, Mr. Steuer said earnestly:

"We wish to prove that a number of Robin's corporations had accounts in the Carnegie Trust Company, and that they were so interdependent that it was a thing of vital necessity to them to have the Carnegie Trust Company saved. If we can show that this was the impelling motive for the $130,000 loan it will be important proof that Hyde was not the impelling force in the matter."

Justice Goff excluded the questions, however, and Mr. Steuer in a series of questions ran over Robin's interests at the time of the loan and developed the fact that several of his enterprises had accounts with the Carnegie Trust Company. Some were large and active, and others were not, said Robin, and in answer to Mr. Steuer's questions he specified that the Northern Bank had a deposit of $250,000 with the Carnegie Trust Company, and the Washington Savings Bank an account of between $50,000 and $60,000. These were all the accounts he could recall with the Carnegie Trust Company, though with his own bank, the Northern, he said:

"I should say the Washington Savings Bank had an account with us of about $50,000. I should think the balance of the Fidelity Development Company was about $30,000."

"How about the South Shore Traction Company?" asked Mr. Steuer.

Robin replied that this and some of the other enterprises had accounts with the Northern, but that they were under $10,000. Then Mr. Steuer, striving still to show the close connection between all of Robin's enterprises, asked if all the corporations and companies had failed at the time the Northern Bank failed.

"No, they didn't all close," answered Robin.

The Meeting of Robin and Hyde.

In reply to questions he said the Aetna Indemnity Company had not failed nor had the Fidelity Development Company, and of the latter he exclaimed, laughing:

"The Fidelity Development Company seems to be making a very stiff fight. I have tried unsuccessfully for months to put it through bankruptcy."

The Washington Savings Bank and the Bankers' Realty and Security Company had gone under at this time, however. Mr. Steuer dropped this first branch of his cross-examination at this point, apparently satisfied with the connection which he had disclosed between Robin's companies and the Carnegie Trust Company, and with the manner in which he had discredited Robin's conduct of his companies. And then he turned to his second division, asking a question which had been anticipated ever since the start of the cross-examination by those who had followed the affairs of Hyde and Robin through the stages prior to the beginning of the trial. He asked Robin if he had met Hyde for the first time when the conference of Aug. 22, 1910, was held in Hyde's office. The ex-Chamberlain is understood to have said that he had met Robin before. Robin thought a while before answering, but finally said the meeting was his first one with Hyde.

Mr. Steuer took up the discussion which took place at this conference, and Robin ran over his testimony of Thursday, saying that it had been impressed on him that, if the loan were not forthcoming to obtain bonds for the Carnegie's account, then the trust company probably would be closed next day. He said he had understood that in making the loan he was doing a favor to Hyde. Robin fenced when it came to a question of whether the loan had been paid, saying that he did not know this of his own knowledge, though he had heard and had had things told to him.

Deposits Prior to Conference.

Then he asked Robin about his suggestion to Hyde that the bond of the Northern Bank would not permit a heavy increase of city funds on deposit, and the examination ran:

Q.—Didn't you know that the Northern Bank had $600,000 of city funds on deposit as early as March, 1910? A.—I did not.

Q.—Didn't you know that on the very day you talked to Mr. Hyde the Northern Bank had city deposits of more than $145,000? A.—No.

Q.—Do you now testify that the Northern Bank did not have more than $145,000 of such moneys on this day? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Did it come to your knowledge that on March 20, 1910, the Northern Bank had $699,326.14 of city funds on deposit? (Objection sustained.)

Q.—Do you know when the account of the city was opened with the Northern Bank? A.—In the early part of 1910.

Q.—Do you know that as early as the fourth day after the account had been opened the deposit of city funds already exceeded $145,000? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know that in all of the month of March, five months before you saw Mr. Hyde, the deposits of city funds continuously exceeded $150,000 and went as high as $600,000? (Objection sustained.)

Then Mr. Steuer took up each month separately, and of each of them Robin said he had no knowledge that city deposits had exceeded $145,000 It was then that Mr. Steuer came to his significant question as to whether the Carnegie Trust Company could not have called in Robin's demand loan. He was prevented by the court from asking many questions about this loan of Robin, and an objection was sustained to his principal question. He did make Robin say, however, that he himself had suggested a payment of this loan, but only on condition that William J. Cummins and Joseph B. Reichmann, principal owner and President, respectively, of the Carnegie, repay their loans to the Northern.

Mr. Steuer developed the fact that these loans were for only about $150,000 or $160,000, as against his loan of $230,000, and that neither Cummins nor Reichmann had borrowed the money, but were responsible through their indorsement of notes.

The Shuffling of Assets.

It was at this point that Mr. Steuer brought up the matter of the exchange of security, which the Carnegie Trust Company had given to the Northern Bank for its $130,000 loan, and apparently tried to gloss over an episode which had attracted considerable attention in the trials of Cummins and Reichmann. The lawyer by a few questions developed the fact that the first security, certain mortgages and a majority of the capital stock of the Public Bank of New York, had been given into the actual physical possession of the Northern Bank. On Aug. 31 these were returned to the Carnegie Trust Company, and an assignment of participation in the collateral of what was known as the Marcus loan was given to the Northern in exchange.

This Marcus loan was one of $213,000 from the Carnegie Trust Company to Joseph S. Marcus, head of the Public Bank of New York. Marcus gave as security mortgages and a majority of the capital stock of his bank, which had a paper value of anywhere up to $600,000. In turning over to the Northern Bank part of this collateral the Carnegie Trust Company again laid itself open to difficulty with the State Banking Department, for, whereas on its books the Marcus collateral appeared as an asset, in reality part at least of it had become a liability of the Carnegie Trust Company and an asset of the Northern Bank. This trouble was already threatening when the Carnegie got back its securities and gave in exchange the assignment of participation in them.

Mr. Steuer concluded his cross-examination by a repetition of his attempt of Thursday to introduce testimony as to Robin's sanity and concerning his father and mother. Justice Goff again barred the questions out, but not before Robin had shouted an angry "No!" to Mr. Steuer's question whether he had not repudiated his parents in open court.

His Testimony Unshaken.

The lawyer tried to persuade Justice Goff, on the strength of this answer, to allow him to bring Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rabinowich into court for purposes of identification, but the Justice would not allow it.

Prior to this Mr. Steuer had made his brief mention of Montgomery. Robin had conceded that Montgomery was in the Tombs with him and that he had had conversations with him. This was in April, 1911.

"Did you tell Montgomery that you knew nothing about Hyde, but that pressure was being brought to bear on you to make you testify against Hyde, and did you say that it was the only way in which you could get your liberty?" asked Mr. Steuer.

To every one's surprise, Robin did not make an instant denial This, he explained, was simply because he is exact by nature. Some of the words Mr. Steuer had used were correct reproductions of his conversation, so Robin admitted, though the whole sense was perverted. He was not allowed to explain just what he had told Montgomery, though he offered to do so, but he was permitted to say that he had kept memoranda of the conversations with Montgomery, which the District Attorney had, and at Mr. Steuer's request Mr. Clark promised to try to find them.

On redirect examination Mr. Moss developed that Cummins and Reichmann themselves were Robin's authority for his belief in their great wealth, and that of Martin Condon and Charles Arthur Moore, Jr. Then he reverted to his statement to Mr. Steuer that he had given up the use of his right name at the age of 5. He said the country in which he feared a frank discussion of his birth would incriminate him—testimony which he gave Thursday—was Russia, where he said he feared the laws. Mr. Steuer sarcastically asked what crime he could have committed prior to the age of 5 years, and Robin smilingly answered that he feared for himself, not because of any crime of his own, and after Mr. Steuer had snapped out once more questions as to who were his father and mother, he gave the witness up, and Robin smilingly left the stand, his testimony practically unshaken.

William L. Brower, Vice President of the Northern Bank in 1910, took the stand, and in a lengthy examination by Mr. Clark, traced the whole course of procedure in arranging the $130,000 loan by the Northern to the Carnegie. His testimony was important simply as a matter of record.

Frederick E. Goldmann, formerly assistant manager of the Tremont branch of the Northern Bank, testified that city funds reached the bank from the Receiver of Taxes, the Collector of Assessments and Arrears, the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, and from the Borough President. He said they were kept overnight, a notice of their amount being dispatched to the Chamberlain, and next day they were divided in accordance with written instructions from the Chamberlain, who decreed what portions of the whole amount should be divided among the City Treasury, the Sinking Fund for the payment of the city debt, and the Sinking Fund for the payment of interest on the city debt.

The ledgers of the bank were introduced and Mr. Clark began reading into evidence the long list of daily balances of city funds held by the Northern Bank from Feb. 28, 1910, to the day of the bank's suspension. The figures showed that an increase in deposits had followed Robin's complaint to Hyde in September.

Henry J. Walsh was the last witness of the day and the Deputy Chamberlain came to court with a huge pack of checks and vouchers by which Mr. Clark proceeded to read into evidence every transfer of city money made from or to the Northern Bank and the Carnegie Trust Company in the material period.

Walsh's testimony was of interest principally because he outlined clearly the procedure of placing city funds in designated banks and the manner in which these banks were designated by the Banking Commission at the request of the Chamberlain. His most important testimony, however, was, in effect, a corroboration of Robin's story, for he told of a conversation with Hyde sometime in September, he believed, in which Hyde said, after learning that about $150,000 of city funds were carried to the Northern:

"Is there any reason why we should not carry say $175,000 or so there?"

The conversation was significant in view of Robin's testimony and the revelations of the bank's records. Apparently Hyde kept his word to Robin, and presently the deposits increased in amount.

Mr. Steuer was in course of cross-examining Walsh when court was adjourned, and the Deputy Chamberlain will resume the stand this morning.

BEATEN AND CONVICTED, TOO.

Summary and Double Punishment for Man Who Annoyed Girl.

A nattily dressed young man, who said he was Jacob Blum, a salesman of 305 West 116th Street, was found guilty of annoying a woman by Magistrate Krotel in the Men's Night Court last night and held for arraignment to-night for sentence. In the meantime, Probation Officer Hamill will investigate Blum's character.

Agnes Reid of 89 Lawrence Street was the complainant. She said she had gone to the home of a friend, John T. Byrnes, at 1,525 Amsterdam Avenue, and having found he was out was returning to her own home when Blum walked by her side, nudged her, and coughed. She took no notice, she said, and Blum nudged her and coughed again.

At that moment she noticed Byrnes and another man, Fred C. Unger of 500 West 126th Street. She spoke to them and they told her to start home and they would follow. She reached Lawrence Street, when Blum nudged her again. This was too much for Byrnes and his companion, who grabbed Blum and gave him a good drubbing until the arrival of a policeman, who arrested Blum.

Blum tried to place the blame on the girl. He said she had looked at him and smiled. The young men corroborated the girl's story and frankly told the Magistrate they had punched Blum.

PENSION FUND 11 MONTHS OLD.

Announcement Held Back—New York Congressmen Oppose Plan.

Andrew Carnegie was out of town yesterday, and no reply was forthcoming from him to the criticism called forth by his announcement that he intended to pension the future ex-Presidents of the United States and the widows of ex-Presidents, but a statement was issued by his secretary, James Bertram, in which it was explained that the ex-Presidents' pensions were created ten months ago and that announcement was withheld until the meeting of the Trustees of the Carnegie Corporation of New York Thursday. This statement, in Mr. Carnegie's name, reads:

> The specific provision for ex-Presidents' pensions was created by deed of gift Jan. 16, 1912, nearly a year ago.
> No body of men will be so happy as my trustees and myself if the founding of the pensions for ex-Presidents and their widows, until the Nation makes suitable provision for them, induces Congress to do so. That this might be the effect of the provision was not absent from their minds.
> We are the greatest of all pension-paying nations, and yet we exclude the holder of the highest position on earth, using the greatest power, and one seldom if ever occupied by men of independent means. We should do so no longer.

Most of the New York Congressmen were out of town last night. Several of those who could be found did not take kindly to the suggestion of Mr. Carnegie regarding what should be done by Congress for ex-Presidents.

"It is a very unwise proposition," said Congressman Daniel J. Riordan of the Eleventh District. "America has done a great deal for Mr. Carnegie, enabling him to make a fortune such as would not be possible in any other country, but this pension scheme of his is not a proper way for him to show his appreciation. He has made his money by high tariffs. Every person in New York and other big cities where steel construction was used in buildings contributed to Carnegie's fortune by paying rents, and that cost still figures in the high cost of living.

"Our ex-Presidents, I am sure, will never accept such pensions. The people would not like them to do so, whether from Carnegie or any other individual, as it would be an insult to the whole American people. If at any time our ex-Presidents should be in need, the people will be only too glad to take care of them, but they will do it as a National gift, and not make of the White House an annex to charity."

Congressman Michael F. Conry of the Fifteenth District said:

"I do not approve of pensions from private individuals for any Government official, certainly not for our ex-Presidents. If there should ever be any necessity for such benefactions, the American people, through their regularly elected representatives, will be perfectly willing to bestow it as a National gift of honor. If Mr. Carnegie has a surplus amount of cash to dispose of in a spirit of generosity, I think it could very properly be applied to the relief of the laborers through whose bone and sinew he has succeeded in amassing his great wealth. At any rate, Congress may be depended upon to take care of the ex-Presidents, regardless of politics or party affiliations."

regularly $1.50

we are the house that put the blue in gray Mochas!

¶ Gray Mochas abound, but you must come to Saks' for the blue-gray variety. That is the only shade of Mocha to get, if you want the genuine article. It is a soft blue-gray, like the gray-blue dawn of the morning after that follows the night before. Scarce, even at 1.50 per pair, but we are hand in glove with the situation and have first call on blue-gray Mochas at a special price.

¶ These blue-gray Mocha gloves are correct for dress and day wear. Made of excellent quality Mocha that is as smooth as silk and as soft as a pillow at two a. m. Perfect in workmanship and finish, and may be had with regular or cadet fingers. Generous value.

in clever tan glovewear—now is the Saksological moment!

¶ Better than some gloves at 1.50. The equal of good gloves at 1.25. The extreme of glove values at 95c. Made of fine imported Cape stock, with English cut thumb, and one clasp. Prix seam sewn. In a medium shade of tan which is a compromise between brown and yellow. Regular or cadet fingers. A practical, capable glove with a lot of snap and style.

Men's Walking Sticks $1

regularly $2 and $2.50

a walking stick is an elongated first person pronoun

¶ In a similar sale two weeks ago we disposed of the greatest number of sticks ever sold by one store in the space of a single day. There were two reasons for this. First, the popularity of the walking stick this season. Second, the remarkable values. The first reason is stronger than ever today—and we have duplicated the values.

¶ Today we offer 1,800 walking sticks at the same price as before. The values are identical, but the variety is bigger and better. The woods are Cornell, lace wood, walnus, pimento, whitestone, castania, Manila, bamboo root, and genuine Malacca. Artistic with sterling silver mounts, or artistically plain. Mostly Prince of Wales hooks that will hang on your arm as affectionately as the girl who believes all you tell her.

Men's Sterling Silver Cigarette Cases at $6.50

60 worth $9.50 . . 24 worth $12.50 . . 18 worth $15.00

show this advertisement to your wife or your girl—and await results

¶ These cigarette cases are made of sterling silver, and they are finely wrought in two artistic models. Large or medium sizes. We assume that large men will want the smaller size, and small men will prefer the large size—even as they choose their wives. We should add that these cases are gold lined; also, that they come etched, hand-engraved, engine turned, and plain. Great values.

Men's Accordion Knitted Scarfs

the best knitted neckwear values in a month of Saturdays

$1 Knitted Scarfs at 55c

¶ Knitted scarfs made to sell at one dollar, and still representative dollar value, despite the great concession in price. The assortment includes four color cross stripes in all the better two-tone accordion effects.

$2, $2.50 & $3 Knitted Scarfs at 95c

¶ Yes, Sir, this really is a wonderful opportunity. They are the finest hand-framed accordion knitted silk scarfs that ever yearned for bosom confidences. They include all the latest colorings, both in two-tone accordion weaves and cross stripes. Plain and lace effects. Also, plain and striped crochet weaves. Extraordinary values.

Men's Shirts at $1.35

values $1.75, $2.00 & $2.50

the last day of this shirt sale, though a good selection is still to be had ¶ Just a few words about these big shirt values. They are plain, pleated or soft bosom effects, with starched or soft cuffs. Made of domestic and imported cheviots, Madras, and mercerized cloth, in plain colors, whites, and clever stripes. Sizes 14 to 18. Sleeves 33 to 36. Mighty good values, even if we say it ourselves.

WILSON THREATENS TO BEAT CAMERA MAN

Photographer Disregarded His Request Not to Snapshot His Daughters.

HELD UP BY BALKY HORSE

Governor Waits Impatiently on Veranda While Leisurely Animal Delays His Trip to St. George's.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 22.—Gov. Wilson spent the day in a trip to St. George's, the former capital of the island. A balky horse held up the President-elect's departure for some time. While Gov. Wilson waited impatiently on the veranda of Glen Cove, wondering at the delay, the coachman was storming at the obstinate horse up the road. The placid horse seemed pleased at the chance of delaying the President-elect. The more the coachman urged the less the animal moved, while Gov. Wilson continued to pace the veranda, looking at his watch. Suddenly a big palm beside him toppled, breaking an urn, and increasing the confusion. Finally Gov. Wilson and his wife set off in another carriage, their daughters cycling to market meantime.

Gov. Wilson for the first time became angry when a New York photographer focused his camera to snapshot his daughters as they were leaving. He always objects to their being publicly photographed, and, leaving the carriage, walked along with his daughters up the road. He had previously requested the photographers assembled to abstain from using their cameras. All respected his wishes except the New Yorker, who snapped the group. Gov. Wilson flushed crimson.

"You're no gentleman!" he exclaimed. "If you try it again I will thrash you. I can do it."

The offending photographer afterward cabled to his paper for permission to leave the island, and received in answer a message of one word: "Return."

MORGAN CATALOGUE OUT.

Volume on Watches Is Among Most Sumptuous of British Books.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Another volume of the superb catalogue of J. Pierpont Morgan's priceless collections has just been completed. The edition is limited to fifteen examples on pure vellum, one of which has been accepted by King George; twenty on Japanese vellum, and forty-five on hand-made paper. The vellum copies are among the most sumptuous books ever produced in England.

This volume, which has taken several years in preparation, deals with Mr. Morgan's collection of early watches, which The London Times says is the most important in private hands, apart from two other collections which will eventually be found in French museums. Mr. Morgan's is made up of several other collections, more particularly those of Hilton, Price, and Marfels, while single specimens have been obtained in England and abroad on the very rare occasions when such things came into the market.

It has in it a British watch made about 1571, and at least two other sixteenth century examples. All the great French centres of watchmaking are represented, and some of the best German makers.

The illustrations of the catalogue are, as far as possible, fac similes of the objects, and are executed in every instance with the actual metal, the gold and silver leaf having been tooled with agate points and impressed with very small specially cut dies.

PRISON FOR CHARLES WELLS.

Man Who Broke Monto Carlo Bank Sentenced for Swindling.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Judgment was delivered to-day in the case of "Monte Carlo" Wells, alias Lucien Rivier, &c., who was found guilty of fraud in connection with his bogus bank or bucket-shop, known as the Rente Bimensuelle, from which he promised depositors 1 per cent. per day. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of £120 ($600).

His woman companion, who was arrested with him, was found guilty of complicity and sentenced to thirteen months' imprisonment, with a fine of £40 ($200).

The court ordered that an inventory be made of the sums of money seized at the time of Wells's arrest. The question of restitution to the prisoner's creditors will be dealt with at a later date.

Wells, who became known as "The man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo" in the early nineties, was arrested in Falmouth, England, last January in a finely fitted steam yacht, in which he had flown from Paris. It was said that he realized $200,000 from his operations.

Nonconformists Get Cambridge D. D.

CAMBRIDGE, England, Nov. 22.—A step of importance to non-Conformists was taken by the University Senate today when it agreed by a vote of 435 against 326 to rescind the regulation, debarring the conferment of the degree of Doctor of Divinity on non-Conformists.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

MADRID.—The Ducal title and an annual pension of $6,000 have been conferred on the family of the late Premier Canalejas, who was assassinated on Nov. 12.

PEKING.—A decree was promulgated creating an audit bureau, which is charged with auditing the expenditures and revenues of the central and provincial Governments of the Chinese Republic.

SANTO DOMINGO.—a decree is published here, calling Congress into special session on Nov. 26, when President Eladio Victoria will resign. Pending the President's retirement there will be a cessation of hostilities between the revolutionists and the Government forces.

LUNCHEON CLUB FOR LONDON

Americans Hold First Meeting of Organization, Which Will Gather Weekly

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The inaugural luncheon was held to-day at the Savoy of the American Luncheon Club of London. The objects of the club are purely social, but it is hoped that it will be a nucleus for the formation later of an American Chamber of Commerce in London.

Consul General John L. Griffiths, Chairman of the club, presided at the luncheon. He said the club had been formed to enable Americans in London to meet each other more often.

"It is a long time from Thanksgiving Day to the Fourth of July and vice versa," said Mr. Griffiths. "The club will fill in the gaps with weekly luncheons."

The club is practically without rules and with only nominal dues.

About seventy persons were present to-day, including Mr. Stoner, Vice Chairman, and Robert Noyes Fairbanks, Honorary Secretary. Remarks were made by Irwin Laughlin, Secretary of the Embassy, who attended instead of Ambassador Reid, owing to the latter's indisposition; George W. Sheldon of Chicago, President of the National Business League of America; Hart O. Berg, Chairman of the Midday Club of Paris, and Charles E. Musgrave, Secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce.

KAHN COMPLETES PURCHASE.

Now Owns Famous London Mansion, but Will Not Live in It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—All the London papers this morning announce that Otto H. Kahn has completed the purchase, reported in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Sept. 26, of 2 Carlton House Terrace from Mrs. Maldwin Drummond, who bought it from Lord Liverpool three years ago and spent large sums rearranging, redecorating and refurnishing the fine apartments in seventeenth century French style.

As stated in a later dispatch, Mr. Kahn was not particularly well pleased with his bargain, and reports were current that the sale might be nullified. To-day's announcement clinches the matter.

The house has twenty bedrooms, six or seven reception rooms, a very large dining room and a long ballroom. The marble staircase is famous, and the marble mantelpieces are among the best examples of their kind in London. Grinling Gibbons's carvings decorate the oak paneling in the library and dining room and many of the larger rooms contain mural paintings in reproduction of well-known pictures.

According to the London Standard, although the mansion with its whole equipment has been bought by Mr. Kahn, he will not live in the house himself, but a very wealthy person, not an American, will soon occupy it.

TRIED TO DITCH CZAR'S TRAIN

Plotters Were Misinformed and Tore Up Rails After Train Had Passed.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that an unsuccessful attempt was made Monday to wreck the train on which Emperor Nicholas and the members of the Russian imperial family were returning from Spala to Tsarskoe-Selo by tearing up the rails and sleepers near Koslowa Ruda.

The correspondent adds that owing to misinformation as to when the imperial train was due the work of the would-be wreckers was done after the train had passed the spot picked out for its ditching.

WON'T BRAVE RUSSIAN ANGER

British Foreign Minister Refuses to Move to End Race Discrimination.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister, declines to approach Russia with a view to obtaining the withdrawal of the restrictions placed on British Jews. He takes the ground that such action would lead to the termination of the Russo-British treaty of commerce. Such a result, he adds, would not advance the interests of the Jews and in other respects would be disadvantageous to British interests.

YOUNG BELMONT GOT JERSEY CITY LICENSE

Married Ethel Loraine, Show Girl, There, Report Says, but Minister Is Silent.

FATHER SAYS IT ISN'T SO

August Belmont Says He's Certain of That, After a Talk with Raymond —Actress Away from Home.

Raymond Belmont, second son of August Belmont, and Ethel Helen Lindner, a show girl, formerly of the Winter Garden, known on the stage as Ethel Loraine, went to Jersey City on Nov. 14 and obtained a marriage license from the clerk in City Hall. Although the Rev. Edward Crowne of 58 Boyd Avenue, Jersey City, maintained an impressive silence when questioned about the matter yesterday, it was understood that he married the couple on Thursday.

The officiating clergyman is also Assistant Civil Engineer of Jersey City, and, though he long ago gave up his pulpit, he is still fond of officiating at weddings. It was an old habit of his to tie the knot at City Hall in his office hours, but on pressure from higher authorities he gave up this custom, but continued to exercise his privilege at his home in Boyd Avenue, Jersey City, where, it is understood, the Belmont wedding took place.

As the story was told yesterday in Jersey City, the witness was J. Henry Mullins, a wealthy young friend of Mr. Belmont's, whose home is at 18 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn. He is a son of John Mullins, a furniture manufacturer of Brooklyn, Jersey City, and Paterson.

August Belmont at his home, 44 East Thirty-fourth Street, was more than emphatic yesterday in denying that Raymond had married Ethel Loraine.

"There is absolutely no truth in it," Mr. Belmont said. "This is a very indelicate thing to be asked about," Mr. Belmont said he had seen his son yesterday and had satisfied himself that there was nothing in it.

Miss Loraine was a show girl in "The Passing Show of 1912" until the production went on tour. She had been living at the Gosford apartments, 236 West Fifty-fifth Street, but it was said there last night that she had gone away several days ago, and had not returned. It was not known there where Mr. Belmont was.

Friends of Miss Loraine said that Mr. Belmont had known her for five or six years, and they were inclined to take some stock in the reported marriage. They pointed to the marriage in California early this month of her chum, "Billy" Claggett, to Thomas S. Barnes of this city, a close friend of Mr. Belmont's. Miss Loraine had returned only recently from California, where she had gone to see Miss Claggett, who also was of the Winter Garden Company, and Mr. Barnes married.

Thomas S. Barnes formerly had a job in the office of J. Pierpont Morgan. He is the son of Mrs. Henry B. Barnes of 107 East Fifty-fifth Street, and was graduated from Yale in 1910. He is a member of the Yale Club, Racquet and Tennis Club, and of Troop 1, Squadron A. His brother, Henry Burr Barnes, is a lawyer at 52 William Street.

"Billy" Clagget is just the stage name used by Helen A. Magruder, a Philadelphia girl, who made her first appearance with the "Kiss Waltz" and then appeared in the "Passing Show of 1912."

Mr. and Mrs. Barnes are now living in the seclusion of an alfalfa farm in Primeville, Ore.

Raymond Belmont was once before reported married to a chorus girl, but it turned out that he did not even know the girl. He is a graduate of Harvard, class of 1910; a member of the Union, Meadowbrook, and New York Athletic Clubs, and a daring polo player.

In the application for the marriage license, which was the only absolutely undisputable part of the whole story, young Belmont gave his home as Hempstead, L. I., and said that he was a salesman. Miss Lindner gave the Gosford apartments as her address.

CAUTION

There is no sort of proposition in which a fair amount of caution is not necessary.

And few propositions call for so much caution as a building improvement.

The income from the finest piece of property in this city or any other city can be dissipated, partially and even wholly, by a few mistakes.

To the Owner who is contemplating a building improvement we submit our name as the better part of caution.

VANDERBILT LIKES LONDON.

No Surprise There at Rumor That He Will Make City His Home.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—Several London papers print a Newport dispatch stating that A. G. Vanderbilt intends to live entirely in England. The Standard remarks thereon:

"To those who know Mr. Vanderbilt and the many ties he has formed on this side of the Atlantic, his decision to live in England altogether will hardly come as a surprise.

"Of late years Mr. Vanderbilt has spent much time here. For several Summers he has been a popular figure on the Brighton Road driving his coach with specially imported horses from London to Brighton. His houseboat at Wargrave is the most magnificent on the river. When in town Mr. Vanderbilt occupies one of the huge flats at the corner of Park Lane and Piccadilly, the rent of which is £2,000 ($10,000) a year."

The Book of Knowledge
The Children's Encyclopaedia
A Paying Investment

The education of your child is your strongest interest and highest task. You cannot afford to miss the greatest educational help which has ever been given to the children. READ A FEW OF THE HUNDREDS OF ENTHUSIASTIC ENDORSEMENTS, which THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE receives every day from parents, educators, ministers, men and women of affairs, and the delighted children themselves. You can trust such opinions as these.

Edward Bok, Editor of Ladies' Home Journal:
After personally looking over the books for half an hour, I immediately ordered them.

Charles G. Herberman, Editor-in-Chief Catholic Encyclopaedia:
I cannot close these lines without bearing testimony to the merits of the publication, which I think will be a boon to American youth.

J. E. Frick, Chief Justice Supreme Court of Utah, Salt Lake City:
The books contain an almost exhaustless fund of useful information for every man, woman, and child, regardless of rank or station. No one, however well informed, can read the books without adding something to his store of knowledge.

From The Brooklyn Daily Eagle:
Wonders of the earth, air and sea are described in virile and sympathetic style. Reading the headings of the paragraphs at random, one is struck by their force and their picturesqueness, and no child can ever say that there is a dull moment in the thousands of pages which go to make up the new Children's Encyclopaedia.

President John H. Finley, of The College of the City of New York, says:
"Suppose a boy of ten were to spend fifteen minutes a day reading these volumes . . . he would at thirteen know more about the earth and life on it than the wisest men knew a few generations ago."

Edward Lauterbach, State Board of Regents:
Seriously, of all the pedagogic and educational methods that have been devised, THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE ranks foremost.

Richard Lloyd Jones, Editor Wisconsin State Journal:
It is a condensation of the life of the whole world, made comprehensible to the child by simple, direct language, and interesting by a great wealth of illustrations.

San Francisco Chronicle:
The illustrations of the "Book of Knowledge" are superb.

Literary Digest:
The world's knowledge must thus be said to be epitomized in a clear and popular style. . . . Adults as well as children will be fascinated alike by the luminous text and the illustrations.

The Philadelphia North-American:
The half hundred best juvenile books of all Christendom would scarcely be so useful or so delightful to young people as are these picturesque and comprehensive volumes.

Boston Transcript:
It is not a difficult task to praise this work. The children will devour it. We have no doubt that many times the grown-up folks will come to this work in preference to their own encyclopaedia.

CHILDREN RUN AWAY TO PAINT PICTURES

Beatrice Scott, 11 Years Old, and Gertrude Larkin, 12, Elude Pursuit for 30 Hours.

COME HOME WHEN HUNGRY

Wander About Edgewater While Parents and Police Search on Both Sides of the River.

Beatrice Scott, 11 years old, of 67 West Ninety-sixth Street, and Gertrude Larkin, 12, of 106 West Ninety-sixth Street, ran away after school on Thursday. After their parents and the police had spent all of Thursday night and yesterday hunting for them on both sides of the Hudson River, the two children came home at 11 o'clock last night and announced that they were tired and hungry and that they "had not intended to worry anybody."

They had spent the greater part of the time painting, they said, in the Palisades, and had slept in a trolley station in Lavonia. They were hungry and tearful, and were glad to get to bed after they had something to eat.

Mr. Scott at the time the children returned was hunting in the woods of the Palisades, while Mr. Doyle was watching the trolley cars as they unloaded their passengers at the ferry station.

The two girls crossed to the city by way of the Fourteenth Street Ferry. The last heard of them before they reached home had been at 5 o'clock in the afternoon when a woman near Edgewater had given them 10 cents to pay their ferry fare to New York.

The children attended the parochial school of the Church of the Holy Name of Jesus in West Ninety-sixth Street. Beatrice Scott is the daughter of Winfield Scott, a publisher, and Gertrude Larkin lives with her mother and stepfather, Edmund Doyle of the City Dock Department.

The girls were reprimanded at school Thursday, and the teacher ordered both to remain an hour after the session closed. The two went home shortly before 5 o'clock.

Went After Flowers for Mother.

It was Beatrice's mother's birthday anniversary, and the girl was sent out to buy some flowers. At the same time Gertrude obtained permission from her parents to leave the house for a short time. Beatrice, it was afterward learned, took with her a plaid school satchel and a small bank containing about $3.

When the children failed to return home their parents became alarmed, but as Beatrice Scott had often jokingly told her father that some day she would run away, Mr. Scott at first thought his daughter was playing a joke. As the evening passed and she did not return, he went out to hunt for her. He learned she had gone to a near-by store, where she had bought three paint brushes, an assortment of black and white picture post cards, and some candy.

Mr. Doyle in the meantime had started to look for Gertrude Larkin, and the two fathers met in the West 100th Street Station at 10 o'clock and reported the disappearance of the girls to Lieut. William Maher. The fathers, accompanied by detectives, searched until daylight. They hunted through the park of Riverside Drive, and Italians working on the new aqueduct were seen and questioned. Mr. Scott, fearing his daughter might have been lured away, searched the cellars of neighboring tenements, but without result.

The first promising clue the fathers obtained came to them from Patrick Daly, who keeps a restaurant opposite the Fort Lee ferry house in Edgewater. The police had sent out a general alarm for the girls yesterday morning. Daly was in his restaurant at 7 o'clock yesterday morning when two well-dressed girls walked in. They ordered coffee and said they were on their way to school in Englewood.

Daly later in the day came to this city to visit his sister. In an afternoon newspaper he read of the missing girls. Their description tallied exactly with that of the two who had been in his restaurant and he went to the home of Mr. Doyle and then to Mr. Scott.

Another Clue from Grocer.

The three men went to Edgewater. They learned that the girls after visiting the restaurant had purchased some crackers of H. H. Lubben, a grocer. They had asked Lubben the way to the Palisades, and the last he had seen of them they were going in that direction.

In automobiles, last night, friends of the parents and reporters traced the children to West Palisade. It was learned from cottagers there that the girls had visited them, and had attempted to sell some hand painted postcards. After they had visited half a dozen of the cottagers they went to a neighboring pond to play. They spent an hour at the pond, and left between 12 and 1 o'clock.

None of the cottagers remembered the direction they went on departing. Both Scott and Doyle were puzzled to know where the girls could have spent the night, but a trolley car conductor said they had spent the night at a trolley station in Lavonia, about three miles from Edgewater.

They appeared again in Edgewater long enough to buy a newspaper, and then, with the exception of their call on the woman who gave them the money for ferry fare, they were lost to view until they appeared at home at 11 o'clock last night.

NEW ORLEANS FRAUDS GROW.

Federal Commissioner Indicted in Connection with Election Scandal.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—A surprising turn in the Grand Jury investigation of the election scandal in New Orleans came to-day when indictments were returned against Arthur H. Brown, United States Commissioner; G. Prudhomme, and S. Palaque, charging false and fraudulent certification of the vote. This makes at total of twenty city election officials indicted by the Grand Jury, which barely has begun its investigation.

In to-day's indictments it is stated that 330 votes were cast at one polling place; that while the election officials swore that the entire vote was cast in favor of the proposed Constitutional amendment No. 11, known as the "grandfather clause," yet there were only 213 votes in favor of the amendment and 51 against it.

On a Constitutional amendment permitting women to hold office the box in one river-front precinct, upon being counted, showed 32 for and 64 against the amendment, while the tally sheets showed 6 votes for and 175 against it. It is said that nineteen other proposed amendments received like treatment.

TREASURY VETERAN OUT.

MacVeagh Thinks Assistant Treasurer an Obstacle to Reforms.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—It became known to-day that Gideon C. Bantz, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, had resigned at the request of the President on recommendation of Secretary MacVeagh. Following so closely the resignation of Lee McClung as Treasurer the retirement created great surprise. Mr. Bantz was originally appointed by President Grant, and has been considered invaluable by Treasurers of the United States in the last forty years.

No charges were brought by Secretary MacVeagh against Mr. Bantz, but the Secretary believed he stood in the way of desired reforms. It is understood to be the purpose of Mr. MacVeagh to ask Mr. Bantz to remain in the service as chief of a division in the Treasurer's office.

Christian S. Pierce of Nashville, Tenn., a Democrat, who is now Chief of the Division of Postal Savings Accounts, will probably accept the Assistant Treasurership.

HOE BOOK SALE ENDS; TOTAL, $1,932,060.60

George D. Smith the Purchaser of About Half of the Great Collection.

FIGURES BREAK ALL RECORDS

The $50,000 Gutenberg Bible the Top Price of the Famous Library's 14,592 Lots.

The sale of the Robert Hoe library came to an end last evening at the Anderson Company's auction rooms with a grand total for the four parts of $1,932,060.60. There has never before been anything like it in the history of rare book sales either here or abroad.

When the sale was resumed yesterday afternoon all of the rarities, books, manuscripts, and autograph letters comprising the library proper had been dispersed. Yesterday's two sessions were devoted to auctioning off the bibliographical works which had aided Robert Hoe in forming his world-famous collection, and works on bookbinding written by himself. There was also a great lot of catalogues of sales, American and European.

The bidding was as spirited as ever, and the prices paid averaged high. In some instances the sums paid were extraordinary. The compilation by G. W. Cole of the Americana and the English literature books in the E. Dwight Church collection, which was sold en bloc to Henry E. Huntington some time ago, is an example of how prices went. It consists of seven volumes, octavo, uncut, on Holland paper. After sharp competition it was knocked down to George D. Smith for $730, which, by the way, was the highest price of the day. Mr. Cole's own copy of this same work sold some time ago for $240. Mr. Smith also paid $360, the second highest price, for J. B. Silvester's "Paléographie Universelle," six volumes, Paris, 1841, and London, 1850.

There were no less than 700 lots in yesterday's two sessions, and many of these lots consisted of a dozen or more pamphlets or books. The total for the day was $14,783.60, of which $6.521.60 was obtained in the afternoon and $8,262 last evening. The total for the twenty sessions of Part IV. amount to $262,924.85, as compared with $997,366 for Part I., $471,619.25 for Part II., and $200,150.50 for Part III.

George D. Smith, buying for Henry E. Huntington and other customers and for stock, was the largest purchaser as he was in each of the other three parts of the sale. His purchases foot up in their entirety to about $1,000,000. In this part he paid about $123,000 for the books and manuscripts, which were knocked down to him. Bernard Quaritch of London comes second with about $23,000. James F. Drake third, with about $20,300. Walter M. Hill fourth, with about $14,400, and Joseph Baer & Co. of Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, fifth, with about $10,200.

The highest prices in Part I., it will be recalled, were $50,000, which Henry E. Huntington paid for the Gutenberg Bible on vellum; $42,800, which J. Pierpont Morgan gave for Sir Thomas Malory's "Morte d'Arthur," printed by William Caxton; $33,000, for which Arthur Hoe, a son of Robert Hoe, obtained the "Pembroke Hours," and $21,000, which Walter M. Hill of Chicago, paid for "Helgas/Knight of the Swanne," printed on vellum by Wynkyn de Worde.

The highest prices in Part II. were $27,000 for the Gutenberg Bible on paper bought by Bernard Quaritch for the late Harry Elkins Widener of Philadelphia, and now in the Widener collection at Harvard University; $9,200 which Mr. Quaritch gave for an illuminated manuscript, "Hours" of the fifteenth century, and $8,300 which George D. Smith paid for the "Polychronicon," printed by Caxton in 1482.

The top prices in the Part III. sale were $10,500 for John Gower's "Confessio Amantis," printed by Caxton in 1483, George D. Smith, the purchaser, and $3,100 paid by the same bidder for Voragine's "Golden Legend," translated by Caxton, and printed in 1527 by his successor, Wynkyn de Worde.

The highest prices in Part IV. were $15,200, for "Officia," illuminated manuscript of the sixteenth century, bought by Mr. Smith; $7,800, for Shakespeare's "Troylus and Cresseid," bought by Mr. Smith for Mr. Huntington, and $6,500, paid by Bernard Quaritch for "Hours," of the fifteenth century.

A few more books owned by Mr. Hoe will be sold next week, but they will not be included in the record of his famous library. There were 14,592 lots in the four parts of the sale.

FIND SALANT WAS ELECTED.

Recount Gives Progressive Senate Candidate a Plurality of 59 Votes.

The Board of Election canvassers who are canvassing the returns of the last election in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall discovered yesterday that 148 votes which had been cast for Henry Salant, the Progressive candidate for State Senator in the Nineteenth Senatorial District, had not been counted for him. This gave Mr. Salant a plurality of fifty-nine votes, and he was therefore elected over George W. Simpson, Democrat, and Josiah Newcomb, Republican.

The unofficial returns gave Mr. Simpson a plurality of 109 votes. Mr. Salant, who is a lawyer, will be the only Progressive member of the Senate from this city. His Senate District is part of the Nineteenth Congress District, which elected Walter M. Chandler, Progressive, to Congress.

FALL KILLS A STENOGRAPHER

Had Forgotten Her Keys and Was Going to Her Room Down the Fire Escape

In attempting to get to her room in an apartment on the top floor of the six-story house at 611 West 141st Street, Miss Gussie Sivitter, 28 years old, who had forgotten her keys, sought to descend from the roof by a fire escape ladder early yesterday morning and falling to the sidewalk was killed.

Miss Sivitter had been visiting friends with Harry E. Cross, of 539 West 165th Street, and had forgotten her keys. Escorted by Mr. Cross, she reached home early in the morning, and Miss Sivitter ascended to the top floor in the elevator.

It is supposed that she tried to awaken Mrs. Nichols, in whose apartment she lived, and failing to do this, went up to the roof and tried to reach her room by going down the fire escape. She lost her grip on the ladder in the act of descending.

Andrew Jones, the elevator boy who heard the body strike the sidewalk, called Dr. Frank Solley of 185 Hamilton Place, but he could only pronounre the girl dead. She came from Waterbury, Conn., and had made New York her home for the last five years.

HARPER'S
MAGAZINE for CHRISTMAS
A Hitherto Unpublished Story of Rare Charm by MARK TWAIN

THIS is a strangely delicate and beautiful story of dream adventure—"My Platonic Sweetheart," the great author called it. Through it breathes something of that same tender and sympathetic feeling for girlhood that one finds in his "Joan of Arc."

Among the other distinguished contributors are
Thomas Hardy — W. D. Howells
Norman Duncan — Alice Brown
Margaret Cameron — Perceval Gibbon

And now a word about
HARPER'S for 1913

WHAT is there in one magazine which puts it above another? What quality makes one eagerly await its coming? Is not the answer this: there are classes among magazines just as there are in society. You like the Magazine because it is of your sort; its manners are the manners to which you are accustomed; its standards are your standards; its ideals, your ideals; and above all it always and invariably interests you.

This vital quality of interestingness is the foundation upon which the great structure of Harper's Magazine has been builded, and with such success that the cash receipts from subscriptions last year (this year's subscribers) were the largest in its history. To give any complete outline of the plans which will make the coming year one of extraordinary interest is impossible, but a few notable features may be mentioned.

SIR GILBERT PARKER'S GREAT NOVEL
Of this great serial it is necessary to say only a word; it is the author's greatest book—a story so dramatic, so tense in interest, that it cannot be discontinued or forgotten. It will be followed by

A NEW NOVEL BY ARNOLD BENNETT
The biggest and strongest thing that he has written—a tale of extraordinary happenings, rare humor, and unique interest.

STEFANSSON'S OWN STORY OF THE BLOND ESKIMOS
This is the narrative for which people in every part of the world are now waiting. After spending more than four years in the Frozen North, and covering in his travels over ten thousand miles of territory, Mr. Stefansson recently returned. His remarkable story will appear exclusively in Harper's.

AMONG THE SAVAGES OF THE UPPER AMAZON
Algot Lange, the ethnologist, is heading the expedition sent by the University of Pennsylvania to the headwaters of the Amazon, where he will venture into territory never before reached by white men—a country full of little-known savage tribes. Mr. Lange's own narrative of his adventures will appear exclusively in Harper's Magazine. There will be many other travel articles of unusual interest by such famous writers as Ambassador Bryce, Stewart Edward White, W. D. Howells, etc.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE
Harper's Magazine is the only popular magazine for which the great men of the scientific world consent to write. In its pages they will tell of their epoch-making discoveries.

THE GREATEST SHORT STORIES
A list of the short stories which have appeared in Harper's Magazine would be a list of the greatest short stories of the English language. To Harper's the great writers have always come with their best work, and in Harper's appear more short stories each month than in any other illustrated magazine—seven in each number. Notable among those whose stories will appear in 1913 are Mark Twain, Margaret Deland, W. D. Howells, Henry van Dyke, Booth Tarkington, Mary E. Wilkins, Thomas A. Janvier, Irving Bacheller, James Oppenheim, Richard Washburn Child, Alice Brown, Perceval Gibbon, etc.

Today We Present
The Wonderful Gimbel Christmas
TOY and BOOK STORES

For months and months thousands of his deputies have been working as hard and fast as they possibly could to get ready the display you will see today.

And the first thing we want to do is to invite you especially to come as early as you can today and bring the children to see the brilliant display while it is at its newest, brightest and fullest.

The TOY STORE is a dream of Christmas delights, from its towering Christmas tree with its twinkling lights, and the genial Santa Claus who presides over everything, to the buzzing Electric Trains, the wonderful Menagerie of friendly Animals, the regiments of Toy Soldiers, the fascinating Mechanical Toys, the Hobby Horses and Wooden Toys, the Games and all the rest.

And the DOLLS! There is a bewitching parade of them that is a full city block long, and with over 500 different kinds, from the fine big Dolls as large as a three-year-old child to the littlest Dolly you can imagine. And Houses for them to live in, and everything to clothe them and keep them well and happy!

Today everything will be bubbling with excitement. And nobody can help catching the Christmas spirit, from grandfather down to the tiniest toddler.

The Christmas BOOK STORE contains every gift book that has been brought out this season, with each separate division arranged for easy inspection. The collection of Children's Books is remarkable—a whole table is devoted to Mother Goose in various editions. There are Picture Books of every description, beginning with the little Toy Books at 5c. There are interesting new Books of travel and biography; a complete collection of the admirable Everyman's Library, with its more than 600 titles, which make charming yet inexpensive remembrances.

Together these great stores stretch a city block each way, with plenty of light and air and space to get about in to see and admire everything to your heart's content.

Again we remind you that an hour spent in these unhurried early shopping days is worth half a day later, in the amount you can accomplish and the comfort you will have.

Welcome and COME EARLY!

MEN'S OVERCOATS at $17.50
That We Are Usually Proud to Present at $22.50 to $27.50

Incidentally our pride in these excellent Winter Overcoats is no wise lessened.

The makers merely accepted less money for some surplus lots than is their habit.

And, as we wouldn't sell the same Overcoats at two different prices, we lowered our former prices on broken lots of the same styles to match.

In point of fact, the Overcoats are more desirable than ever because the time for men to wear them is just so much nearer.

There are Ulsters and Greatcoats, Chesterfields and Patch Pocket Coats in the assemblage, all in superb all-wool fabrics and with all sizes from 33 to 46 somewhere in the group.

$17.50 each today, though still in the $22.50 to $27.50 class. Fourth Floor

Last Call for These
Men's $1.50 to $2.50
Shirts at 95c

For there were only 1,500 of them to start with, and they looked so good yesterday—at 95c—to men who are used to paying $1.50 to $2.50 for the same shirts, that we fully expect to have but a few scattered remnants on our hands by tonight. The range of patterns is unusually fine, in madras, with woven stripes, or fine printed percales—all with attached cuffs.

Recruited from the broken assortments in our regular stock, and a particularly excellent purchase; now at 95c a Shirt. Main Floor

WEEMS SHOT WOMAN, KILLED HIMSELF

Son of Wealthy Baltimore Family Wounded Mrs. Estelle Baggott of New York in Reno.

RUINED MY LIFE, HE SAID

Man Attacked Victim in Her Dressing Room in Bath House—Notes Show He Had Mental Trouble.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Estelle Baggott of Los Angeles, and formerly of New York, was shot, probably fatally, this afternoon by Harry Summers Weems of Baltimore, who a few seconds afterward killed himself by sending a revolver bullet into his right temple. The woman is in a hospital, and it was said there to-night she had practically no chance of recovery. Weems's first shot struck her in the abdomen. The wound caused such intense pain that medical men were compelled to give her powerful drugs to ease her suffering.

The double shooting caused great excitement in the divorce colony, most of the members of which circle knew that Weems belonged to a highly respected Baltimore family.

The tragedy occurred in a bathhouse at Moano Springs. Mrs. Baggott was in her dressing room when Weems, uttering angry words, rushed from his own compartment and fired at her at close range. She dropped with a single cry, whereupon the man, evidently assuming he had killed her outright, turned the pistol against his head, and again pulled the trigger. He fell into the swimming pool, and was dead when taken out of the water.

That the crime was not the outcome of a moment's impulse was shown by letters Weems had written in the last two days. In them he said he intended to kill Mrs. Baggott and himself. He told of many experiences with women, and referred to former wives. It was apparent from the general tone of the notes, as well as from assertions they contained, that the writer either was demented or was suffering from prolonged mental strain. A note written by Weems and addressed to Police Chief Hillhouse follows in part:

> I am awfully sorry to have to resort to such a measure, but when a woman runs away after making a man go to every extreme to get money for her, and then refuses to come to his aid, it's time to quit. And yet I idolize her. Now that she has another, she leaves me to face the pen.
> Kindly notify my brother in Baltimore. This woman, Estelle Baggott, has ruined my life. She has already ruined one life, her husband's, whom she comes here to get rid of. This is my second attempt, and I hope it will be the last.

Weems, in a longer letter, wrote, "Born in luxury, to die of a broken heart by my own hand, for a woman!" He related that he was born in Mobile in 1876. His parents moved to Baltimore in 1880. He attended the Bordentown Military Institute, then the New York Military Academy. Weems said he met a girl from Charlotte and married against his parents' wishes. She went on the stage and died when young. Then he met an old sweetheart, Ada Crosby, daughter of a police sergeant in Richmond, and married her. His parents were angered, and a divorce resulted. Next he met, in Washington, Iva Moore, afterward wife of Wasey Edinger; she discarded him, he said.

In Buffalo he fell in love with Catherine Wheeler. They were married. After five years she left him. He shot her and himself. He was charged with an attempt at murder, but got off. A divorce followed and he went to California. There he met Estelle Baggott. She left him broken-hearted, he wrote. He returned to New York to forget her, but could not. He added:

"I soon returned to see her again, having the old love, and to pay the penalty."

Mrs. Baggott and Christine S. Barrett came here from Los Angeles on Nov. 11. They shared a suite in a prominent hotel. Weems, who was a brother of J. W. Weems of 331 North Howard Street, Baltimore, prominent in steamship interests, arrived on Wednesday. He registered in another hotel, where he said he had no occupation.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—Harry Summers Weems, who shot Mrs. Estelle Baggott in Reno to-day, was a son of Mr. and Mrs John C. Weems of this city. His father is a retired business man. Harry Weems was 36 years old and had been leading a roving life for fifteen years. Two years ago he shot a woman in Buffalo, but got out of the difficulty. Soon afterward he visited his parents for the first time in many years.

The news of the Reno tragedy was broken to his mother to-night.

"I expected just such an ending," she said. "My boy has been a wanderer for years. He has given me lots of trouble. His shortcomings were gambling and fondness for women. The last time he visited us he told me that he had been married four times, and I believe all of those women are alive. I do not know them nor where they live.

"My son was a graduate of the New York Military School on the Hudson. He had a fine education and always made a good living wherever he wandered."

SULZER'S SECRETARY TALKS.

Believes Coming Governor Will Rank as a Great Reformer.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 22.—Chester C. Platt, Governor-elect Sulzer's private secretary, was in Albany to-day. He said he was not authorized to outline the plans of the new Governor, but believed that Mr. Sulzer "will be one of the greatest reform Governors the State ever had."

"If Mr. Sulzer has a boss," said Mr. Platt, "his name is Legion and that Legion is composed of the Democratic and independent editors of the State, whose opinion is a reliable guide as to the wishes of the voters and the interests of fundamental democracy and good government."

He said he hoped to see adopted amendments to the direct primary law which would reduce the influence of party bosses to the vanishing point.

Asked if he thought the new Assembly and Senate would co-operate with Mr. Sulzer, Mr. Platt said:

"I am glad to say that from all the letters, which are many, that have come to me from Assemblymen and Senators, I believe the Legislature will be in harmony with the Governor."

He believed that what Mr. Sulzer desired to do would be in harmony with the avowed principles of Gov. Wilson.

SOCIALISTS SPENT $4,899.

State Party Had a Surplus of $320 After the Campaign.

ALBANY, Nov. 22.—The State Socialist Party received $5,219 and spent $4,899 during the last campaign, according to a statement filed with the Secretary of State to-day.

The Thomas Carmody Campaign Committee, which worked for the election of Attorney General Carmody, expended $2,329.

The Kings County Republican Committee spent $30,990, of which the Republican State Committee contributed $25,000.

The expenses of the Westchester County Democratic Committee were $11,290.

The Westchester County Progressive Committee received $15,412 and spent $14,011. Among those who contributed were David M. Goodrich, $4,000; Alexander Cockran, $3,500; George W. Perkins, $1,000; Astor estate, $250.

The Orange County Progressive Committee spent $1,484.

The expenditures of the Albany County Republican Committee totaled $29,499. The Republican State Committee gave $2,000 and William Barnes, Jr., and Mayor James B. McEwan each $200.

AMAZES GREEK FACULTY.

Thomas Healy's Examination in the Iliad Shows Astonishing Memory.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Faculty of Georgetown University to-day is discussing the feat of Thomas Healy, a junior, who successfully passed a grueling examination in Greek, going through with the twenty-four books and 15,693 lines of the Iliad as though Greek were his native tongue.

Healy, who is merely a boy, and who has been "grinding" in Greek only two years, astonished the examining board with his exhibition of memory and his understanding of the dead language. The lad is a native of Washington.

GRANT MEMORIALS ON VIEW.

Late General's Widow Presents Them to National Museum.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Through the courtesy of Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant many objects of general interest and historical significance have recently come to the United States National Museum, where they are on exhibition in the Hall of History in the old museum building.

The collection consists of about 100 articles, memorials of the late Major Gen. Frederick Dent Grant, son of Gen. U. S. Grant. Most of the objects presented to the museum by his widow relate to his military career. Among them are several uniforms, swords, revolvers, and other accoutrements, as well as many military ornaments and mementos of the campaigns in which he participated.

There are four of the General's uniforms: That of a West Point cadet, which the General wore on the occasion of his graduation from the Academy in 1871; that of a Lieutenant Colonel of cavalry, worn when he was aid on the staff of Lieut. Gen. Philip Sheridan, from 1873 to 1881; the full-dress uniform, and the special uniform for evening wear of a Major General, both of which were worn in the last years of his life while commanding the Department of the East. There are two campaign hats, several swords, pistols and canes, and the saddle, saddle cloth, bridle, boots, and spurs which were carried by the General's horse in his funeral procession.

Of particular interest are some worn and tattered service flags which flew from the headquarters of the General at the several posts which he occupied. Among the smaller mementos there are many buttons, some knots, sashes, rank straps and epaulets, and military devices and decorations which bear significantly on the many commissions and campaigns of Gen. Grant. A leather dispatch case which was presented to him by his daughter, the Princess Cantacuzene, and a section of bamboo used for a similar purpose by an insurgent officer in the Philippines represent the extremes in styles of dispatch cases.

Several of the articles reminiscent of the Philippines campaign were taken from native warriors by the General himself. Among them are some knives and machetes which have an exceptionally dangerous appearance. A pair of French duelling sabres of excellent steel and fine workmanship, a present from a French officer, is included in the collection; and the service sword carried by the General in the Philippines is also conspicuous among the relics.

The new exhibits have been arranged in close proximity to the five cases of mementos and relics of the Grant family, which relate especially to Gen. U. S. Grant. A few interesting objects relating to him have also been presented to the museum by Mrs. Grant. They include an old-fashioned, heavy, fur-lined coat, trimmed at the collar and cuffs with deep brown fur; an ivory-handled driving whip presented to Grant when he was President, and two leather cigar cases which bring to mind the General's well-known fondness for smoking.

ATTACKS ON GAYNOR AT WHITMAN DINNER

District Attorney Objects to Comparison of New York's Morals with Other Cities'.

DR. ABBOTT ADDS A BLOW

Praising Whitman for His Stand Against the Mayor—Others Demand War on Vice.

District Attorney Whitman was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Aldine Club in its rooms, 200 Fifth Avenue, last night. He aroused enthusiasm by attacking Mayor Gaynor's social philosophy, as the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott had done by a direct thrust at the Mayor himself, and as Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of The Century Magazine, had done by an attack on Tammany Hall.

Referring to Mayor Gaynor's famous utterances on the social evil, Mr. Whitman said:

"I have no sympathy with those whose ideal is that this city should be as good as any city of its size. I am impatient with those who say that New York is as good as London, or Paris, or Berlin. In the language of my profession, such statements are incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial. I care not whether the gentleman speaking has been in London and found there conditions on its streets which he thinks are worse than those here. It angers me to hear that we cannot expect to be better in a great cosmopolitan city of 4,000,000 people. That's not the question. Our ideal should be to make it as good as it can be made. I have lived in New York only a short time—some nineteen years—and I have seen the city grow better in my time. We can make it better for ourselves, splendid as it is, and hand it on better to our children for having lived in it."

Mr. Whitman praised the assistants in his office, the grand juries and the petty juries in the Rosenthal case, and said he had been heartened because men in all these groups, and "even in the police in a great many instances," had "done their duty fearlessly, like patriots, devotedly, true to the best ideals of citizenship."

At the outset of the speaking Charles L. Patton, president of the club, took great pains to dispel an impression that the dinner, which was attended by 150 men, had been given to launch a Mayoralty boom, but he could not stop speakers who followed him from covertly hinting at it. Mr. Patton said:

"Our purpose is not to launch political booms. There are no booms or boomlets around here."

Robert Underwood Johnson, editor of the Century Magazine, said:

"I am very glad to come here to-night to pay my tribute to the bravest man in New York City. It is easy to find men skilled, learned in law, and expert in the trial of criminal cases, but a man of ultimate courage, of patience in the pursuit of his object, is the rarest of all in public office."

"We have just closed a great political campaign and we are now on the eve of a campaign which cannot be called political, and which will be ruined if political considerations are injected into it. We are called upon to rid our city of a great, outrageous incubus. It is ridiculous to say that Tammany Hall is not responsible for the situation which makes our lives uncertain, which puts our property at the mercy of grafters, and which brings the blush of shame to our cheeks. We need a man like Cato, we needed a thousand like him, to say 'Carthage must be destroyed.' There are men who say that this city must be forever chained to the chariot wheel of iniquity. I cannot agree with them. The most appalling thing to me in the whole experience through which we have just passed is that the underworld believed it would be impossible for protected vice to be exposed. Mr Whitman has exploded that idea. That is not enough. We must rid our city of the burden of the system, under which it has been stated to me that the minimum annual graft is $8,000,000."

Dr. Lyman Abbott said:

"I wonder if we all realize the great hazard Mr. Whitman took in getting done the great task for which we honor him to-night. I say great hazard and speak not only of that to his life. It was a hazard to stand as he did, almost alone, facing the police authority of the city, facing (and I shall speak plainly, for I know no other way,) facing the chilliness and reserve if not the opposition of the Mayor of the city.

"We have plenty of examples in American public life of men who never take a stand until the people are there ahead of them, so that we can appreciate a man who takes a stand and waits for the people to catch up to him. I am a great believer in the saying: 'A little more taffy while we live, and a little less epitaphy when we die.'

"What we need in America is the power of a great wrath, not springing up at a dramatic episode, but supporting in season and out of season every policeman, every district attorney, every criminal judge, who does his duty resolutely, fearlessly, diligently, and ready to flame out against every policeman, district attorney and judge who fails to give prompt enforcement to the law."

Walter H. Page, editor of The World's Work, said:

"It is a great thing to have in this city a man who is not afraid of anything."

Mr. Page referred to Mr. Whitman as "the real thing," and said New York City was not used to prompt convictions, which in the Rosenthal case had been specially salutary because that case revealed that the men of the underworld considered their organization perfect and impregnable.

Edward J. Wheeler, editor of Current Literature, referred to Magistrate Corrigan's article in McClure's, and said that the city was face to face with organized vice and organized crime, systematized on a commercial scale, and that the situation transcended all political considerations.

GIVE LIE TO STORIES TOLD TO AID GIBSON

Witnesses Deny Boatman Put Blocks Under Woman's Body—Attack Engineer's Evidence.

EXPERTS FALTER ON STAND

Doctor Admits Mrs. Szabo's Tongue Couldn't "Flop" Three Ways at Once—Trial Ends Monday.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Witnesses called in rebuttal to-day in the case of Burton W. Gibson, on trial here on a murder charge, attacked the elaborate defense which Gibson's lawyers have been rearing about him. William C. De Graw, Deputy Sheriff, who directed the work of recovering the body of Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo, whom Gibson, her attorney, is accused of having killed; Fred Hazen, boatman, and Larkin B. Hazen, his brother, testified that Tom Garrison, witness for the defense, did not put blocks or anything else under the body to elevate the head. John Creighton, station agent in Sterling Forest, testified that Harry Laux, principal witness for the defense, could not have taken a train for Greenwood Lake in Jersey City at the time Laux said, and could not have arrived at Sterling Forest Station at the hour testified to by the electrical engineer. Laux swore yesterday that he visited Greenwood Lake on the day Mrs. Szabo met her death, and that he saw her and her lawyer standing in the boat four or five feet apart. He said they still were apart when the boat tipped and they went into the water.

Mrs. Veronica Menschik and her daughter, Mrs. May Kendrick, gave testimony intended to show that Gibson after Mrs. Szabo's death was aware that the Mrs. Menschik who figured in the case as Mrs. Szabo's mother was not the person she had been represented to be. Both those witnesses told of a visit to their home, 417 East 147th Street, New York, by Gibson on July 22. They said he questioned them closely as to whether the elder woman's name was not Petronella Menschik, and the lawyer told them money was coming to the elder woman. They told of many questions which they said were asked by Gibson, and of their alleged refusal to consider his information.

It has been the object of the defense to weaken the testimony given by John Minturn, the Greenwood Lake storekeeper, principal witness for the prosecution. Minturn swore he saw the lawyer and Mrs. Szabo in the boat, and that Gibson had an arm about the woman's shoulders, while with his other hand he made a motion in the direction of her throat. It was Minturn who told of having seen Gibson turn the boat over, and, while hanging to the keel, make motions as if stripping off his bathing shirt. That shirt, Gibson insists, was pulled off by Mrs. Szabo in a struggle in the water.

William Osgoodby, club manager in Pompton Plains, N. J., testified: "Minturn told me that he saw the occurrences on the lake, and he knew the man was doing something, but the man was between him and the woman and he could not see what the man was doing." Osgoodby continued:

Says Minturn Was Only "Sure."

"'Then,' I said, 'you mean the man was doing something which you are sure of in your mind, but which you could not swear to,' and Minturn replied: 'Yes, that's so.'"

Osgoodby also told of meeting De Graw. He said the Deputy Sheriff told him: "We are sure of convicting Gibson." De Graw, recalled to the stand, denied positively that he knew the witness or had talked with him.

It was when De Graw was on the stand that Robert H. Elder, Gibson's senior counsel, called to a young woman in the courtroom to stand up. She was Miss Isabelle Rocchietti of Nutley, N. J., who had intended to appear as a witness for the State if required.

"Didn't you say to her as you sat beside her in this courtroom," Mr. Elder asked, "that she was to remember to say there was a mark on the dead woman's face?"

"I did not," answered De Graw, emphatically.

Miss Rocchietti asserted after the session that De Graw did not say such a thing to her.

"Had I known my rights," she added, "I would have told Mr. Elder that it was false."

A piece of embalmed beef figured in the case to-day. It was introduced by Dr. Arthur S. Moore, assistant physician of the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane and a medical expert for the defense. Dr. Moore experimented with the beef to prove the effect of formalin was to contract and distort organs. The solution, he testified, had shortened the piece of beef 6-16 of an inch. Formalin is used in embalming fluid.

Mr. Elder put to Dr. Moore a long hypothetical question, the purport of which was to ascertain whether Mrs. Szabo could have been strangled. It was only yesterday, Dr. Moore said, he had made experiments on a body to produce the symptoms found in Mrs. Szabo's case. The rigidity that follows death had not set in. The doctor said he removed the vertebrae and muscles and so made a little "window" in the back.

"When I laid the body on its back," he continued, "the tongue slipped back. The windpipe was closed and other symptoms of the present case were produced. The handling of the body of Mrs. Szabo may have so placed her throat organs and the embalming fluid may have fixed them in that position."

Crisp Cross-Examination.

"How many muscles are there in the throat?" asked Isidor Wasservogel, Assistant District Attorney of New York County.

"I don't know," replied the doctor.

"How many in the body?"

"I don't know."

"That's all," said Mr. Wasservogel.

Dr. Henry W. Cattell of 220 South Thirty-ninth Street, Philadelphia, was the next medical expert for the defense. After much technical testimony he gave as his opinion that conditions of the organs of the throat, such as found in this case, could not have been produced by throttling without leaving external marks of violence. Under cross-examination Dr. Cattell said he did not know whether immersion would remove external marks. Such marks, he said, would be of prime importance in determining the case as one of strangulation. He admitted that at an autopsy the condition and position of the internal organs should govern the findings.

"Who can ordinarily tell the cause of death," asked Justice Tompkins, "the man who makes the autopsy or the man who reads the history of the case?"

Mr. Elder objected, but was overruled. The witness admitted that the best judge was the man who performed the autopsy.

The tongue in the case of Mrs. Szabo pressed up against the soft palate, back against the gullet and down on the epiglottis. On direct examination Dr. Cattell said it might have been "flopped" in that position after death by some force, such as handling of the body. Under cross-examination he admitted the tongue could not have "flopped" in three directions at once.

Edward Clark, cook in the Sterling Forest Hotel, saw Mrs. Szabo and the lawyer on the lake. He testified they were standing, and it appeared to him they were changing seats. Edward W. Elmore, a detective, gave evidence in an effort to weaken Minturn's testimony.

Court was adjourned to next Monday morning. The jurors scattered to their homes all over Orange County.

Mr. Elder has permission to introduce another witness to discredit, if possible, Minturn's testimony. It is expected that both sides will sum up and Justice Tompkins will charge the jury by Monday evening.

Gibson apparently was much depressed when he went to his cell. He and his wife showed the strain under which they [illegible]

SIDNA ALLEN SENTENCED.

Leader of Hillsville Murderers Must Serve 15 Years in Prison.

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Nov. 22.—Sidna Allen, leader of the Allen clan, which shot up the Carroll County Court at Hillsville last March, causing the death of five persons, was to-day found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of Judge Thornton L. Massie. The jury fixed the penalty at fifteen years in the penitentiary.

The jury deliberated twenty hours before reporting its verdict. Wesley Edwards, nephew of the clan leader, who was captured with him at Des Moines on Sept. 14, remains to be tried. The trial that ended with the conviction of Allen began on Nov. 11, after the first jury summoned had been dismissed by Judge Staples because a juror had discussed the case outside the jury room.

Sidna Allen, who was sentenced to fifteen years in the penitentiary yesterday, was the last one of the Allen clan to be arrested for the murder of five persons in the Carroll County Court House at Hillsville, Va., last March. Floyd Allen and his son Claude were found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death on Sept. 11. They were charged specifically with the death of Commonwealth's Attorney William M. Foster. Sydney Edwards, a nephew of Floyd Allen, was sentenced to serve a long term in the penitentiary. Freel Allen, the youngest of the Allen clan, was arrested on March 29 and was later tried and sentenced to fifteen years in prison. Byrd Marion, who was indicted with the Allens, was released on June 1, under $1,000 bonds. His sentence was suspended in order that he might testify in the other cases that were to follow. Victor Allen, another son of Floyd Allen, was the only one of the clansmen to be released. He was acquitted on Sept. 12 by a jury at Wytheville, Va. The jury agreed that he took no part in the shooting.

TO PAY GUARDSMEN.

Assemblyman Cuvillier Will Introduce Bill Giving Per Diem Allowance.

ALBANY, Nov. 22.—That provision should be made by the next Legislature to pay members of the National Guard is the opinion of Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier of New York, former Chairman of the Assembly Committee on Military Affairs. Mr. Cuvillier, who hopes to head the committee again next year, says he will introduce a militia pay bill.

"I believe," said Mr. Cuvillier to-day, "that National Guard privates should receive not less than 20 cents nor more than 50 cents for attendance at each drill, provided they have attended at least forty-eight drills during the year. The officers should receive a fixed salary. Besides the pay bill, I propose to introduce measures providing for the consolidation of the commissary, subsistence, and Paymaster departments and making specific provisions for a staff to the Chief of Staff, along the lines of the General Staff of the Federal Army."

HAD STOLEN $1,000 BILLS.

Witness Says Sub-Treasury Teller Suggested Using Them.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Direct testimony that George W. Fitzgerald, former teller in the Sub-Treasury, and now on trial for the alleged theft of $173,000 of Government money, offered several months after the loss of the money to put two $1,000 bills in circulation, was heard to-day by a jury before United States District Judge Carpenter.

The witness making the statement was Col. Harry C. Gano, formerly Superintendent of a cold storage company, who declared that he had been approached by Fitzgerald, who introduced himself as "the man they claim stole $173,000 from the Sub-Treasury."

Col. Gano said that in a conversation some months after the loss of the money Fitzgerald, with whom he had discussed a number of business plans, said to him:

"Col. Gano, you have been offering me several propositions. I have one to offer that beats yours. You remember I told you the Government had no record of the missing bills? I'll give you two $1,000 bills. Put them in your bank along with the rest of the firm's currency. Let them lie a couple of weeks. If nothing comes of it I'll split with you. If anything does come of it you need say nothing about my giving them to you."

Col. Gano said he refused the proposition.

Capt. Thomas I. Porter of the Government Secret Service, told of questioning Fitzgerald about the discovery of the loss.

"Fitzgerald said," declared the witness, "that he thought the Sub-Treasury system of caring for money was 'rotten,' and there had been no improvement in the methods under the administration of Sub-Treasurer William Boldenweck."

KILLED IN JEALOUS RAGE.

Prince Shot Bentley and Then Hid His Body in Shallow Grave.

WARSAW, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Althose Prince, who was arrested Wednesday in connection with the murder of Frank Bentley, confessed to Sheriff Bauer this morning that he had committed the crime. He told the officer that he had known for some time the attention Bentley had shown Mrs. Prince, and that he shot him in a jealous frenzy.

Bentley's badly mutilated body was found yesterday buried in a shallow grave on the Woodhouse farm. Both legs had been chopped off near the hips, and an effort had been made to destroy the body by fire.

The District Attorney, John Knight, says that there is nothing to indicate that Prince had grounds for his jealousy.

Police Historian Called a Forger.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 22.—Charged with forgery and embezzlement, Charles W. Dickinshied, who some time ago published a history of the Philadelphia Police Department for the benefit of its pension fund, was arrested here to-day and remanded for a hearing to-morrow. He is accused by Richard R. Lutes, Treasurer of the pension fund of the Trenton Police Department, of forging his name to five checks. Dickinshied is said to be the son of a New York broker.

McKinley's Charger Strangled.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Former President McKinley's riding horse, Charger, met a violent death to-day on the farm of Albert Lewis at Strasburg. He became entangled in a wire fence and was strangled. Charger was President McKinley's favorite mount. He was 27 years old.

HARBURGER ADAMANT EVEN TO ROMANCE

Little Sheriff's Trusty Pistol Intervenes When Desperate Forsbrey Tries to Kiss His Girl.

HE SCENTS A POISON PLOT

Hears That Convicted Murderer Threatens to Escape Again and Takes No Chances on Trip to Sing Sing.

Reynolds Forsbrey, who pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and assault in the first degree, was sentenced yesterday to not less than twenty years or more than life in Sing Sing on the charge of murder and to nine years for assault. As Forsbrey walked up to the bar to hear sentence pronounced upon him Sheriff Julius Harburger stopped to his side, accompanied by three Deputy Sheriffs. The butt of a magazine pistol protruded from the Sheriff's coat pocket. After Forsbrey had been sentenced the Sheriff snapped a pair of handcuffs on his wrists and then took him to his office near the Bridge of Sighs.

Harburger, after taking his prisoner from the courtroom, said that he felt strongly the responsibility of guarding the murderer, who had proved so adept at jailbreaking. He had heard, he declared, of a threat made by the prisoner several days ago that he would escape again even if he had to murder another man. Therefore the Sheriff carried the pistol in his right pocket. On several occasions it came so near to Forsbrey that the prisoner could have snatched it away with ease if he had so desired, but the Sheriff did not think of this apparently. Most of his attention was centred upon Margaret Ryan, the young woman who aided Forsbrey to escape from the Tombs and sheltered him in her home.

The Sheriff told the reporters that after a criminal had been sentenced he sometimes preferred to take poison rather than go to prison. The Sheriff said that the poison was often smuggled to the convict while he was kissing some dear friend good-bye, therefore Harburger refused to allow Forsbrey to kiss the Ryan girl when she met the convict in the Sheriff's office. Margaret Ryan made a gesture as if to put her arms about the prisoner's neck. Out came Sheriff Harburger's pistol, which he waved dramatically, and it might be said somewhat recklessly, declaring at the same time:

"No, I will not permit you to kiss each other."

"Well, may we shake hands, Sheriff?" asked Forsbrey, with a smile.

"Yes," replied the Sheriff, still aiming his weapon at Forsbrey.

Margaret Ryan leaned toward Forsbrey as if about to fall on his shoulder, but Harburger again interfered.

"See here. I heard you were going to try and get away from me, and I tell you right now that if you make any attempt to escape I'll blow your brains out," he cried.

"Aw, put up that cannon before you hurt some one," said Forsbrey.

Forsbrey and Miss Ryan then parted, and the prisoner was taken across the Bridge of Sighs. From the Tombs he was carried in the Black Maria to Police Headquarters. The Sheriff rode in front with his pistol protruding from his pocket, while Forsbrey sat inside with several other prisoners. Forsbrey was shackled in such a way that even Houdini would have had trouble to get loose. At Police Headquarters Forsbrey's finger prints were taken, and he departed with Sheriff Harburger and his magazine pistol for Sing Sing on the 11:55 o'clock train from the Grand Central Station.

Forsbrey pleaded guilty to shooting and killing Morris Schwartzkopf, a jeweler, who was shot in his store at 8 Delancey Street on July 29. He also pleaded guilty to assaulting Max Katz, a cigar salesman at 5 Cooper Square, on the same day. On Aug. 27 he tried to escape from the Tombs with the aid of some saws which Margaret Ryan had smuggled in to him, and finally succeeded in escaping on Sept. 2. He was later arrested in the home of the Ryan girl. There is still an indictment for murder against him in Brooklyn. It was charged that he shot and killed Walter Meseritz, a haberdasher, in Flatbush, on Feb. 27. James Cassidy, alleged to have taken part in this shooting, is now on trial for the murder.

BARS WOODMEN'S NEW RATES

Illinois Judge Grants Injunction Against Head Camp Levying Them.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 22.—The new rates adopted by the head camp of the Modern Woodmen at the meeting in Chicago in January, 1912, were held to be burdensome and unnecessary by Judge Robert Shirley of the Sangamon Circuit Court to-day. He granted a perpetual injunction restraining the head camp from putting the rates into effect, and also restraining the officers from declaring delinquent any member refusing to pay them. The injunction is effective everywhere, as Illinois is the home of the organization.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 22.—A. R. Talbot, counsel for the Modern Woodmen of America, said to-night that the chief officials would immediately appeal from Judge Shirley's decision to the Appellate Court of Illinois to have the injunction suspended. Meanwhile, Mr. Talbot said, no effort would be made to put the new rates into effect.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 22.—The Minnesota Supreme Court dealt a blow to-day to the "insurgent" forces of the Modern Woodmen of America when it ruled that camps of the lodge not incorporated cannot by mandamus compel their officers to levy assessments or issue warrants on the funds of the camps to fight the increase in rates ordered by the head camp.

Judge Perry Hurt in Auto Jump.

SOUTHPORT, Conn., Nov. 22.—Judge John H. Perry, Senator-elect from the Twenty-fifth District, was injured severely in an automobile accident to-day. His car was close to collision with another machine and he jumped out, landing heavily on his head. The Judge is one of Connecticut's best-known lawyers.

ETTOR PROSECUTOR SUMS UP

Attacks Caruso as Murderer of Anna Lopizzo and Officer's Assailant.

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 22.—More delay in bringing to an end the trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso seemed certain when court adjourned to-night with District Attorney Attwill's closing argument not completed. That the case will not reach the jury until late to-morrow night at the earliest was assured, and it is probable that Judge Quinn will not charge the jury until Monday.

Speaking of illegal assembly, the District Attorney declared that the highways could not be used by one set in a community to carry on a warfare against another set.

"If, in an illegal assembly," he said, "officers of the law do not do all that, in their judgment, is necessary to disperse it, they do not do their duty. If, in a tumultuous assembly, hot blood arises and causes some one to shoot, that is a consequence of the illegal assembly. Such an assembly must anticipate resistance from the police. If the officers use their clubs we gave them the clubs to use. We pay for the clubs and expect them to use them when necessary. Otherwise we should have no law, and should be governed by the mob. An officer, in dispersing a mob, cannot use parlor manners. He must act in a vigorous manner."

Replying to the intimation by the defense that Anna Lopizzo was shot by Officer Benoit's revolver, Mr. Attwill analyzed the evidence as showing on the word of the doctors at the hospital that Benoit's revolver had not been discharged when he was brought there, stabbed, from the scene of the riot. He also argued that the evidence conclusively showed that the bullet taken from Anna Lopizzo's body was too large for Benoit's revolver.

The evidence, he argued, showed that on the night of the killing a crowd of men, acting concertedly, went from Common Street to Union and Garden Streets, "bent upon an unlawful purpose."

"If we have proved," he said, "that the defendant Caruso was in that crowd, and you are satisfied that he was there, he is as guilty as the man who pulled the trigger of the revolver. In this case all we have to do to establish the murder is to show that some one in that crowd discharged the pistol which killed Anna Lopizzo."

The District Attorney reviewed the evidence of La Court, the detective, who was with Caruso when he was arrested, and testified that Caruso admitted to him that he stabbed Policeman Benoit. He also recalled the testimony of Thomas Kanada, who said he saw Caruso do the stabbing, and the testimony of Benoit and other officers who saw Caruso in the crowd the night of the riot. The evidence, he declared, shattered the defendant's alibi completely.

Jannus Starts Another Flight.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—"Tony" Jannus and W. H. Trafts, a photographer, departed late this afternoon in a hydroaeroplane in a flight which they expect will end at New Orleans. They will follow the Mississippi River. Their first stop will be Chester, Ill., barring accidents. A hydroaeroplane in which Jannus flew from Omaha to St. Louis was burned yesterday. Jannus obtained a new machine here last night.

Underwood Buys Major Butt's House.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Representative Oscar Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader of the House, completed to-day his purchase of the residence of Major Archibald D. Butt, former Military Aid under Presidents Roosevelt and Taft at the White House, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster. Mr. Underwood bought the house on the settlement of Major Butt's estate.

Confirm Conviction of Gallagher.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 22.—Although he is now dying of paresis in the State Asylum here, James J. Gallagher, assailant of Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York, was denied relief to-day when the Supreme Court affirmed his conviction for assault with intent to kill upon William H. Edwards, New York's Street Cleaning Commissioner, following the attack upon the Mayor.

EXPECT TO IMPROVE 'BLUE SKY' LAW

Investment Bankers in Convention Are Working on a Model for Excluding Wildcat Stocks.

THINK KANSAS WAY WRONG

All States Are Expected to Do Something When Legislatures Meet—Municipal Bonds Discussed.

The "Blue Sky law" of Kansas and prospective legislation along the same lines for the protection of bond buyers in other States proved to be the subject in which the most interest was taken at the convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America at the Waldorf yesterday. It was authoritatively established during the discussion that Kansas was the only State which had such a law. Warren S. Hayden of Hayden, Miller & Co. of Cleveland spoke of the legislation as peculiar to Kansas and Oklahoma. This brought to his feet a new member, A. J. McMahon of Oklahoma City.

"I desire to state," he remarked, earnestly, "that we have no such law in Oklahoma."

"The mistake was mine," said President George B. Caldwell. "I told Mr. Hayden I thought you had. I knew you had nearly everything of that kind down there."

Mr. Hayden, however, knew of activities looking to such legislation in Ohio, Maine, Washington, Oregon, Nebraska, Indiana, Massachusetts, and Illinois, and others predicted that bills would be introduced in every Legislature at its next session.

"'Blue Sky' legislation," said Mr. Hayden, "aims to destroy the business of those who sell fraudulent or otherwise non-meritorious securities. Probably the expression 'Blue Sky' is used because the makers of bad securities are conceived as capitalizing the blue sky and selling shares therein. The object of such legislation, of course, is praiseworthy; but the difficulty is that any laws calculated to achieve that object must in some degree put limitations on those whose activities would never of themselves occasion legislation."

Thinks the Kansas Law Wrong.

Mr. Hayden declared that the Kansas law was paternalistic and wrong in theory, inasmuch as it required the approval of the Banking Commissioner for any series of bonds before they could be sold in the State, with an opinion from him that they would yield fair returns. He advocated what he termed a democratic law, which would give the investor the opportunity to learn the facts about a bond issue for himself.

Mr. Hayden urged consideration of the subject by the Committee on Legislation, and resolutions were adopted instructing it to formulate a model "Blue Sky" law, copies of which should be sent to members, so that they could use it to effect any legislation proposed in their respective States.

Allen G. Hoyt of N. W. Halsey & Co., as Chairman of the committee, reported that the subject had already been taken up and promised that the bill would be drafted.

The convention developed a lively difference of opinion when the revised constitution and by-laws were presented over a clause prohibiting the members of the association from using its name on their letterheads or advertising matter on pain of expulsion. Charles F. Fishback of Chicago presented the report, and when opposition developed took the floor against the proposal. It was explained that the committee had agreed to strike out the clause, but that it had been put back in by the Board of Governors. The argument in favor of the prohibition was that the organization was new and that it should not be put in the position of guaranteeing what any of its members might do in the way of marketing securities. When the vote was taken there was only one against the incorporation of the prohibition.

In opening the convention President Caldwell referred to the growth of public sentiment against unscrupulous dealers and promoters and outlined the work of the organization for the next year as follows:

First—Careful attention to the ethics of bond trading by our members.

Second—Pay careful attention to proposed legislation lending aid to the passage of various measures that will standardize the issuance of municipal bonds and the work of public utility commissions.

Third—Make our association a working association and not purely a fraternal organization.

Fourth—Furnish the Secretary's office with such information as recent court decisions and those of the Inter-State Commerce and Public Service Commissions; also information regarding defaulted issues and those in which money has been lost and the houses that put them out and deal in them.

Fifth—Co-operate with the public press and State and Federal officials for the elimination of all unreliable promotions by irresponsible promoters.

Robert R. Reed, who drafted the John Sharp Williams anti-trust bill, urged uniformity in the adoption of what is best in municipal bond legislation, with a view to simplifying procedure in the issuance of bonds, and improving their security by requiring limitations of the total authorized debt and removing limitations on the taxing power to pay it.

Mr. Reed proposed the framing of a model municipal bond statute for adoption in the different States, with a provision that it should be additional to the existing laws, leaving the municipalities free to use it if they desired.

R. S. Hecht, trust officer of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, discussed Louisiana municipal drainage bonds, and Col. Fred Farnsworth, Secretary of the American Bankers' Association, extended greetings to the new association. The investment bankers first tried to have the Bankers' Association organize a new section of that organization devoted to their business, which was refused and the formation of their association followed.

Col. Farnsworth's visit was regarded as removing any feeling that might have arisen from these circumstances. He said the American Bankers' Association was already too large to take on any new functions, and predicted the greatest success for the Investment Bankers' Association.

Dinner Closes the Convention.

The convention closed last night with a dinner to which 000 members and guests sat down in the grand ballroom at the Waldorf. Lewis B. Franklin, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, presided.

Frank Trumbull, Chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio, talked on "The Evolution of Business Methods," saying in part:

"A generation ago it was the habit of the railroad officials to regard their vocation as a private business, and they were accustomed to saying, in a rather emphatic manner, 'We propose to manage our own business in our own way.' Such expressions are now almost obsolete. We used to talk about railroad kings, and if some of them were here to-night we would all be glad to take off our hats to them. Next we talked of captains of industry, but regulation is displacing all these titles. The railroad business has become, instead, a profession. We are not kings or captains, but ministers of the people trying to preserve diplomatic relations between, apparently, but not really, divergent interests of investors, shippers, labor unions, legislators, and governmental bodies, much as ministers of state have to do for their respective countries."

Samuel O. Dunn, editor of The Railway Age-Gazette, spoke on "The Railway Situation."

Those at the speakers' table were H. B. Clark, Homer W. McCoy, John F. Symington, Frederick R. Fenton, W. W. Miller, Joseph B. Martindale, Mortimer L. Schiff, James G. Cannon, President of the Fourth National Bank; Allen G. Hoyt, Samuel McRoberts, Vice President of the National City Bank; President George B. Caldwell, Alexander J. Hemphill, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Francis L. Hine, President of the First National Bank; Warren S. Hayden, the Rev. Joseph Rushton, Frank W. Rollins, Charles H. Sabin, S. H. Miller, C. T. Williams, and Robert R. Reed.

MARBURG FOR BELGIUM.

Prominent Baltimorean, President's Friend, to Succeed Larz Anderson.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The selection of Theodore Marburg of Baltimore to be Minister to Belgium, which was announced to-day, is the expression of President Taft's pleasure and confidence in an old personal friend. The two have been friends for many years, and as far back as 1902, when Mr. Taft was Governor General of the Philippines, they were associated in promoting the cause of universal peace. Mr. Taft and Cardinal Gibbons were present at the conference at Mr. Marburg's residence, where the initial movement was made in this country for a benevolent policy toward the people of the Philippines.

The Marburgs have entertained the Tafts many times, and were the first to bring Miss Helen Taft out in society by giving a ball in her honor. The President has repeatedly gone over to Baltimore in his automobile to visit Mr. Marburg and dine at his house. He went there to-night for dinner before attending the opera.

Mr. Marburg was born in Baltimore in 1862. He was the son of the noted tobacco merchant, William Marburg. Theodore Marburg has spent his life mainly in scholastic and literary pursuits. He was educated at the Princeton Preparatory School, Johns Hopkins University, Oxford University, Heidelberg, and the Paris Ecole de la Science Politique. Mr Marburg has long desired to enter diplomatic life, and was considered when Robert McCormick resigned the Ambassadorship to France and again when Charles H. Sherrill was succeeded by John W. Garrett as Minister to Argentina.

During the last campaign Mr. Marburg interested himself in Mr. Taft's candidacy, and with Gen. Felix Agnus probably shared the principal responsibility of winning eight of the Maryland delegates for Taft after Roosevelt had carried the primaries of the State. Mr. Marburg is a Unitarian, like the President.

The new Minister to Belgium is a Trustee of Johns Hopkins University, President of the Municipal Art Society, a member of the American Political Science Association, the American Society of International Law, was Chairman of the Executive Committee of the American Peace Congress in 1911, and is President of the Maryland Peace Society. He is Secretary of the American Society for Judicial Settlement of International Disputes, and is the author of a number of books and essays on political and international subjects and translator of Levasseur's "Elements of Political Economy."

Mr. Marburg is a member of the Metropolitan Club of Washington, the Century, Pilgrims, Grolier, and National Arts Clubs of New York, the Pilgrims Club of London, the Bibliophile of Boston, and the Maryland and University Clubs of Baltimore.

Larz Anderson, whom Mr. Marburg will succeed, has been appointed Ambassador to Japan.

WILL STICK TO TEA TEST.

Treasury to Resist Ban on Read Test by Customs Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has accepted as a challenge the decision of the Board of Tea Appeals in New York City declaring the "Read test" illegal. This is the test established by Secretary MacVeagh for tea importation, season of 1912, to be used in determining whether all of the tea shipped into the United States meets the standards of purity, quality, and fitness fixed by the Government. Secretary MacVeagh refuses to do away with the "Read test."

Announcement was made to-day that if the board should reverse the findings of the local tea examiners in the matter of the use of the "Read test," all teas involved in that action will be turned over to the Department of Agriculture for action under the terms of the Pure Food and Drugs act of 1906. This would result in directions from the department for the labeling of this tea so as to indicate that it contained Prussian blue, talc of gypsum or other ingredients used for ceiling or glazing in violation of the pure tea act of 1897. The Department of Agriculture's bureau of chemistry, it is asserted, recognizes and uses the "Read test" so-called from the name of the woman who invented it, and would take the same stand as the Treasury.

Under the "Read test," in order to determine the presence of artificial coloring, the tea leaves are boiled and sifted through a forty-mesh sieve and rubbed over white paper. If a blue mark is left on the paper the department holds that the tea has been colored. In the use of the "Read test" to determine whether the tea has been "faced" the same method is used, black paper being substituted for white, and if the tea leaves a shining mark the tea examiners bar the tea.

New Ship for Anchor Line.

The agents for the Anchor Line in New York received a cable from Glasgow yesterday stating that a contract for a new 14,000-ton vessel for the Mediterranean service had been given to the Alexander Stephens Company, the Clyde shipbuilding yard. She will be 548 feet long, 66 feet beam, and 45 feet depth of hold, and will have accommodation for 200 first, 250 second, and 2,000 steerage passengers. She will make the passage between New York and Naples in ten days.

Each garment embodies the most recent and best style ideas of two continents.

The materials are the latest, choicest products of the finest weavers here and abroad.

And the tailoring is the kind that Fifth Avenue shops charge fancy prices for. The finest handiwork of rare experts.

And all yours to command for half the prices originally intended. For half what you would be glad to pay.

This, then, is the reason why today your opportunities are greater than ever at the Hackett-Carhart stores.

There awaits your selection newer fabrics and later styles than you will find on Fifth Avenue—and the same opportunity to average

ONE HALF SAVING

Overcoat Assortments

Of the 15,000 fine overcoats now ready, many of the fabrics and models are being held at a premium by other stores.

The cause may be traced to a sort of famine in overcoat fabrics this season.

Yet, they are here at the Hackett-Carhart stores in plenty—and at the same wonderful one-half saving that characterizes every offering of this wonderful sale.

Included are the popular and comfortable Chinchillas, Shetlands and Vicunas. Dressy Meltons, Kerseys, Elysians, Velours and Worsteds. Serviceable and practical Tweeds, Cheviots and Friezes. All of the highest standard from the world's finest weavers.

All the new shades and mixtures are represented, as well as every staple coloring. Many of the designs and weaves are exclusive with Hackett, Carhart & Co., Inc., Retail.

More than 800 fabric styles in all.

The models embrace more than 60 designs in garments for every occasion and all services—dress, business, street, motor, travel and storm wear.

Form-fitting and box Chesterfields. Shawl collar and convertible collar models. English Guard, English motor, English storm and English Raglan types. In more than 60 distinctive designs.

No style overcoat exists today but what is here in its most correct form.

Suit Assortments

The greatest collection of quality suits ever gathered together are at the Hackett-Carhart stores today awaiting your inspection.

You may choose now among more than 600 styles. Over half of them being designed to meet the early 1913 demand—consequently, the most advanced styles being offered in New York today. Many of the fabrics received from the mills only within the past fortnight.

Included are scores of high grade semi-staple designs such as are used by the finest custom tailors. Rarely, if ever, have these been sold under price.

Then there are all the neat silk mixtures, the new blues, greys, heathers and browns. Also a number of the extreme new olive shades. All in plain and fancy weaves, in smooth and rough faced fabrics.

Nearly all the designs are as exclusive as the highest cost fabrics being offered by the expensive tailors along Fifth Avenue.

Prominent among the models are the famous English, Continental, Fifth Avenue and College designs. And many of rare attractiveness that are exclusive with Hackett, Carhart & Co., Inc., Retail.

In variations and sizes for Men, Young Men and Boys.

Whatever your fancy is in clothes, you will surely be able to indulge it here—and at about half the price you expected to pay.

Greatest Hand Bag Sale In Our History

Bags at 50c., 75c., 98c. & $1.98, Values to $3.50

A LEADING MANHATTAN HAND BAG MANUFACTURER, who has been in business for forty years or more, has sold out his business and we secured a good share of his stock of Bags that we can sell for low prices which have never, to our knowledge, been equaled anywhere.

As an unusual Christmas opportunity it is a very timely piece of news.

There are five hundred Bags, in variety too large to describe individually. There is practically every good style and size Hand Bag made and a broad range of good leathers. Most of the Bags are fitted with small purses to match.

For convenience sake we have arranged the Bags in four groups. Extra space for them on a main floor table today.

Hand Bags at 50c., Values up to $1
Hand Bags at 75c., Values up to $1.25
Hand Bags at 98c., Values up to $1.98
Hand Bags at $1.98 Values up to $3.50

There are also some Bags at higher prices, which will be sold at the regular counters.

To all with Hand Bags in mind for Christmas giving this is an occasion not to be overlooked.

Main Floor.

$3.50 to $7.50 Trimmed Hats, $1.98 to $3.50

EVERY WOMAN WHO READS THIS NEWS and who has any conception of the beauty of Loeser Ready-to-Wear Millinery will at once see her opportunity to secure an extra Hat for wear on the Thanksgiving trip or to carry her through the winter.

These Hats at reduced prices are mostly from our own workrooms; velvets, velvet with moire tops, a few plush Hats, etc. They are trimmed with wings, with ostrich fancies, with quills, with ribbon and silk fancies. They are black and white, taupe, navy, brown, etc., often with a vivifying touch of brilliant color.

And every one has style of the recognized sort that has made Loeser Millinery the synonym of everything smart, becoming and in good taste.

Every Hat a good value at $3.50 to $7.50 and an unusual bit of good fortune at $1.98 to $3.50.

Second Floor, Elm Place.

The Greatest Value-Offering of the Season Comes Now From a Leading Maker—

Misses' Dresses, Coats and Suits Of $15 to $40 Values for $9.98

AS TO STYLE AND QUALITY of this apparel it may be said that the maker is one of our chief regular suppliers and that we believe no better is made in the whole country than he sends us.

These are one piece Dresses, cloth Coats, a few cloth Suits, and corduroy and velveteen Dresses and Suits, his most recent model garments and the last he will make for the winter season.

The Dresses are broadcloths, serges, ratines with lace yokes, satin trimmings and buttons The corduroy and velveteen Suits and Dresses are plain and two toned styles. The Coats are chinchillas and double-faced materials and a few mixtures, some trimmed with braid and others with velvet. There are a few three-piece Suits.

Detailed descriptions of the large number and variety of garments that make up this Sale would hardly picture to you the charm and interest of the collection. But we believe that every young woman between 14 and 18 years old and many adult women who are small and slight will find this the great chance of the season to get practical and handsome winter wear for a price far below the yardage cost of the materials used.

Second Floor, Elm Place.

Men's $20 to $25 Suits and Overcoats, $16.50

BOTH SUITS AND OVERCOATS are squarely up to the standard of style and value that mark the Clothes of our regular stocks. Indeed they are from the same makers and now to be bought at this special price only because in their making a surplus yardage of winter fabrics was used.

The Suits are of mixtures of brown and gray and some in fancy blue. The Coats are long and full garments in the regular and also in belted back and convertible collar styles. One of the very best values of the season.

Young Men's Suits and Overcoats

Special Clothing in slim and youthful proportions for young men of 16 to 20 years. Of distinctly smart and handsome fabrics in large variety. Suits and Overcoats from $12.50 to $25.

Some men look upon a silk-lined suit as they would upon a "golden bird in a golden cage."

Yet these "suits of prosperity" aren't as extravagant as they sound.

Ours start at $32.

The rich, fine feel of the silk lining makes many a man wink at the few extra dollars.

Don't yield to the temptation of too cheap fur coats!

Nothing's more faked than fur.

Ours are the same substantial quality as our clothing—backed with "your money back."

Fur lined coats, $50 to $200.
Fur outside coats, $18 to $110.

SHAPIRO RELEASED; WILL RUN A CAR HERE

Chauffeur for the Gunmen Expects to be Back in Business in Two Days.

INFORMERS TARRY IN TOWN

Though Rumors of Their Approach Come from Many Cities, Which Plan to Keep Them Out.

William Shapiro, driver of the gray car used by the murderers of Herman Rosenthal, and the strongest witness for the State at the trial of the gunmen, was released yesterday afternoon by Justice Goff. The indictment for murder was dismissed after District Attorney Whitman had made a statement of Shapiro's connection with the Rosenthal case and the service he had rendered in the trial of the gunmen. Shapiro left the courtroom with his mother, saying that he would remain in this city and would be back in business as a chauffeur in two days.

Reports came from several cities yesterday that Rose, Vallon, Webber, and Schepps were headed that way. There were almost as many rumors regarding their whereabouts as before their capture in the early days of the Rosenthal case. As a matter of fact, two at least of the informers are in town, and the other two are not definitely known to have left. Rose is under the doctor's care, being treated for an ulcer of the throat which was at first thought to be tonsilitis. Rose will remain several days before he starts for Florida. Rose, according to his promise, visited the office of his attorney, Bernard Sandler, at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

"Bridgey" Webber is still in the city and plans to leave for Europe early next week. Vallon disappeared after he left the West Side Jail. His counsel, however, believes that he is still in the city. Schepps was due to start for Hot Springs, Ark., yesterday. He said that he would defy Mayor W. W. Waters, who wired to Schepps that he would not be allowed in Hot Springs.

Justice Goff received yesterday a letter from the twelve jurors, who tried the four gunmen. The jurors said:

"The jurors in the case of the People vs. Defendants known under aliases of "Whitey," "Frank," "Lefty," and "Gyp," unanimously feel the extraordinary courtesy and thoughtfulness exercised by Capt. Lynch and the other officers under his command, Mr. Cavanagh, Mr. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, in their consideration of our every comfort during the period of our confinement, and it is our pleasure to advise you."

The letter was signed by the twelve jurors.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Detectives assigned to meet Sam Schepps, "Bridgey" Webber, Harry Vallon, and Jack Rose on the arrival of a train from New York late today, found no traces of the men on the train. It was discovered that the party on board under suspicion consisted of five bookmakers bound for Texas, and it was said that one of the number, as a practical joke, pointed out his four companions at Cleveland as the witnesses in the Becker case. The orders of the Chicago police were to conduct the informers, if they left the train, to Headquarters, where they were to be ordered to behave themselves or leave town.

LUBINS RELEASED IN NEWARK.

Gain Consideration by Testimony in Becker and Gunmen Cases.

As an aftermath of the Rosenthal case, Judge Martin, in Part I. of the Quarter Sessions Court in Newark, ordered the release yesterday of Morris Lubin and Jacob Lubin, after an indictment against them for forgery had been dismissed, on the motion of Prosecutor Mott. It was understood at the time the two prisoners were taken from the Newark Jail to testify at the Becker trial that they would receive consideration.

Prosecutor Mott explained to Judge Martin when the motion was made that the Lubins had been of great value in the administration of justice in the case of Becker and the four gunmen.

At the time of their arrest the Lubins declared that their arrest was a "frame-up" to keep them away from the District Attorney.

ECCENTRICITIES OF A COUNT.

Uptown Hotels Wonder at His Fondness for Quarters and Taxis.

A man whose name appears on the register of the Gotham as a count, and who says he is from London, is causing a great deal of interest in the neighborhood of Fifty-fifth Street these days. He is said to spend his time riding about in taxicabs. Every morning he gets a $10 bill changed into quarters before going out.

His next appearance is at the St. Regis, where he gets another $10 bill changed into quarters. These he drops into a yellow leather sack, that he carries by a shoulder strap under his coat. A few mornings ago he went down to the barber shop and took a chair. He sat there deafly when the boss barber called "Next," and continued to gaze in the direction where the manicure ladies work. But he didn't want to be manicured, and after he had enjoyed the orchestra seat for some time it got on the boss barber's nerves, and he asked the stranger to move on.

The count made his appearance at the St. Regis yesterday morning according to schedule and got his change. Then he went back to the telephone booth. A moment later he came rushing back to the desk.

"You ought to have more than one person to attend to the telephone and the cables, too," he said, and hurried back up the hall. There he changed his mind and rushed outside, where he demanded that a taxicab be called. One came forward, and he demanded that the front window be opened. This was stuck, and the count, with an exclamation, hurried across the avenue and got on a bus that was bound downtown.

COBWEB HALL SOLD.

Well-Known Saloon Brings $70,000 at Foreclosure Auction.

The property at 80 Duane Street, in which Cobweb Hall, a well-known saloon, is located, was sold at auction yesterday at the Vesey Street Exchange in foreclosure proceedings brought against Mrs. Mary J. Ferrigan by the Empire City Savings Bank. The amount due was $58,870, and the property was sold for $70,000 to Francis H. Higgins. The property consists of a three-story brick building. The ground floor is occupied by Cobweb Hall under the management of Mrs. Ferrigan's two sons, and the two upper floors are occupied as a carpenter shop.

Cobweb Hall was opened in 1840, and the business was purchased some years ago by Patrick F. Ferrigan, who became an Alderman and was the proprietor until his death on Aug. 27, 1907. He was reported to have left an estate of $150,000. On March 22, 1910, Mary J. Ferrigan filed a certificate of trade that she was doing business under the style of P. F. Ferrigans Sons.

Two judgments were entered against her for $3,713 in favor of the James M. Bell Company, wine merchants, on Oct. 15. Yesterday another judgment was entered for $2,183 by Yankauer & Davidson, attorneys for Joseph & Flesh, liquor dealers, and execution was issued to the Sheriff. Mr. Yankauer said that they expected to collect the judgment out of the surplus on the real estate sale. Business went on as usual there yesterday afternoon. Some years ago the place was headquarters of many politicians in the days of the County Democracy, and many celebrities went there to talk over politics.

MISS GARVIN'S BODY FOUND.

Ex-Governor's Daughter, Fearing Death in Water, Drowned Herself.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 22.—The body of Miss Norma Garvin, 35 years old, of Lonsdale, daughter of Dr. L. F. C. Garvin, formerly Governor, was found in New River to-day. Miss Garvin disappeared Wednesday evening. The body was in deep water, not far from the shore. Members of Miss Garvin's family said she had been unusually reticent during the last few weeks and had taken many evening walks. She had complained of trouble with her head, and had expressed a fear that she would meet death in the water. A note found after she left home read:

"I can't get the water off my mind."

That led to the dragging of the river, which is near the Garvin home.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, daughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, lectured in Brown University Wednesday evening on woman suffrage. Miss Garvin, who was interested in the question, had planned to attend the lecture and take Mrs. Elliott home with her. Members of the family were not alarmed when she failed to return. They supposed she had remained in Providence with Mrs. Elliott. It was not until yesterday that anxiety was felt.

It was found that Miss Garvin had not reached the railroad station, five minutes' walk from her home, where she planned to take a train for Providence. Police Chief Burlingame at once started to drag a millpond and the New River, which lie between the Garvin home and the station. A hat which Miss Garvin wore when she left home was found on the shore of the pond.

Dr. Garvin could give no reason for his daughter's suicide.

"I had supposed her to be in perfect health and never had a thought that anything was wrong with her mentally," he said. Alexander Marshall, medical examiner, accepted suicide as the explanation of the woman's death.

Miss Garvin was a graduate of Brown University. She had received several offers of positions as teacher of mathematics in schools and colleges.

PAIN DROVE TO SUICIDE.

Mrs. Ethel Gregory Williams Took Poison and Shot Herself.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Ethel Gregory Williams, wife of Maurice O. Williams, head of the Michigan Drug Company and daughter of Henry A. Gregory of New York, committed suicide here last night by swallowing a vial of carbolic acid and then sending a bullet into her body. She was found by her husband soon after midnight when he returned home from a business meeting. The physician he called said she had been dead several hours.

Illness of ten years' standing was the cause of her act. Though she was not apparently despondent, her ailment frequently brought on pain, which was practically unbearable, and it is presumed that in one of these paroxysms she decided to end it forever.

For several years she had traveled about the country seeking health, consulting different specialists and taking cures of various kinds, but without obtaining relief. Besides her husband, a daughter, Cecil, 7 years old, and a sister, Mrs. L. K. Butler of Detroit, survive her.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams were married in 1900. They have been prominent in Detroit social circles. Mrs. Williams was an active worker in philanthropy and charity. At the time of her death she was Corresponding Secretary of the Women's Hospital and Infants' Home.

BOMB DOWN CHIMNEY INTO A RESTAURANT

Waitress Hurt by Flying Pipe and Cook Buried Under an Avalanche of Dough.

NEIGHBORHOOD IN A PANIC

Clouds of Soot Pouring from the Windows Bring Out the Firemen—No Clue to Bomb Thrower.

Sixty persons employed in the five-story building at 70 University Place dropped their work and fled in terror at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the building was shaken by an explosion which sent clouds of soot to every floor. The soot escaped by the windows, so that those in the street thought the place was on fire. The shock of the explosion jarred those at work in the neighboring factory building and the guests in the Hotel Albert across the street. In a short time the street was filled with hundreds of frightened persons.

The explosion was heard at the fire station at Twelfth Street, near University Place, and Capt. John Whateley and Lieut. Hughes of the Fire Department ran to the building, where the crowd had gathered. Policeman Worener of the Mercer Street Station found the throng in the street too large for him to control and he sent for the reserves.

As soon as the factory building was clear of tenants, detectives from the Mercer Street Station investigated and found that the explosion had been caused by a bomb which had been thrown down the chimney and had exploded when it struck the brick work in a restaurant run by Isador Zucker and his wife on the first floor. The worst damage was done here. The stove-pipe which connected the range with the chimney was blown to pieces. May Murray, a waitress, was struck by a flying joint and severely bruised, and the cook, Mrs. Rose Wise, was covered with dough from pies and cakes which she had just put in the range. After the explosion Mrs. Wise jumped through the rear window.

The second floor was occupied by Gitelson & Hollander, button-makers. Several employes, who were at work there, were thrown to the floor. The stove-pipe here was blown across the room and a desk in the corner near the chimney was hurled twenty feet into the middle of the room. The stove-pipe was also blown away on the third floor, which was occupied by J. Jofpey, a fur dealer. The fourth floor was occupied by the man who rents the building, John Podesta. It was thought the bomb was intended to injure him. Podesta runs a saloon in Fifty-fourth Street, between Eighth and Ninth Streets, which is patronized by Italians. The detectives believed that, because he was known to have considerable money, an attempt was made to blackmail him. Podesta denied that he had had any trouble or had received threatening letters.

No clue was found as to the man who threw the bomb. The only way he could reach the chimney was by climbing to the roof of the adjoining building at 66 and 68 University Place. This is a six-story piano factory. The chimney adjoins the wall of this building and runs some three feet above the top of it.

COAL STRIKE SETTLED.

Agreement Gives Miners 21 Per Cent. Increase in Wages.

CHARLESTON, West Va., Nov. 22.—What is believed to forecast the end of the great coal strike in the Kanawha coal fields of West Virginia was announced to-day in a signed wage agreement between the union miners and the officials of the National Bituminous Coal and Coke Company.

The agreement practically recognizes the union, provides for an increase of about 21 per cent. in wages, reduces tonnage, permits the miners to organize, provides for a nine-hour work day, and gives the men now on strike preference if they should desire to return to work.

The agreement was signed by H. Lyon Smith of Washington, D. C., Secretary and Treasurer of the National Bituminous Coal and Coke Company, and A. F. Lester, President, and A. T. Lester, Secretary of the Eskdale, West Va., local union of the United Mine Workers of America.

Conditions throughout the mine territory under martial law were quiet today, except for the arrest of a girl charged with throwing stones, and the capture of Samuel Russell, alleged to have been one of the persons who fired on the town of High Coal on Thursday night.

The miners are jubilant to-night over the agreement with the National Bituminous Coal and Coke Company. This concern, owned by Eastern capitalists, was incorporated only a few days ago for $2,000,000. The agreement will affect upward of 600 union miners now on strike.

The agreement provides that:

"All the old men shall have first choice to return to work if they so desire, one week to be given in which to make application for work.

"It is agreed that 2,000 pounds shall constitute a ton.

"It is agreed that there shall be recognition of the miners' committee in the adjustment of disputes. In case the committee and the mine foreman or superintendent cannot agree, the matter of dispute shall be submitted to arbitration, the miners to select one, the company one. These two are to select the third party, and their decision shall be final."

Brooklyn Skyscraper Offices.

Plans are in preparation by Emery Roth for a twelve-story and office building, to be erected on the site of the old Academy of Music, at 176 to 182 Montague Street. The former home of opera, now covered with two-story office buildings, was purchased last month by the Brown Realties, which will erect the structure at a cost of approximately $400,000.

FLYING BOAT TRAVELS FAST.

Goes 54 Miles an Hour, Nine Miles Above Government Demand.

Special to The New York Times.

BATH, N. Y., Nov. 22.—An official speed test of the flying boat designed by Glenn H. Curtiss for use on land and water was made at the Curtiss aviation station on Lake Keuka this afternoon. It was witnessed by Lieuts. McLeary, Hart and Brearaton of the Aviation Department of the army. The boat was operated by Francis Wildman of the Curtiss School. It more than equaled the requirements of the Government experts.

The flights were made over a mile course and return three times. The boat was required to travel at least forty-five mines an hour. The time made showed a speed of 54.8, with a ten-mile breeze blowing at right angles to the course. On a calm day, it was said, the flying boat probably would show fully sixty miles an hour.

GIRL'S JURY IN TEARS.

Women Crowd Court at Trial of Stenographer Charged with Murder.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 22.—The first degree murder case against Cecelia Farley, the State House stenographer, charged with shooting Alvin E. Zollinger, will go to the jury to-morrow.

During the noon hour, scores of women stood in line waiting for the court room doors to open for the afternoon session. Many of them carried their luncheon.

Attorneys and Judges from many sections of the State, attracted by the publicity given the trial, were present.

Several times during the summing up of the case of the defense by Attorney Emmet H. Tompkins, women wept, and when the story of the young stenographer was told, several of the jurors were in tears.

"A person right in morals and mind will not commit crime," declared Attorney Tompkins. "There is no such thing as a motiveless murder. Miss Farley had no object in taking Zollinger's life. The murder of Zollinger wouldn't conceal anything. Quigley already knew the circumstances of his fiancée's relations with Zollinger, but had not cared for the details. The meeting at the park was Zollinger's arrangement—for a final settlement with Quigley.

"If Miss Farley had wanted to murder Zollinger would she have selected a city park in daytime for the scene? She could have killed him on the previous night, when she slipped a revolver from his coat pocket while in an automobile, and forced him to let her go to her home."

Attorney Tompkins, in closing his plea, announced that if Miss Farley is acquitted, she and Jerome Quigley will be married and go with the girl's parents to California, as had been planned before the tragedy.

"FORECLOSURE—TO THE PLAINTIFF"

The above quotation from the daily papers shows what too often happens to the mortgage lender.

Foreclosure suits cause annoyance and an interruption of income, even if you do not have to buy the property.

A holder of a guaranteed mortgage will never be troubled by a foreclosure or the necessity of buying to protect his investment—that is what he is insured against.

HARPERS BOOKS

Mark Twain: a Biography
By Albert Bigelow Paine

Never, never, never, has there been such extravagant praise, such spendthrift acclaim of any book. Of course it is the book of the year, but the press seems to speak of it as almost the book of a hundred years. Humor, interestingness, delightful style, fun, history, adventure, travel, the society of exalted personages—and unexalted—these are some of the hundred angles by which this book attracts. It makes a great Christmas present. Certainly the most attractive present any bookshop offers—3 volumes.

The Net
By Rex Beach

A story so full of dramatic fire that it fairly snaps and crackles. Tender love, scintillating humor, and the violence of unbridled passion, course neck and neck through every turbulent page. Yet, when the tumult and the shouting die, one remembers only the story of a love so strong and pure and tender that it warms the very cockles of the heart.

The Financier
By Theodore Dreiser

Once in every few years a big book, an unusual book, comes to the surface. We believe Mr. Dreiser's story of The Financier is such a book. It is only fair to say that it is almost brutal in its naked picturing of the lust for wealth, and the hunger for love. It is not for those who fear the fighting force of a strong man, nor is it the unfolding of a lovely life. It is a story first, perhaps a great lesson, too, but taken all in all—its bigness, its insight into larger phases of our life—it seems destined to rank as one of the great examples of modern fiction.

Your United States
By Arnold Bennett

No English writer since Thackeray has been welcomed to the United States with such spontaneous enthusiasm as Arnold Bennett. All doors were open to him. He saw more in a comparatively brief visit than most of us see in a lifetime.

Gifted with unique powers of observation and a keen sense of humor, Mr. Bennett has written a book of impressions far more interesting than the ordinary novel. Although he has lived in nearly every European country, he finds the United States in many ways the most wonderful of all.

Mr. Bennett approaches his subject in a brilliantly unconventional way—and with a full consciousness of the bigness of his undertaking. Our daily life, our society, our sports, our theatres, our schools and colleges, East and West, all come in for their share of his sane and graceful appreciation.

There can be no better Christmas present than Woodrow Wilson's "History of the American People" in five volumes—at all stores.

BOASTED HE'D BLOW UP WILLIAM J. BURNS

J. B. McNamara Threatened to Do So, McManigal Says, Just Before Capture.

ARREST FOR INTIMIDATION

Joseph Schwartz Is Said to Have Urged a Witness Not to Appear—Held for Grand Jury.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—Explosions on non-union iron works in Milwaukee, Omaha, and Springfield, Mass., were explained by Ortie E. McManigal at the "dynamite conspiracy" trial, to-day, as having been done by him shortly before he and James B. McNamara, arriving in Detroit to "clean up" that city, were arrested with suitcases filled with dynamite.

"I told James B. before we started for Detroit," he said, "that William J. Burns had detectives after us; that detectives were even coming up near the vault where we stored the dynamite, and that one of them followed me on the street when I was going with a suitcase of dynamite to blow up the South Chicago job. McNamara said if we saw any one of them we would go to Chicago and rent a room next to Burns's office, put an electric wire through the wall, and arrange to set off from our room a bomb in Burns's desk when he was sitting there. That would make an end of our troubles with him, he said. I told him I didn't think we would do anything of the kind or ever get near Burns."

That was about April 5, 1911, McManigal said. He and McNamara were arrested seven days later.

The dynamiter also testified that on one occasion he and James B. McNamara had gone to Chicago to blow up non-union work in South Chicago in February, 1911, having arranged for it with R. H. Houlihan, Secretary of a local ironworkers' union, but that when they reached Chicago from Indianapolis they found the dynamite frozen.

At James B.'s suggestion, he put the dynamite on a radiator and went to look over the proposed job. When he returned, he said, his little daughter was on the floor with the dynamite, and James B., the Los Angeles Times dynamiter, was testing a battery on the doorbell.

"J. B. laughed when he saw my little girl toying with the explosive," said McManigal. "He said, 'Tell papa what that is.' My little girl replied, 'Why, it's dynamite. I know it won't hurt me,' and kept on playing. She said she had seen boys in a vacant lot kicking about sticks that looked like dynamite. The way J. B. laughed made me mad, and I ordered him out of the house."

The job of causing an explosion in a million-dollar iron and steel plant in course of construction at South Chicago, Ill., on Feb. 24, 1911, McManigal said, "was knocked down to the lowest bidder."

"On Feb. 19 J. B. came to my home in Chicago and said we had a job to do," McManigal testified. "He said Herbert S. Hockin had been talking to the Executive Board of Local 1 in Chicago, and Local 1 wanted to have a job done and was willing to pay a big fee for it. A man named Edward Francis, he said, had told the Executive Board he had two Cleveland men who would do the South Chicago job for $500, but the Executive Board had asked Hockin whether it could be done cheaper, perhaps for $200 or $300.

"J. B. and I looked over the South Chicago plant and decided to do it. We went to Indianapolis and got four packages, each containing twenty pounds of dynamite. John J. McNamara instructed us that he wanted four explosions on the plant, saying that if we did a good job he would pay us $100 extra. He said we would have to wait until Local 1, in Chicago, paid the money, but 'Patty' Ryan had called up and said he wanted the job done."

Joseph Schwartz, who was arrested to-day, charged with attempting to obstruct justice by intimidating Cornelius L. Crowley of Monica, Penn., a witness, was lodged in jail after a preliminary hearing before a United States Commissioner.

Robert J. Foster, a detective, and Crowley testified before the Commissioner that Schwartz had told the witness he "did not need to tell the truth if he didn't want to." They asserted that Schwartz, on learning that Crowley was to testify concerning nitro-glycerine hidden at Rochester, Penn., had urged him not to appear. Schwartz was held for the Federal Grand Jury.

Edward Smythe and James E. Ray, ironworkers' union officials at Peoria, Ill., who were arrested three days ago, after their bondsmen had surrendered them failed to secure new bonds of $5,000 each to-day, and were confined in jail between sessions of court.

To Aid Indicted Unionists.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The American Federation of Labor decided to-day to ask the unions affiliated with it to raise money for the defense of the alleged dynamiters who are on trial in Indianapolis.

70 TRUST SUITS IN 4 YEARS.

Wickersham's Report Will Emphasize Work Under Taft.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A complete résumé of the trust prosecution programme of President Taft's Administration will be contained in the forthcoming annual report of Attorney General Wickersham. Emphasis will be laid on the anti-trust record of the last four years, in which seventy anti-trust suits were instituted. The total actions in the Administrations of Presidents Harrison, Cleveland, McKinley, and Roosevelt was sixty-two. Of the seventy cases begun by Mr. Wickersham, thirty-nine were criminal prosecutions, and thirty-one civil suits.

In the opinion of the Attorney General, the efficacy of the Sherman law as a criminal statute depends in large measure on several pending cases.

Fall River Line at a New Pier.

After using Pier 19 North River, at the foot of Warren Street, for thirty-eight years, the Fall River Line moved yesterday to Pier 14, at the foot of Vesey Street, and the first steamboat will leave there for Fall River to-night. The change was made to give the needed facilities for handling freight business.

HENRY PHIPPS TESTIFIES.

Creditors of Pittsburgh Cafe Try to Show His Financial Interest.

Henry Phipps, the Pittsburgh ironmaster, accompanied by a valet, two lawyers, and a private secretary, appeared yesterday at 2 Rector Street to be examined before Attorney Maxwell Lustig, Commissioner of the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Penn. Mr. Phipps was questioned by Attorney Harry Diamond of Pittsburgh, representing creditors with claims of $30,000 against the Fulton Café in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Diamond examined Mr. Phipps with a view to obtaining admissions which would establish Mr. Phipps as a common law partner in the café business, which was operated from December, 1906, to August, 1908, in the basement of the Fulton Building, formerly owned by Mr. Phipps and since turned over to his three sons.

According to a certified copy of a decree of the Court of Quarter Sessions, Pittsburgh, the license of the café, held by Paul N. De Crete, was revoked in August, 1908, because of its disorderly character and the sale of liquor to girls. Mr. Diamond tried to get Mr. Phipps to admit that he had authorized H. B. Naylor as his general real estate agent in Pittsburgh, and that Naylor had countersigned all the checks of the Fulton Café. He also tried to get Mr. Phipps to admit that he had heard Naylor had told wholesale liquor dealers and others that Mr. Phipps's credit was behind De Crete. He also asked Mr. Phipps if he knew that Naylor had advanced $19,000 to launch the café, paying for its furnishings and invitations to the opening, and had given concessions on the rent. Mr. Phipps denied any personal knowledge of these transactions, and asserted that Naylor's authority to act for him was limited. He declared that in spite of his large property holdings he made it his own business to know who his tenants were.

Mr. Phipps declined to state the amount of his holdings, and said he passed his time mostly in Chicago and Palm Beach; in the latter place, he said, he had only a modest establishment. Throughout his examination Mr. Phipps answered slowly, asking his secretary to correct him if his memory was faulty, and consulting with his lawyers as to his necessity of answering.

FOR CURBING MONEY CONTROL

Committee May Urge Law Regulating Wall Street Operations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The money trust investigating committee expects to submit its report to the House of Representatives in January, with recommendations for legislation regulating clearing houses and stock exchanges. The committee has been unable to obtain the records of the National banks, which are therefore excluded from its activities. The primary object of the legislation to be recommended will be to circumvent the concentration of money and credit control through the New York Clearing House and Stock Exchange.

No decision has been reached concerning the character of the legislation to be urged. But it became known to-night that two proposals are being discussed by the Pujo committee. One is the utilization of the Sherman law, the other to deny stock exchanges and clearing houses the use of the mails if certain proposed legislative restrictions were violated. If the former plan is recommended and adopted by Congress it would not be mandatory upon the executive branch of the Government, but merely express the sentiment of Congress.

$10,000 FOR BOOTH MEMORIAL

Salvation Army Hopes Soon to Acquire Ground for School.

Miss Eva Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, announced yesterday that a woman, who refused to have her name used, had given $10,000 to the Gen. Booth memorial. This memorial will take the form of a training school for settlement workers.

Mrs. E. M. Whittemore, who has an honorary rank of staff Captain in the Salvation Army, started the fund with a gift of $2,000. Mrs. Whittemore, before she became associated with the Salvation Army, was well known throughout the United States as the founder of rescue homes for women, running under the general name "The Door of Hope."

Miss Booth said she was so much encouraged by these gifts that she hoped to announce soon that the ground for the building had been acquired.

DEATH ADMITS COUDERT.

Appellate Division Decides He Can Now Have Testamentary Letters.

The Appellate Division handed down a decision yesterday construing the will of Charles Coudert, who died July 13, 1897. The decision overrules an order of the Surrogates' Court denying letters testamentary to Charles Dupont Coudert.

Under the will, Charles Dupont Coudert was to become entitled to letters testamentary on the failure of George G. Guion to act as substitute executor for Frederic R. Coudert. Mr. Guion qualified as executor and died on May 5 last. Mr. Coudert then applied for letters, which the Surrogates' Court refused on the ground that Guion had not failed to act. The Appellate Division held that any contingency which prevented Guion from completing administration of the estate should be construed as a failure to act.

Hedges to Defend Spence.

Job E. Hedges, defeated candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket, was appointed by Judge Malone in General Sessions yesterday to defend Frederick Spence, who is charged with the murder of Christopher Larsen. Spence was indicted after Thomas Gannon, who was on trial for Larsen's murder, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree, and testified that Spence had hired him to kill Larsen, who had ordered Spence from his home at 334 East Fortieth Street. Larsen was killed March 24.

Suit Against Fourth Ave. Loft.

Mary R. Goelet and others have begun suit in the Supreme Court to foreclose a mortgage on 450 and 454 Fourth Avenue, between Thirtieth and Thirty-first Streets, against the Jeano Leasing Company and others. The plot is covered by a new twelve-story store and loft building.

SCHRANK TO ASYLUM, DECLARES HE IS SANE

Five Wisconsin Alienists Agree That Assailant of Col. Roosevelt Is a Chronic Paranoiac.

HE ADDRESSED THE DOCTORS

McKinley and Lincoln Figured in His Assumption That He Was the Protector of the Nation.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 22.—John Schrank, who shot Col. Theodore Roosevelt on the night of Oct. 14 in Milwaukee, was pronounced insane to-day and was committed by Municipal Judge A. C. Backus to the Northern Hospital for the Insane, near Oshkosh, until cured. Before being led back to jail to await preparations for the trip to the asylum, Schrank said:

"I had expected that they would find me insane, because it was in the papers two days ago. I want to say now that I am sane and know what I am doing all the time. I am not a lunatic and never was one. I was called upon to do a duty and have done it. The commission has sworn away my life. Each member went upon the stand and said I was incurably insane. They can bury me alive if they see fit. I don't care what happens now."

Commitment was pronounced following the presentation of an exhaustive report by a commission of five alienists in which the defendant was unanimously adjudged insane and following the introduction of prima facie evidence of several witnesses. Questioned as to whether the defendant had anything to offer, Attorney James G. Flanders, following a whispered conversation with Schrank, informed the court that the defense had nothing to say.

District Attorney Zabel submitted a number of questions bearing upon medical terms to each of the alienists, all of which brought forth similar responses, the substance of which was that Schrank was suffering from chronic paranoia, and all of the physicians agreed that it was doubtful if the disease could be cured.

Conclusions of the Alienists.

The conclusions reached by the commission are:

1. John Schrank is suffering from insane delusions, grandiose in character and of a systematized variety.

2. In our opinion he is insane at the present time.

3. On account of the connection existing between his delusions and the act with which he stands charged, we are of the opinion he is unable to confer intelligently with counsel on the conduct of his defense.

RICHARD DEWEY, M. D.,
Chairman.
W. F. BECKER, M. D.,
D. W. HARRINGTON, M. D.,
FRANK STUDLEY, M. D.,
WILLIAM F. WEGGE, M. D.,
Commissioners.

The commission's report consists of several thousand words, and starts out with setting forth the personal and family history of the defendant. Other portions bear upon his present physical state, neurological data, and many written communications.

The concluding portion of the report consists of a long address by Schrank to the Commissioners in which he apologized for causing unpleasantness in asking them to pass a verdict in a matter which should have been better tried by a higher than earthly court.

Schrank's Speech to Commission.

He said he had looked into the dying eyes of the late President McKinley, "when a voice called to me to avenge his death. I was confident that my life was coming soon to an end and I was at once happy to know that my real mission on this earth was to die for my country and the cause of Republicanism.

"The shot at Milwaukee, which created an echo in all parts of the world, was not a shot fired at the citizen Roosevelt, not a shot at an ex-President, not a shot at the candidate of a so-called Progressive Party, not a shot to influence the pending election, not a shot to gain for me notoriety; no, it was simply to once and forever establish the fact that any man who hereafter aspires to a third Presidential term will do so at the risk of his life. If I cannot defend tradition, if I cannot defend the country in case of war, you may as well send every patriot to prison.

"I hope that the shot at Milwaukee has awakened the patriotism of the American Nation, that it opened their eyes to the real danger and shown them the only safe way out of it as is proved by the election returns in the great Democratic Party. The North, South, East, and West are once more and more solidly united, and proudly can we prove to the nations of the world that the spirit of 1776 is still alive and shall never die, and that self-government is an established fact and a success.

"I have been accused of having selected a State where capital punishment is abolished. I would say I did not know the laws of any State I traveled through, and it would be ridiculous for me to fear death after the act, as I expected to die during the act and not live to tell the story. If I knew that my death would have made the third term tradition more sacred, I am sorry I could not die for my country.

"Prison for me is like going to war. Before me is the spirit of George Washington; behind me that of McKinley."

Failure in effecting a cure of Schrank's mental disorder means he will spend the rest of his life in the asylum to which he has been committed. Schrank probably will be taken to the asylum on Monday next, according to Sheriff William A. Arnold.

FREE TRADE AT ONCE.

Britons Thought Wilson's Election Would Work Over-Night Change.

John F. Cramer, proprietor of The Evening Wisconsin, who arrived on the Mauretania yesterday, says there was considerable misapprehension in England over the results of our Presidential election. Mr. Cramer has been traveling in Europe since the early part of September.

"People over there seemed to think that the election of Wilson would work a complete and immediate change in the policy of this country," said Mr. Cramer, at the Ritz-Carlton. "Not only individuals, but even some of the newspapers appeared to hold the idea that if Wilson won we were to have free trade the day following the election, and could not understand, when the result was announced, why it was that things did not change at once.

"The Autumn has been no better in Europe than the Summer, in the matter of weather," said Mr. Cramer. "That has made automobile touring disagreeable. In Paris you hear much talk about the war in the Balkans, and the restaurant keepers are complaining a lot. It seems that a lot of foreigners who are in the habit of spending part of the Fall in Paris are now at or near the seat of war. Then, too, the influence of the war is felt on the markets, and people are not traveling quite so much as usual, and those who are in Paris are apparently not spending so much money."

Mr. Cramer, who is known among his friends as a connoisseur in good dishes, said he had eaten the best dinner of his life while in Paris this time.

"It was at Frederic's," he said. "Andre Terrail, who used to run the Hotel de Hollande, is now in charge of the old Tour d'Argent. He says that many people who do not know that Frederic is dead come there and look about for him, and expect him to serve the caneton a la presse. Terrail says he is going to get hold of an old man who looks like Frederic and have him circulate about the place, so that people will not keep asking for Frederic.

"The new addition to the Ritz in Paris has been opened at last, and is on a scale with the rest of the hotel. Ciro, who has been known to Americans visiting Monte Carlo as the proprietor of a restaurant there, has taken a restaurant in Paris. It is near the Rue de la Paix, but they tell me the Parisians haven't taken to it as yet. There is an entrance near the Hotel de Hollande, but the objection raised is that the patrons cannot look out into the street and see what is going on. This is curious, in view of the fact that it is the exception, rather than the rule, that you can see what is going outside from the interior of a Paris restaurant."

CHARGE FOR BAGGAGE CHECK.

Express Co. Got Quarter for Taking It to Station—Inquiry Ordered.

The right of the United States Express Company to charge 25 cents for the transportation of a baggage check from Staten Island to the Grand Central Station, when the check was intrusted to the company only to enable it to collect a piece of baggage, is to be investigated by the Public Service Commission. William B. Rafferty, Principal of Public School 30, Staten Island, is the complainant.

He declares that he handed over his check to the United States Express Company at St. George in order that it might bring him his trunk from the Grand Central Station, and was charged a quarter for its transportation because the company declared that it always considered checks as merchandise.

FRANKING COST $20,000,000.

More Than $3,000,000 of This Postal Expense Due to Political Matter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Political campaign material transmitted free of postage through the mails accounted, according to Post Office Department records, for the difference between a postal surplus and a postal deficit for the last fiscal year, ending June 30. An account of franked mail forwarded for Congress, the executive departments, and other Government establishments, shows that postage at the ordinary rate on this matter would have netted the Government nearly $20,000,000. About $3,200,000 of this would have been paid on political documents.

The postal service handled during the year 310,245,000 pieces of franked mail, weighing 61,377,000 pounds. This was 8.8 per cent. of the total weight of all domestic mail carried.

During the Presidential and Congressional primary campaigns political speeches, reports, and documents of all kinds, and even of one complete political campaign book, all of which had been made technically frankable by insertion in the Congressional Record, were sent through the mails at public expense.

SUBWAY VAULT FIRE WALLS.

Six-Inch Tile Barrier Agreed On at Compromise Conference.

The controversy between the Public Service Commission and the Fire Insurance Exchange over the walls to be built by the Subway contractors across vaults which they have had occasion to open up, has been settled by compromise. The Fire Insurance Exchange will get its six-inch thick hollow tile wall. This will make it possible to build the will of two tiles laid side by side, which the Exchange considers of great importance, but it has agreed to waive its demands for the concrete coating on either side of the wall. This fire break will be erected by the contractors without expense to the property owners, but will be placed on the building line, however far beyond that the vaults, which have now been entered, used to project.

As a result of this compromise, it is understood that the Fire Insurance Exchange will not raise the rates on buildings disturbed by the subway construction.

60-Cent Price the Result of 10 Years of Striving

A short time ago many thousands paid us $27 for a set of books similar to these, but we were impatient that more thousands, who could not afford them at that price, might obtain them. We find that the first edition sales absorbed practically all of the editorial cost so that we need make the price of this edition only on the raw product—paper, printing, binding and shipping—and the mere cost of telling you about them. We searched the world for a light strong paper to take good printing, to reduce binding and shipping expenses—and we found it in Germany. Then we reduced the margin on plates, binding and packing. Offering 30,000 sets of these Business Man's Libraries at 60 Cents a volume, now means practically giving away complete business experience which 999 out of 1000 persons could not ordinarily obtain after long years of up-hill work.

The things which have cost men dearly in fortunes and careers are made plain to you in the brilliant pages of business secrets. Out of the success-struggles of modern business, the failures as well as the monumental achievements, comes this message to millions, as the answer to daily questions, doubts, ignorance—at a price which does not approach the value of many a single paragraph! This is the greatest offer we can possibly foresee for this decade.

These books present 2,079 pages jammed full of new ways of making money told by the Master Minds of Business. This set is a guide to the man in the private office, and to the worker it gives the short cuts to better days, larger salary and eventual success. Why waste years plodding and blundering along, spoiling opportunities and wasting chances when you can get inside knowledge of business, of the executive board, the departments, the factory, of financing and selling and advertising? What power can hold you back from accepting this offer at only 6 cents a day spread over only four months?

Is a small self-limited job keeping you from seeing and knowing? Find out from 112 great, big men—not mere writers, but national business men, who inspire admiration and confidence—the authors of the Business Man's Library. Get the advice of Alexander H. Revell, Founder and President of the great firm bearing his name; Sears, Roebuck & Company's Comptroller; Montgomery Ward & Company's Buyer; John V. Farwell & Company's Credit Man; Sherwin-Williams Company's President; and 107 others. Let them place at your disposal the crystallized experience of the whole world of business.

Imagine being master of the vivid charts, the diagrams, the actual campaigns and schemes, the strategy, the genius which have built stores and factories from tiny shops and attic mills. Chas. E. Hires, says: "I regard it as a benefit and assistance to any wide-awake business man, no matter who."

WHO RECEIVED THE NOBEL PRIZE FOR LITERATURE LAST WEEK.

No single work will illustrate better than this novel Hauptmann's supreme influence in contemporary European letters. Like many classics, it will interest different people for different reasons: some will care for its narrative, to others it will appeal because of its symbolism, and again there are those who will respond primarily to its psychology. The dual nature of the hero attempts to attune itself to conflicting influences; it is the old struggle between the spirit and the flesh. A pen sensitive to the nuances of life describes the gaieties of an ocean voyage, the thrilling tragedy of a sinking vessel, the sordid side of the theatre in New York, and the forces—virtue, hypocrisy, art, puritanism—that contribute to the spirit of America.

PUJOL
BY WILLIAM J. LOCKE

THE JOYOUS ADVENTURES OF ARISTIDE PUJOL form a climax to Mr. Locke's novel of diverting Gallic experiences. Aristide Pujol, that Protean son of Provence, is a most attractive personality. With breathless interest we follow him through a series of delectable adventures. He is a lovable, tender-hearted, gasconading gamin of a creature, full of aplomb in the most embarrassing situations, and honorable according to his lights. With a chuckle and a sigh of regret we close the book on Aristide's last and most satisfactory adventure—that of matrimony.

Unseen Empire
By
David Starr Jordan

Dr. Jordan here shows that civilized nations are all in their degree under the domination of a power stronger than kings or parliaments, more lasting than armies or navies, the unseen Empire of Finance. He further shows that this mastery is not now in the hands of individual men, however powerful, but that it has passed over into an impersonal Empire of Debt. Many of the essential statements which Dr. Jordan makes have been verified by leading bankers both in this country and abroad. There is an "unseen empire" that can to a certain, perhaps to a large, degree sway the destinies of nations, and the method, if not the exact extent of it, is told in this highly informing and suggestive volume.

Naval Architects Also Hear Congressman Redfield and Presidents at Annual Dinner.

The twentieth annual dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers was held in the Waldorf-Astoria last night. It was next to the most largely attended dinner the society has ever given, the only dinner that exceeded it in attendance being that of last year, when Sir William H. White, the famous British naval constructor, was the guest of honor.

Last night the speakers were Assistant Secretary of the Navy Beekman Winthrop, Congressman William G. Redfield, Col. Robert M. Thompson, the newly elected president of the society, and Henry H. Hill. Stevenson Taylor, the retiring president, was the toastmaster. Besides the above, those at the guests' table included Rear Admiral Richard M. Watt, Chief Constructor U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Hutch I. Cone, Chief of the Bureau of Steam Engineering in Washington; Naval Constructors William J. Baxter, Robert Stocker, and J. E. Bailey, Lewis Nixon, Capt. Richard Vanduzer, U. S. N.; Capt. Albert Gleaves, U. S. N.; Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, U. S. N., retired; Commodore Jacob W. Miller, Commander Boy-Ed, the German Naval Attache in Washington; James W. Osborne, F. L. Fernald, and R. A. C. Smith.

Col. Thompson was the first speaker. He thanked the members for the honor they had conferred upon him and promised them to emulate as nearly as possible the record made by Mr. Stevenson, the retiring president. After Col. Thompson came Mr. Winthrop, who said he was very busy in Washington packing up and "getting ready for the anticipated recall of Republican officeholders on March 4 next."

Mr. Winthrop began with a reference to the upbuilding of the American merchant marine, with which movement, he said, the Navy Department was in complete and hearty sympathy.

"Without an efficient merchant marine," he said, "to fall back upon in time of war, the navy would be in sore straits, indeed."

Next he referred to the record of the Navy Department during the sixteen years of Republican Administrations that will terminate next March. In that period, he pointed out, the navy had grown from four battleships of the Oregon type to thirty-three modern battleships, including eight completed dreadnoughts and five others in process of construction or authorized; ten armored cruisers and several splendid flotillas of torpedo destroyers and submarines. When the ships now under construction or authorized are completed, Mr. Winthrop said the navy would have a total displacement of more than 1,000,000 tons. Sixteen years ago, he added it required six years to build a battleship of the old type, while today only thirty-three months are required for the construction of a ship such as the giant superdreadnought Arkansas.

"The navy," Mr. Winthrop said, "is a progressive force. It must go forward or deteriorate. It cannot stand still. What the Democratic Party will do I do not know. In the last Congress, however, they did not show any great desire to improve the navy in the way it deserves. What that party does or does not do will depend to a great extent upon public opinion, and it is just such active and earnest forces as this society that is needed to mold and guide that opinion. The naval question is a National one and not a political one."

Mr. Redfield, who spoke on "The Future of the Merchant Marine," followed Mr. Winthrop, while the last speaker was Mr. Hill, whose topic was "Commerce and Waterways."

HEAVY DRAGOON ANNOYED.

People Stare at His Uniform, and He Is Minus His Baggage.

Ryan, the room clerk, was humming "The Wearin' o' the Green" early yesterday morning, when almost seven feet of British uniform darkened the Broadway entrance of the Breslin, and a moment later was towering above the desk.

The room clerk gave a jump, and had pressed all the buttons in sight before he came to himself and asked what was wanted.

"Just a room," said the stranger, who, the register revealed a little later, was Capt. A. B. Kinney of the Dragoon Guards of Ottawa. He explained that he had had to attend the exercises incident to the opening of Parliament in Ottawa the day before, that he had bought a ticket to New York, and that he had got away so late that he was just able to get aboard the train. There had been no time to change to "mufti," as he put it, and no time to get his luggage. He had just boarded the train, roughing it as if he were campaining in dress uniform, but he had been very much embarrassed by the attention he had excited at breakfast, and he fancied that it would be rather awkward going about town in a uniform.

The clerk told him the only places he would feel at home just now in New York would be in the Madison Square Garden or just outside the Hippodrome, and the visitor wondered if it wouldn't be possible to get a suit of citizen's clothes "just for the day." He was directed to a ready-made clothing store.

HEARST HERE FROM EUROPE.

Rosenthal Murder Had a Bad Effect on Foreigners, He Says.

William Randolph Hearst returned yesterday on the Cunard liner Mauretania from his long vacation in Europe, accompanied by Mrs. Hearst. He expressed great satisfaction at the result of the election.

"The party which is too long in power," he said, "is liable to forget its obligations. It is time for a change."

Mr. Hearst said the Rosenthal murder and the stories of the arrest and trials of Becker and the gunmen had been spread broadcast through Europe, and had given persons over there the impression that this country was full of desperadoes. Europeans looked upon the shooting as an echo of our frontier days, he declared. He considered, he said, that the speedy conviction of all concerned in the murder was a triumph for law and order.

"English manufacturers," said Mr. Hearst, "are keenly interested in the proposed reduction of the tariff. Personally, I do not think there will be a wholesale reduction such as would put our industries out of business, but a moderate revision."

Theodore Roberts Pays in Court.

Theodore Roberts, the actor, who at present is the ghost in the production of "Hamlet" at the Garden Theatre, was called into court yesterday by his wife, who is suing him for separation, on the charge that he had failed to pay her the alimony due her. Before Supreme Court Justice McCall her attorney declared that Mr. Roberts owed her $250, and might leave the city unless he was punished for contempt of court. After he had voiced his fears, however, the attorney for Mr. Roberts stepped up to his legal opponent and handed him a check for $250. Justice McCall thereupon dismissed the contempt proceedings.

FIGHTING TO SAVE McKENNA.

General Sessions Had No Jurisdiction, Child Slayer's Counsel Contends.

A novel point of law was brought to the attention of Supreme Court Justice Seabury yesterday when the writ of habeas corpus sworn out in favor of Joseph J. McKenna, the convicted murderer of little Sigrid Eckstrom, was returned and argued before him.

Emanuel Klein of 346 Broadway, who is McKenna's attorney, argued that since the crime of which McKenna was convicted was committed in the Borough of the Bronx on June 6, and the act of the Legislature referring the creation of a Bronx County to the people had been signed by the Governor before April 20, the Court of General Sessions therefore had no jurisdiction over the defendant. He declared that when the Legislature referred to popular approval an act which otherwise stood as law it was usurping constitutional limits in so far as there was no legal referendum in this State and therefore no power existed on the part of the legislative body to assume its existence in the ratification of a law.

Inasmuch, therefore, as the Bronx became a county in April, 1911, it was beyond the powers of the Court of General Sessions, Mr. Klein argued, to try the case of McKenna. On the other hand the Supreme Court was so qualified and should have acted in the matter.

Assistant District Attorney Richter, in opposing the writ, declared that the assumption about the referendum was fanciful, and that the Court of General Sessions was as much a State court as the Supreme Court.

Justice Seabury reserved decision. In case he should sustain the writ there would arise a possibility of McKenna's going entirely free because of the law which forbids twice placing a man in jeopardy of his life for the same crime.

McKenna was convicted of having murdered 11-year-old Sigrid Eckstrom, whose body was found in a cellar of a flat in Ogden Avenue, the Bronx, on June 6. He has been removed from the death house at Sing Sing and is in the Tombs pending the decision on his writ.

PRINCESS SMOKES HERE.

Boston's Prejudice Against Cigarettes Not Shared at the Ritz-Carlton.

The Princess Colloredo-Mansfeld, who, according to the newspapers caused some excitement in Boston the other night by smoking a cigarette incognito in the Hotel Touraine, returned to the Ritz-Carlton yesterday afternoon, still incognito as the Vicomtesse d'Etchegoyer, and accompanied by Countess Etchegoyer and Miss Cartwright of London. The women were rather cross when they reached the hotel, because they had ordered that a porter meet them, and he had failed to pick them out. The Princess still declines to receive cards sent to her under that title, and as Vicomtesse d'Etchegoyer will not receive reporters.

However much they object to cigarette smoking in Boston, the Princess feels perfectly at home in New York, and frequently lights a cigarette at the desk of the Ritz-Carlton. Investigation showed yesterday that there was still prejudice against the custom of women smoking in some of the restaurants.

In a restaurant in Times Square much affected by the theatrical profession, two well-known actresses who were sitting on one of the sofa seats were much disturbed when a woman next to one of them lighted a cigarette and began puffing away at it yesterday at luncheon. When the smoker had arisen and was leaving, their comments were quite audible.

"Well," said one, "I am no prude, but I do hate to see a woman smoking in a public restaurant. And the mean thing had the gall to blow her smoke our way."

COUNT HAS A BLACK EYE.

Miss Warren's Fiance Says He Fell from His Berth on Shipboard.

Count de Lasteyrie, who is engaged to wed Miss Constance Warren, arrived yesterday on the Mauretania from Liverpool with his left eye in deep mourning, caused, the Count said, by falling out of his berth on Wednesday morning. The Count was accompanied on the liner by his future father-in-law, George Henry Warren, Mrs. Warren, G. H. Warren, Jr., and Miss Constance, his fiancée. They drove from the pier to the Warren home, 924 Fifth Avenue, where it was said that the wedding would take place on Dec. 21.

The Count and Miss Warren met first in New York and their engagement was announced in Paris on Oct. 25 by the Count's mother, the Marquise de Lasteyrie. He is noted as a horseman and Miss Warren is also fond of outdoor exercise.

WESTERN WOMEN WIN IN CONVENTION

Defeat Constitutional Amendment Proposed by the Eastern Suffragists.

MEN URGE EQUAL RIGHTS

Women's Relation to the Foreign Vote—Enthusiastic Greeting Given to Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Through the defeat of a constitutional amendment providing that the delegates present from each State or affiliated organization shall cast the full vote to which that State or organization is entitled, provided that at least one-fifth of the delegates are present, delegates from the Western States were victorious to-day in the first contest that has developed in the Woman's National Suffrage Convention.

Practically the entire day's proceedings were taken up by a spirited discussion of the pros and cons of the proposed amendment, the Western delegates generally supporting Miss Jane Addams in opposing its adoption. Those from a majority of the Eastern States upheld the contention of President Anna H. Shaw, Miss M. Carey Thomas, and Miss Harriet May Mills that it should receive an affirmative vote.

Other important amendments, action on which, however, was deferred, provide that the permanent headquarters of the National association shall not be in New York, and that no officer or member of the association shall take part in partisan politics except in States where equal suffrage exists.

The appearance on the platform of Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont of New York started enthusiastic cheering. When she was introduced by President Shaw as "the woman who felt so much for her sex that she had gone to the Night Court in New York to furnish bail for defenseless girls, and who is one of the greatest friends to the cause of woman suffrage," a storm of applause swept over the hall.

To-night's meeting was given over exclusively to men advocating equal rights for women, and was presided over by James L. Laidlaw of New York. Among the speakers were men prominent in the suffrage movement from many States. A. S. G. Taylor, one of the two men delegates to the convention, declared that it was his desire to impress upon the men that woman suffrage was a man's question just as much as it is a woman's.

"Whether men believe in equal suffrage or not," he said, "they must admit that it is a question which affects half the human race. It concerns the upbuilding or destruction of our entire economic condition, and, therefore, men should either fight for it or against it. There is no middle ground."

Mr. Taylor declared that only 30 per cent. of immigrants were women, and that to offset this there were 33,732,752 native-born women in the United States to-day, while the total number of foreign born men and women together was only 13,754,868. "Can you not see why the ward politician is fighting woman suffrage?" asked the speaker.

Reginald Wright Kauffman, a native Pennsylvanian, who now lives in England, made a strong plea in behalf of what he termed the most oppressed women in the world—the women who are politely called "white slaves."

"I don't for a minute pretend that white slavery is going to be ended in a day by giving women the vote," said Mr. Kauffman, "but I am here to maintain that it will not be ended until, in every sense, women have been made the social and political equals of men."

Republican Club Tribute to Sherman.

The Republican Club, at 54 West Fortieth Street, will hold a meeting in memory of Vice President Sherman on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Among the speakers will be Senator Elihu Root, Chauncey M. Depew, Ex-Gov. Frank S. Black, Reuben Leslie Maynard, and Lucius N. Littauer.

RALPH CONNOR'S NEW NOVEL

CORPORAL CAMERON
of THE NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE

¶ This novel is much more than a story of the Mounted Police. It is a rare story of the emotions of a man who finds himself and makes himself. ¶ It is the most genuinely picturesque novel by this famous novelist. ¶ It has all the glamour of soldier service on the frontier and all the tender romance of a human hero through a succession of struggles with himself and his environment.

HOLLAND JUMPERS WIN AMERICAN CUP

Dutch Horses and Riders Perform Beautifully in National Horse Show.

AMERICAN TEAM OUTCLASSED

England Presses Dutch Soldiers Closely for Chief International Honors—Morning and Afternoon Judging.

The America Cup, the most important of all trophies offered for international competition at the National Horse Show, became the permanent possession of Holland when the team of three jumpers representing the Dutch Government triumphed over the representatives of four other countries in jumping competition at Madison Square Garden last night. England, Canada, and Belgium were placed behind the Holland team in the order named, and the United States team—the other trio in the contest—failed to get a ribbon.

The cup is presented by the Hotel Martinique, and the conditions of the contest are far more exacting than in any other competition between the various nations at the show. Each country is limited to three competitors, and this naturally draws the best of each into the contest. The cup must be won twice to become the permanent possession of any nation, and, as Holland was victorious a year ago, this victory gives the cup to that nation.

The score against the winning team, touches of the barriers being scored against each horse, was only 2½ points, one horse touching a barrier with both front and hind feet, and another making a light touch with one of his hind feet. The Canadians had 4½ points registered against them. The United States team was outclassed in this event, although the large crowd which thronged the Garden cheered long and loudly for the home representatives. However, there was no disputing the final award.

After the first series of jumps the judges were inclined to favor the English team for first award, and the Holland representatives were left out of the jump-off competition. This led to a protest from Lieut. C. H. Labouchere, the leader of the Holland team, and on another jump-off the Dutch team made a clean sweep. England then took another turn against the Holland delegation, and its showing gave Holland the first place and the cup.

Capt. Labouchere figured prominently in the work of the winning team, just as he has figured in several important victories during the week. He rode his big gelding Dreadnought, which kept up its high-class performance of the show. Col. P. A. Kenna was at the head of the English team.

The high jump contest, in which the bars were first placed at five feet six inches, and gradually raised until a winner was determined, divided honors with the international contest as far as the interest of the crowd was concerned. More spectacular and likewise more dangerous it held the large crowd enthralled throughout. Principal interest was centred in the big gelding Biskra, the champion high jumper of Europe, which was brought to this country by Miss Mona Dunn to match its skill with the best that could be obtained on this side of the Atlantic. In the class of five only two American horses competed, another beside Biskra coming from England and one from Belgium. The European champion, most capably handled by W. Williams, lived up to all the praise that had preceded him and carried off the blue with a remarkable jump of 6 feet 9 inches. A New York horse, Lady Jane, entered by J. E. Alford, jumped 6 feet 6 inches after the other horses had been eliminated, but failed to clear the bar when it was raised three inches higher.

The crowd was easily the banner one of the week, completely taxing the seating capacity of the big amphitheatre and furnishing an overflow which almost blocked the promenade as well as the aisles through the arena seats and galleries. Society was again faithful, and turned out unusually strong, although most of those in the boxes had been noted at previous sessions. The box office record showed the crowd to be the largest of the past four years, or since the new management took hold of the show, and it has been surpassed on but two occasions since the event was inaugurated. These two occasions marked visits of the Duke of Marlborough and Prince Henry.

It was a day of continued triumphs for Judge William H. Moore, who annexed three blue ribbons during the afternoon session and two in the evening. This makes a total of fourteen blues by the Moore entries, and practically assures Mr. Moore of the individual honors in this particular feature. Charles E. Bunn was another prominent winner, getting three more blues with his ponies, and he now has eight to his credit. Miss H. D. Atterbury won one blue, and also has eight. Her gray gelding, Nickel Plate, won the special cup donated by John R. Townsend, adding another mark to an unbeaten record of the week. In this respect Nickel Plate betters the record of Rosabel last year, as the McGibbon entry suffered one defeat during the week. The field of ten which answered the call for the Townsend Cup was of unusually high standard, and was one of the best ever shown in the Garden.

One big sale was reported during the day, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt purchasing Mel Valley Flame, William Foster's bay gelding, which won a blue in the class for ponies in harness last Monday. The price was not announced.

SOCIETY ARRAY INCREASES.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Baker Among the New Visitors at Exhibition.

There were many new faces seen last night at the Horse Show, where the attendance was even larger than on the previous evening. Mr. and Mrs. George F. Baker visited the exhibition for the first time, having Mr. and Mrs. William Goadby Loew in the box with them. Mrs. E. H. Harriman paid her second visit, and was with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Harriman and their daughter, Miss Miriam Harriman, in Box 55.

Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt had Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Harriman and Mr. and Mrs. J. McCarty Little with her last night in Box 13.

Gen. Leonard Wood was among the spectators last night, also Mr. and Mrs. Irving Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cravath, ex-Senator Clark, who was with his son-in-law, Dr. Lewis R. Morris; Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Gary, who had George C. Boldt with them; Mr. and Mrs. E. Francis Hyde, who entertained Miss Laura Shannon in their box; Mrs. James B. Haggin, who was with the Countess Festetics and Mrs. Henry Pierrepont Perry; Mrs. Joel E. Fisher, who entertained a party which included the Misses Vieva Fisher and Caroline Wyeth, James Lenox Banks, Jr., John Jay Ide, Jr., and J. Ellis Fisher, Jr.; Lieut. Winfield B. Sifton of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lane Eno, Miss Louise W. McAllister, A. Morris Bagby, Francklyn Paris, J. Horton Fall, Byrd Mercer, Elliot Cowdin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wehrhane, and Miss Wehrhane.

Mrs. Payne Whitney occupied Box 29 at the afternoon session, and Mrs. W. M. V. Hoffman, Mrs. C. C. Ayres, Monson Morris, Mrs. Wiborg, George F. Baker, Jr., Eleanora Sears, Katharine Elkins, Elsie Ladew, Hilda Holmes, Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, and Albert Eugene Gallatin were among others who occupied boxes.

In conjunction with the show, the following army officers who are appearing at the exhibition formed a luncheon party yesterday at the Holland House: Capt. Guy V. Henry, Capt. Ben Lear, Jr., Lieut. John G. Quekemeyer, Lieut. Berkeley T. Merchant, Lieut. C. L. Scott, Lieut. C. H. Laboucherie and Lieut. Mathon of the Royal Holland Hussars, Capt. Baron de Blommaert, Lieut. Delvoie, and Lieut. E. Van Dooren of Belgium.

CHILDREN IN SHOW RING.

Miss Dorothy Webb's Pony Sweet Briar Wins Champion Cup.

Four pony classes, each with a small number of entries, furnished the first work for the judges at the opening of the show yesterday morning. There were only two Shetland ponies shown under saddle in the first class, and the blue went to Howard S. Starrett's black mare Starrett, Jr. One more entry answered the call for ponies in harness of 13 to 13.2 hands, and William Foster's Mel Valley Cinder got first place. In the other two pony classes Charles E. Bunn of Peoria, Ill., swept the boards. In the class for pairs other than Shetlands, his bay mares Czarina and Orris got the premier award, and in the Shetland class shown in single harness Mr. Dunn repeated his previous successes with his favorite breed by taking both the blue and yellow ribbons.

The morning session closed with the judging of eleven thoroughbred hunters. Some high-class stock was shown in this event, and the competition for the blue was close between Blenheim Farm's bay gelding Algoma and F. Ambrose Clark's chestnut mare Sally Coombes. The judges finally decided on the former for the blue, the Clark entry drawing the red ribbon.

William M. Moore, after spending a day and a half without annexing a blue, started off well in the afternoon in the class for harness horses in pairs. His winners were the unbeatable team Lord Seaton and Lady Seaton, and once again this pair showed strongly over the remainder of the field. J. Campbell Thompson and J. Sumner Draper exhibited pairs of unusual merit in this class, but Mr. Moore got the blue and the yellow.

Roadsters in pairs were the next to enter the judging ring, and the awards in two classes which followed formed somewhat of a puzzle to the onlookers. The first class was for roadsters and best-appointed road rigs, the horses to count 70 per cent. and the appointments 30 per cent. The judges gave the blue to William M. V. Hoffman's pair of chestnut geldings, Teneriffe and Brown Star, after the railbirds had decided on Horatio N. Bain's brown team, Frances Bain and Quartermaster Robbins. Teneriffe showed strongly, but Brown Star proved a poor mate. The Bain pair trotted smoothly all the way. The next class was the championship event for roadsters, in which Bain and Hoffman had the same pairs entered, and the judges, evidently realizing that a mistake had been made, reversed their previous ruling and gave the blue to Bain's pair and the reserve to Teneriffe and Brown Star.

Roadsters, single, also figured in another championship class, and again the judges made a ruling that was rather puzzling to the spectators. There was no question about the blue belonging to E. T. Stotesbury's bay mare Ruby, but it was expected that the reserve would go to Teneriffe. This horse was gated and the reserve was awarded to Mr. Hoffman's Mahlon Wilkes, which had previously accounted for a red ribbon only, while Teneriffe had shown up strongly enough to get a blue and two reds.

A class for ponies under saddle, to be ridden by children, proved one of the most interesting classes of the afternoon, especially to the youngsters, who were out in force for the matinée session. Miss Dorothy Webb's sterling little Sweet Briar showed class above the remainder of the field and got the blue, following with the award in the class for ponies under saddle for the Champion Cup.

Class 124, for hunters or jumpers, in which a field of thirty competed, furnished the thrills of the day. The "in-and-out" jump bothered the horses, and there were several "spills," one of which threw the crowd into a state of horror for a few seconds. Mrs. P. A. Clark's brown gelding Sam threw its rider, Albert Hart of Staten Island, on the return jump into the "pig pen," and the animal turned over on his head, falling, to all appearances, on the prostrate rider. It seemed a certainty that he had been crushed, but in some way he escaped serious injury. He was loudly cheered as he remounted and took the jump successfully. Two other riders were thrown, but fell clear of the horses. The awards:

Class 105.—Ponies under saddle, Shetland ponies, mares or geldings, must be registered, not exceeding forty-six inches, four years old or over—Won by Howard S. Starrett, Jr.'s, blk. m. Starrett's Ruth; George A. Heyl's blk. m. Pearl, second. No other entries.

Rodden's unnamed,) third; Belgium, (Capt. Baron de Blommart's b. g. Clonmore, Lieut. Delvoie's blk. g. Murat, and Lieut. E. Van Dooren's b. g. Majesty,) fourth.

Class 139.—Jumpers, high jump for cup presented by Mr. W. H. Moore; starting at 5 feet 6 inches, the bars to be raised to 6 feet, then to 6 feet 6 inches, and then three inches at a time until the contest is decided; only three trials allowed each horse at different heights; performance only to count—Won by Miss Mona Dunn's b. g. Biskra, with a jump of 6 feet 9 inches; J. E. Alfred's blk. m. Lady Jane, second, with a jump of 6 feet 6 inches; Capt. Baron de Blommaert's (First Regiment guides, Belgium,) b. g. Clonmore; third, with a jump of 6 feet; Lieut. R. M. S. Richardson's (Eleventh Hussars, England,) ch. g. Dan Leno, fourth, with a jump of 5 feet 6 inches.

VANDERBILT DENIES RUMOR.

Will Not Sell Oakland Farm—Going Abroad to See the Baby.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, President of the National Horse Show Association, took occasion yesterday afternoon to deny emphatically the story sent out from Newport on Thursday night that he intended to dispose of his Oakland Farm near that city and make his future home in England. Mr. Vanderbilt said that he intended to sell some young breeding stock, and also that he would soon make a visit to England, which might have been the basis for the Newport story.

"It would be hard to imagine anything more remote," said Mr. Vanderbilt. "In the first place Oakland Farm was left to me by my father, and for this reason alone I cherish it, and would not think of disposing of it.

"Mrs. Vanderbilt and I are going abroad in December so as to be with the baby for Christmas, and after that we will tour the continent, returning to Newport next August.

"I shall sell some of my young breeding stock which has naturally accumulated, but beyond that, there is nothing to the story of my selling Oakland Farm."

POETS IN PRIZE VOLUME.

Orrick Johns the Winner in Mitchell Kennerley's $1,000 Contest.

In accordance with the announcement last Spring that Mitchell Kennerley would publish a volume of 100 poems by 100 American poets and that an anonymous lover of poetry had given $1,000 to be divided as prizes for the three best contributions to the collection, "The Lyric Year" makes its appearance on the book shelves to-day. It contains verse by Edwin Markham, Percy MacKaye, Ridgeley Torrence, Bliss Carman, Josephine Preston Peabody, Herman Hagedorn, Richard Le Gallienne, and George Sylvester Viereck, but the three awards went to none of these.

The first prize of $500 was taken by Orrick Johns with his poem, "Second Avenue." The two lesser prizes of $250 each were awarded to more familiar names, Thomas Augustine Daly, writer of Italian and Irish verse, taking one with his ode "To a Thrush," and the other going to George Sterling, whose "Wine of Wizardry" aroused considerable attention, particularly after the mild discussion projected by the declaration of Ambrose Bierce that it was the greatest poem ever written by an American. From his primitive haunts at Carmel-by-the-Sea, where he works his own garden and nets and shoots his own food, Mr. Sterling sent "An Ode on the Centenary of Robert Browning."

"Second Avenue" is a long poem, of which these stanzas may be shown here:

The gorgeous canvas of the morn,
The sprinkled gayety of grass,
The sunlight dripping from the corn,
The stars that hold high-vestured mass.

The shattered grandeur of the hills,
The little leaping lovely ways
Of children, or what beauty spills
In Summer greens and Autumn grays.

These are not gained by any toil
Of groping hands that plead and plod,
But are the unimpoverished spoil
Poured from the bursting stores of God.

The judges who selected these three poems as the best of the 100 were Edward J. Wheeler, editor of Current Opinion (née Current Literature) and President of the Poetry Society of America; William Stanley Braithwaite, and Ferdinand Earle, a writer of sonnets and the editor of the Lyric Year.

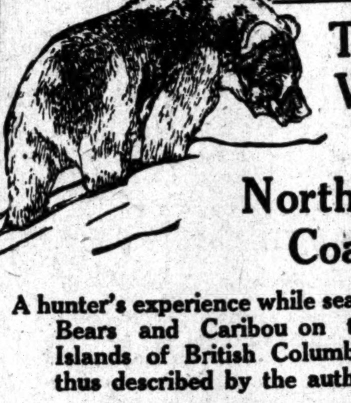
NEW SCRIBNER BOOKS



The Wilderness of the North Pacific Coast Islands

A hunter's experience while searching for Wapati Bears and Caribou on the larger Coast Islands of British Columbia and Alaska is thus described by the author.

CHARLES SHELDON

"This is a tale of hunting, during rain and storm, for special animals; much of the country traversed was unknown in detail to white men, some of it had not even been trodden by natives; it was not possible to obtain guides familiar with the habits and haunts of the animals; and the time which could be spared for each trip was limited. Little attention, therefore, could be given to natural history which, in the regions visited, has fortunately to some extent been investigated. But no literature, giving the detailed experiences of hunting in all of these islands, exists."

The book is illustrated from astonishing photographs and from paintings by the famous animal painter, Carl Runpuis. Price, $2.00 net; by mail $2.19.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT
described Mr. Sheldon's "The Wilderness of the Upper Yukon" as "one of the rare volumes which should be in the library of every man who cares for stories of adventure, of every man who cares for natural history and big-game hunting, and finally of every man who cares to read of outdoor nature in the wilderness described with truthfulness, with power, and with charm." Illustrated. $3.00 net.

Riding and Driving for Women

By Belle Beach

The book is divided into two parts. The first, or riding half, treats of form, hands, mounting, dress, saddle, show ring, hunting, selection of side-saddle, horse, etc., and incidentally discusses the question of riding side-saddle or cross-saddle. The second, or riding half, of the book, treats of single horse, four-in-hand, tandem, and discusses harness, show ring, dress, etc. The collection of photographs and diagrams is excellent. Price, $4.00 net; by mail, $4.28.

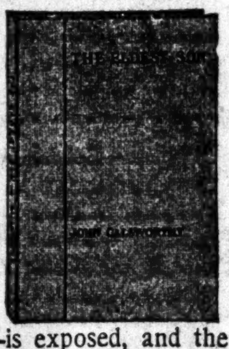
The Mortal Gods and Other Dramas is a volume of poetic dramas by Olive Tilford Dargan, whose "Lords and Lovers" and "Semiramis" gave her not only a position in the front rank of American poets, but a position peculiarly her own.
"The Mortal Gods" itself deals with current social philosophy in an imaginary country, and might almost have been written with reference to our own political situation. "A Son of Hermes" is a drama of the time of Alcibiades; "The Sword of Love" turns on a Crusade of the Twelfth Century.
Price $1.50 net; by mail $1.65.

By John Galsworthy
The Eldest Son
A Domestic Drama in Three Acts



This drama, with an English country house for its setting, has the concentrated power of "Strife" and "Justice." Constructively it is perfect: without a pause in the action, the situation—depending on the entanglement of "the eldest son"—is exposed, and the contrasted characters, drawn from the upper and lower classes, are introduced.

The Inn of Tranquillity
On Life and On Letters
In the papers on Life, Mr. Galsworthy reproduces incidents largely of London street or English village of intense individual interest; but more—and this is probably the purpose—he gives the feeling of the great natural forces of social evolution at work under the surface. Each story carries distinct social significance. The papers on Letters give the writer's artistic creed. Price $1.30 net; by mail, $1.42.

The Pigeon
"What cannot be made clear in such a fragmentary recital of the story is the charm of the thing itself."—New York Times.

THE SIGN AT SIX
The Sign at Six is the story of a man who thought he owned New York and of another man who undertook to convince him of his error.
The first man was a political boss, and, like many bosses, he abused his power.
Out of the air, from that other man, a man mysterious and unguessed, come the warnings.
STEWART EDWARD WHITE
A young scientist very much in love grapples with the problem, and his solution is a triumph of reason and shrewdness. The popular author of The Blazed Trail has never written more plausibly, more forcibly, more entertainingly, than in The Sign at Six.

"Masterpieces of the Masters of Fiction"
BY WILLIAM DUDLEY FOULKE
Author of Dorothy Day, Maya, Slav and Saxon and Other Works of Note.
Mr. Foulke is one of America's foremost men of letters, a publicist, a great editor, and student of literature.
He is wonderfully equipped to review the masterpieces of masters of fiction.
This is a psychological time for the publication of such an important work.
In these days of acute activity when the reader is offered thousands of volumes the great question arises, "What shall I read?"
The answer is here. In Masterpieces an admirable selection of books has been made by the author.
No reader of good literature, no student should be without it.

MR. ROOT'S APPEAL.

It was a very earnest and moving appeal that Senator Root made to the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday evening. He is, as we all know, not a man much given to warmth of expression, but in this instance his expressions were serious, deliberate, careful, and exceedingly warm. They were the outcome of long study and intimate experience with public affairs of the deepest importance. In every department of public life with which Mr. Root has had to deal he has brought to his task the habit of exhaustive inquiry proper to his profession, the sober consideration, and the searching judgment that success in the law requires. And in all larger matters he has also brought the lawyer's fidelity to his client, which has been all the stronger and more fruitful because his client has been the American people. Happily for him, and still more happily for us, the Senator has devoted especial study to the department of foreign affairs. When he speaks on this subject he speaks, not as one of the scribes, however learned the scribes may be, but as one having authority.

On Thursday evening he spoke with extreme seriousness on the obligations that are binding on the Nation in the matter of the Panama Canal. He recited the language of the treaties by our signatures to which we had assumed these obligations. He recounted the action of Congress which is regarded by the other party to the treaties as a violation of these treaties, a view which the Senator shares. What is to be done in the premises? His answer was prompt, definite, and conclusive:

> We have a treaty with Great Britain under which we have agreed that all questions arising upon the interpretation of treaties shall be submitted to arbitration, and it seems hardly conceivable, yet there are men who say that we will never arbitrate the question of the construction of that treaty. And I say to you that if we refuse to arbitrate it we shall be in the position of the merchant who is known to all the world to be false to his promises.
> With our nearly $4,000,000,000 of foreign trade we shall stand in the world of commerce as a merchant false to his word. Among all the people on this earth who hope for better days of righteousness and peace in the future we shall stand in the light of our multitude of declarations for arbitration and peace, discredited, dishonored, hypocrites, with the fair name of America blackened, with the self-respect of Americans gone, with the influence of America for advance along the pathway of progress and civilization annulled, dishonored, and disgraced.

Senator Root had pointed out at the beginning of his speech that the only question of fundamental importance involved in the National election through which we had just passed was not the tariff, or the trusts, but the question of the capacity of the great American democracy for self-government. Here, on the morrow of the election, the test is to be met. We have by the action of our Government, in exempting our coastwise trading vessels from canal tolls, raised an issue of honor with the nation to which we are most closely connected. In itself the action of our Government was not of capital importance. The advantage which is expected from it at most must be insignificant. It would have been far more sensible for our Government to forego it. The action was not demanded by public opinion. It was not even understood by the mass of the people. Had it been understood, we are convinced that the majority of the voters would have been opposed to it. But it was taken, and it has been challenged under a treaty which we sought and which is in accordance with a long line of precedents embodying the policy and the moral sentiment of the American Nation. That treaty requires that we shall submit the issue we have raised to arbitration.

Unless the matter is settled, as it may be, by the repeal of the contested legislation, it ought in all decency to be arbitrated. Whether it will be or not will depend on the course of public opinion. Left to themselves, the representatives of the Nation will hardly retrace their steps or submit the issue raised to the tribunal provided. If the opinion of the Nation be just—and, as Senator Root declares, to be able to do justice as a Nation is of the essence of self-government—the matter will be closed easily and naturally. If not, the Nation will be radically dishonored. "It "will be in the position of the mer- "chant who is known to all the world "to be false to his promises."

PENSIONS FOR EX-PRESIDENTS.

Mr. Carnegie has done a great public service, and at no little cost to himself. We do not mean that the provision he has made for the payment of $25,000 a year to future ex-Presidents, or to their widows so long as they remain unmarried, will constitute any drain upon his financial resources. It will cost him no money. We may be sure that he knows as well as anybody that no future ex-President would accept a pension from private hands, and that the Nation would not countenance such largess. Nevertheless, the Trustees of the Carnegie Corporation, in announcing this project of pensioning ex-Presidents, have done a service to the country of distinct value.

Mr. Carnegie, with his keen insight and his fine Scotch genius for the choice of effective methods in what he seeks to accomplish, sees clearly, we doubt not, that in no other possible way could Congress have been more powerfully stimulated to do its duty than by this offer. Some ex-Presidents need no pensions from any source, some will accept none, but there are instances where provision should be made for the support of our retired Chief Magistrates in a manner and with a dignity befitting their station. Instances will easily be recalled where a pension of $25,000 a year would have been well bestowed. Mr. Carnegie has given Congress a jog, we might say a jolt, well calculated to arouse it to action.

The cost to Mr. Carnegie will be that of being misunderstood. There will be misinterpretation, perhaps general misinterpretation, of his act and his motive. Men will say unpleasant things about him. All this he will patiently endure, conscious of having given an unmistakable hint in the right quarter and in a way that is likely to be heeded.

NEWSPAPER PROFITS IN NEW YORK.

Employing the conservative methods that are and ought to be employed in the appraisal of estates under the transfer tax law, Mr. Joseph Berry, the State Tax Appraiser, after diligent inquiry and the taking of much expert testimony, fixes the value of the estate left by Mr. Joseph Pulitzer at $18,525,116. He appraises The World newspaper at $3,016,455. The auditor's tables submitted to the Appraiser show the net profits of The World during the four years preceding Mr. Pulitzer's death to have averaged $536,580; in 1908, $336,673; in 1909, $662,391; in 1910, $702,374; in 1911, $552,883. The gross revenue of The World in 1911 was $6,382,137, and nearly as much in the preceding years of the period under consideration. Upon this basis Appraiser Berry fixed the value of The World, as above stated, at $3,016,455.

Of necessity, the State must use great conservatism in fixing appraisal valuations for the purposes of the State transfer tax. The private purchaser of an appraised property might be willing to pay a sum much above the appraiser's figures. His higher offer would be based upon confidence in his own ability as a manager, and he would be taking only an ordinary business risk with his own money. The State must diligently guard against overvaluation, since in that case it would be taking money not its own; the tax then would be in part confiscatory. Leaving tax considerations out of account, there is a way to estimate the value of The World and of ascertaining what its earnings were under Mr. Pulitzer's management, which yields a result differing from that of the State's Appraiser.

Joseph Pulitzer bought The World and came to New York in 1883. He died in 1911. After his twenty-eight years of labor in developing the property and in administering it, with his extraordinary ability, amounting to a veritable genius for journalism, he died leaving an estate that at a fair valuation, not a tax appraisal, would represent the aggregate of $1,000,000 a year for each of his twenty-eight years of labor. During the greater part of his time, during all of the years after The World had begun to be very prosperous, Mr. Pulitzer lived upon a generous scale. Houses, yachts, costly works of art, endowments and charities were the solace and pleasure of the hours not devoted to his business. He spent a great deal of money every year, a sum large enough, we suppose, to warrant the omission from the account of his profits from The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which he also owned, leaving his estate here as the net accumulation of the profits of The World in twenty-eight years, augmented in some degree, to be sure, by the proceeds of investment. But The World was the source of his fortune.

We think that the Pulitzer estate is most generous to the State of New York in consenting to pay a tax upon the good-will of The World, which the Appraiser estimates at $1,000,000. Good-will is intangible, the State does not tax it in the annual levy. Certainly, good-will does not seem to be a proper subject for the application of the transfer tax.

"USING" THE STATE.

In one of its aspects the proposed twenty-five-year agreement between the New Haven Railroad and the Grand Trunk Railroad calls for full judicial inquiry. Mr. Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk Railroad, having failed to come to an agreement with Mr. Mellen of the New Haven, proposed to build a railroad from Palmer, Mass., on the line of the Central Vermont Railroad, now controlled by him, to Providence, R. I. Work had begun. Some $2,000,000 had been spent. As a preliminary to this undertaking Mr. Chamberlin had, of course, to acquire his right of way by purchase of private property or by arrangement, with or without compensation, where he traversed highways or other public property. For this purpose he employed the right of eminent domain, that is, a sovereign right belonging to the State, which for proper and specified purposes it permits private corporations to exercise.

The States here in question were Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The use of the right of eminent domain by Mr. Chamberlin is clear evidence of an implied or express contract between himself and these two States. In filing his engineers' surveys laying down the line of the railroad, and in asking permission to employ a State power for the execution of the work, he gave the States of Massachusetts and Rhode Island an assurance that he was going to build the road. He was fully committed to the undertaking. It was virtually a contract on his part to begin, and not merely to begin but to complete, the road. But after $2,000,000 had been spent the work comes to an end. There is talk about trouble in raising the money and about other things. But the one conspicuous fact is this twenty-five-year traffic agreement between Mr. Chamberlin and Mr. Mellen.

The public construes this in one of two ways: either Mr. Chamberlin had used his railway construction project as a club to compel Mr. Mellen to make a traffic agreement with him; or Mr. Mellen has used the twenty-five-year agreement to buy up his rival and prevent the completion of a competing line in New Haven territory. This is a matter for judicial inquiry because it seems to be established prima facie that the States of Massachusetts and Rhode Island have been "used" in an unseemly way for an improper purpose. They have made a grant of their sovereign power on an application seemingly made in good faith, which, as the case now looks, was not made in that way at all. We do not say or charge that bad faith has been shown; we do say that it is a matter for Grand Jury investigation. These considerations enforce the opinion expressed yesterday that a Grand Jury, not the Department of Justice, should take up the Mellen-Chamberlin twenty-five-year agreement for investigation.

LEE CHRISTMAS EMERGES.

That stanch Honduran patriot, Field Marshal Lee Christmas, who was born and bred in the United States and is said to be proud of his origin and training, has emerged from comparative obscurity with a plan for the union of all the Central American States. Since the latest revolution in Honduras, we understand, Christmas has been military commandant at Puerto Cortez. The position is doubtless remunerative, but it is inconspicuous. Christmas was more in the public eye when he was Commissioner of Police at Tegucigalpa. There were brave goings on then. Puerto Cortez is, comparatively speaking, remote from the capital. A United States gunboat frequently lies in the offing.

These facts may have not influenced Christmas to take a vacation, but we ought to be grateful for any concatenation which caused him to go to New Orleans and talk. For now we know that the indomitable Field Marshal intends to have a new revolution which will involve all the Central American States, and to put an end to it by employing a fleet of aeroplanes, and thus enforce a political union of all the States, under the rule, of course, of Christmas. Zelaya never thought of this, because the aeroplane had not been sufficiently developed in the prime of Zelaya, which has now happily passed.

The Central American States have now been informed of the plan of Christmas, and can arm themselves. They can have aeroplanes of their own. What they can do with them is a mystery, but they can surely do as much as Christmas. The Government at Washington has the information, too, and will doubtless make a note of it. That Lee Christmas is planning new mischief is always probable. But definite assurance on that head is worth having.

THE STREET CAR PARADE.

The historical parade of street cars the other day was interesting enough, but it carried local transportation no further back than the comparatively comfortable horse car of the era of Jacob Sharp. The later developments of the tram were all exhibited, except the abominable open car with full-length transverse seats, which, to be sure, antedates the lemon-colored and well-built Broadway horse car of 1884, but is still in high favor with the multitude. The variants of this pattern, such as the car with the sides protected by a light grill, and an aisle in the middle, were not shown. The newer "pay-as-you-enter" cars, the low-hung car with centre doors, and the latest double-decker were proudly exhibited, of course. The surface tram in its best estate is a poor makeshift in the congested streets and avenues of Manhattan. Underground trolleys and storage batteries have only served to show how difficult the problem is which the transit companies have to face. We cannot work up any enthusiasm in Manhattan over surface cars, no matter how ingenious in design and commodious they may be. Most of us have to go about in them more or less, and all of us are agreed that we ought to have better facilities for getting about.

But, in a historical sense, the parade might have been more complete and informing, and consequently more consoling. Where was the one-horse car of the fifties of the last century, in shape and size like the omnibuses of those days, with the driver's perch on top? Where was the bob-tail, of treasured memory, short, cramped for room, always old and ricketty, (there never was a new bob-tail car,) with the hole in the front door through which the passenger thrust his hand and coin or bill to get change, and held the same there until the driver was ready to give him his envelope? Where was the conductor with his punch, belonging to years preceding the invention of the fare indicator? Where was the pungent odor of camphene from the lamp of the fifties and early sixties, and the barely endurable smell of kerosene of a later day?

Where was the straw? Do these street railroad men fancy they can have a historical car parade without straw? There was always plenty of straw in every car, renewed sometimes as often as once daily, straw through which you waded in the morning, but trampled into a rough, uneven, shockingly dirty floor covering before night. Where was the car stove, once in a while, but not often, redhot? Cars are lighted and heated by electricity now. They have comforts beyond the dreams of the citizens of old New York. There is not room enough for them in our streets, and they are always crowded when one wants to ride. But a really historical parade of American street cars would do much to reconcile the citizens of this era to their public conveyances.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Another Surgeon on Fees. In the vivacious and startlingly frank letter from a distinguished surgeon, printed on this page yesterday, the writer denied that there was any "sliding scale" problem for him, since his charges were made on a wholly different principle. He puts a fixed price on each of the various kinds of operations, holding every one of a certain variety, for instance, to be worth $50,000. He does not deny that particular service, however, to those who cannot pay that particular sum; instead, he performs the operation and to the patient makes a present of the difference between what it was worth and what he can "comfortably" give.

Of course, that is about what all doctors do, and whether or not it shall be called a sliding scale of charges is obviously a mere matter of taste in nomenclature. At any rate there is adjustment to the patient's financial resources and therefore the inquiry as to the essential justice or rightness of varying prices for the same service arises anew. The best and practically the only defense of it yet made is that of necessity, based on the assertion that in no other way can the doctor treat both rich and poor and still make a living. As we all want him to do that, the adequacy of the defense will have to be admitted, even by those obstinate enough still to think or feel that there is something wrong about it—will have to be, that is, until they are prepared to suggest and prove the practicality of some other system.

The author of our letter confessed that while poor people usually paid his smaller bills in a way that made him happy—adding to the money, that is, grateful recognition of what he had done for them—the rich almost invariably disputed his larger charges and paid them at last grudgingly and resentfully, with intimations more or less explicit that he is a conscienceless extortioner. This he explained as due to the fact that from bitter experience the rich have come to believe that everybody is trying to "do" them. As much the same notion is entertained by the poor themselves with regard to the rich, one cannot but wonder whether both or either is right or wrong. In any case the social condition could not accurately be described as ideal.

This correspondent said that another participant in this controversy, if really an eminent practitioner, had understated, not overstated, the truth when he declared that he would double his income were he to charge $50 for every important operation he performs. We can assure him that about the eminence of the man who made this assertion there is no doubt.

Silence, Like Suicide, Is Confession. There is something decidedly startling in the stern statement addressed by Mr. Buckner to a policeman called before the Aldermanic Investigating Committee—"Your refusal to "sign a waiver of immunity was tanta- "mount to a confession of guilt." That this statement startles is due, however, only to the fact that it was made by a lawyer and in the course of proceedings closely analogous to those existing in courts.

In ordinary, man-to-man affairs the principle enunciated is applied in the case of every accusation. Commonly and as a matter of course, in the informal trials of private life, the laboriously constructed rules of legal evidence and the sacred presumption of innocence until guilt has been proved are coolly ignored and the accused or suspected person is in effect required to establish his veracity or honesty if he can. Failure to do so, or any hesitation about facilitating investigation to bring out the facts, is almost invariably held to be confession, and punishment of one sort or another is promptly inflicted.

We do not feel that there is any injustice in this—out of court—and while the plan is not infallible, while unquestionably it sometimes results in cruel wrong, on the whole it works so well that the incidental hardships are treated, if not as negligible, at least as preferable to an evasion of their deserts by a majority of wrongdoers. So accustomed are we to see a quite contrary policy followed in our courts that we have come to think that there is a special and absolute rightness in a "double standard" that until recently has received almost no discussion.

With naïve faith we say, "You can't make a man testify against himself," and that "You can't deduce guilt from refusal to testify." We really know better, and are not ignorant of, though we often forget, the fact that in several of the most highly civilized countries of the world—countries where the innocent suffer no oftener and the guilty escape far less frequently than in ours—public [illegible] conducted along just about the same lines as private ones.

Of late, however, even in legal circles, it has been often and openly asserted that juries should be authorized, and not, as now, forbidden, to draw the natural inference from a defendant's refusal to take the stand or from his refusal to answer questions when he gets there. The change, if it come, will begin a revolution of our whole system of criminal jurisprudence, for the presumption of innocence in spite of accusation will not long survive abolition of the right to stand silent under accusation.

Informers Paid Too Well. In the behavior after their release of the four informers whose testimony made possible the convictions of Becker and the "gunmen," one finds much reason for regretting that the law was forced to buy their assistance. They have, indeed, rendered useful service to the State, but in doing so they earned no gratitude. Their motive was to save their worthless lives, not to punish or to prevent crime, and to attain their one object they ruthlessly sacrificed the lives of close friends and associates whose guilt of murder they fully shared.

No word of repentance or convincing promise of reform has been uttered by any one of these wretches, and yet they all go free and are enjoying the notoriety which for such men is glory. They are strutting about in their familiar haunts, with full pockets and fine clothes, photographers minister to their vanity, and trips abroad "for rest" are talked about!

The spectacles thus presented are repulsive and humiliating, and it really seems that the price paid for the betrayals was too high. That the testimony had to be bought can hardly be denied, and need not be, but the necessity for adding liberty to life in trading with men so little able to drive a close bargain and to make terms instead of accepting them is not obvious. Merely to escape the chamber with the little door they would have told all they did tell. Now they are teaching every resident of the underworld an easy way to commit the most atrocious crimes with impunity.

Their freedom could at least have been conditioned on instant disappearance and permanent avoidance of attention.

A WATER FRONT SOLUTION.

Engineer Calls Attention to Staten Island's Advantages.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The United States has finally decided against authorizing further encroachments upon the open waters of the Hudson. This means that if piers are to be lengthened it must be at a sacrifice of a portion, at least, of New York's marginal streets or developed property. At the very lowest estimate of cost many millions of dollars will have to be expended to make the changes thus required. Land that has cost the city large sums of money will have to be vacated. And what is the end to be attained? Simply that a few thousand passengers may be within easy cab distance of the dozen or more great hotels and two railroad terminals. The writer believes that such a project is wasteful in the extreme, and that a far better solution can be reached, together with other advantages thrown into the bargain.

Along the eastern water front of Staten Island there exists to-day one of the very few piers in New York City at which the Aquitania and Imperator can land with safety, and many additional piers can be constructed along the same water front, having a length of from 1,100 to 1,300 feet, with deep water and adjoining the deepest channel of the harbor. With the completion of the Fourth Avenue trunk line in Brooklyn to Staten Island practically the whole eastern and northern shores of Staten Island will be connected by transportation lines for passenger and freight service, and by ferries and bridge with Brooklyn, Manhattan, Bergen Point, Perth Amboy, and practically all trunk lines of railroads reaching to all parts of the country, a condition not found to-day or possible without the expenditure of almost countless millions, for any other portion of New York City. Passengers on landing at such piers could to-day reach transportation lines more readily than in Manhattan, (barring the West Street horse cars,) transportation lines connecting at the Battery with other lines reaching practically every part of New York City.

Steamers landing at these proposed piers would receive their coal direct from the car without the present intervening water transportation. Freight would come also from the car direct and with less trouble than at present, due to lessened congestion, by way of lighters. The docking of these steamers, with the wide bay at their disposal, would be far simpler and less costly than under present conditions along the Hudson, and the time saved for each landing and departure would be very material.

Summing up, therefore, there can be secured by utilizing the Staten Island water front greater advantages for docking, coaling, loading, and unloading freight, with direct rail connection and better passenger distribution, and at a total less cost for construction than in any plan yet proposed for developing long piers at the Manhattan water front.

Why Not for Tilden?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of Mrs. Littleton's activity in the matter of Monticello, I would suggest that she also include Tilden's former estate, Graystone, and compel the present owner, Mr. Untermyer, to sell this also. Why stop with Monticello?

TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY TIMES.

The British Royal Commission concretely recommends, by vote of 9 to 3, drastic changes in the rigorous divorce laws of England. Leading and well analyzed extracts of its report appear to-morrow in The Times's Sunday Magazine.

A scientific study of the 6,000 appeals for help made to Mrs. E. H. Harriman in two years is dealt with. The money she was asked to give away would have exhausted her fortune four times over. A National Clearing House to furnish information of public and private charitable opportunities for the rich is suggested.

An interview with Mr. Moss, the prosecutor who convicted Charles Becker and the gunmen, murderers of the gambler Rosenthal, appears on the meaning of the verdicts of the juries. Do they sound the doom of gangmen in American cities?

For women an article tells how the people of Prince Edward's Island have gone extensively into the raising of silver-black foxes, the current price for which is now $30,000 a pair. The demand for the fur of these rare animals is great, their breeding is now scientific.

F. Hopkinson Smith, artist, writer, and engineer, gives a vivid account of his Summer "Through Thackeray-land in a Taxicab."

In two articles the eternal feminine is discussed. Paul Helleu, the French artist, has come to New York to paint portraits of striking American women; only the youthful and the beautiful will suffice for his distinguished pencil and brush. James Milne, literary editor of The London Chronicle, who has written the newest book about the American mind and polity, asserts that the American man is gravely at fault in undervaluing the American woman. James Huneker finds that Richard Strauss, the composer, has not retrograded in his art, and contributes a paper upon the musical festival given recently at Stuttgart.

By way of adventure there is Col. Chaillé-Long's story of his "Life in Four Continents" and his hazardous exploits in Africa.

Ernest Flagg and Robert Grier Cooke advise as to whether Fifth Avenue should be lined with skyscrapers.

The Pictorial Section will have photographs of the Christmas cards of King George and Queen Mary.

Then there is "The New Page for the New Woman." But a few of the rich variety of special articles in to-morrow's SUNDAY TIMES can be mentioned.

CABINET AND CONGRESS.

Mr. Wilson Has Views on Their Relation to the Executive.

In these days of Cabinet-making, when all sorts of impossible persons are being mentioned for high places in Mr. Wilson's Administration—but not by Mr. Wilson—some comment upon the Cabinet in our scheme of government may not be regarded as impertinent. There is no such thing under the American system as Cabinet government as there is in many foreign countries. "The so-called Cabinet," as James Bryce says in his great work on "The American Commonwealth," "is unknown to the statutes as well as to the Constitution of the United States." There is no reference in the Constitution to the Cabinet other than this, that the President may "require the opinion in writing of the principal officer in each of the executive departments upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices"; and these respective offices have been created by acts of Congress. In 1789 Washington found four such departments adequate for the needs of the Government at that time—Secretary of State, Secretary of the Treasury, Secretary of War, and Attorney General—and since that time, as the country has grown in extent and activity, there have been added a number of other "heads"—in 1798, a Secretary of the Navy; in 1829, a Postmaster General; in 1849, a Secretary of the Interior; in 1888, a Secretary of Agriculture; in 1903, a Secretary of Commerce and Labor. It is now proposed that there shall be at least two other executive departments—a Department of Labor and a Department of the Public Health. In addition to the nine existing executive departments there are the Inter-State Commerce Commission, an Indian Commission, and a Bureau of Insular Affairs, each of which, though under the general supervision of one of the already established departments, is nearly initiative in its character and authority.

In the United States the Cabinet Ministers, or the heads of the several executive departments, are appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate; but are responsible neither to the executive nor to the legislative branches of the Government. They can be removed by the President, they can be impeached by the Congress; but they are, in fact, amenable neither to the power which appoints nor to the authority which confirms. They are in frequent conference with the President about the affairs over which they have been placed; they are supposed to be in entire sympathy with the Executive, although they need not be, and they are expected and required to give the Congress, from time to time, and upon proper request or direction, such information as they can impart touching the matters under their supervision. But Mr. Wilson remarks significantly in his discussion of "Constitutional Government in the United States":

> Cabinet officers are shut out of Congress; the President himself has, by custom, no access to its floor; many long-established barriers of precedent, though not of law, hinder him from exercising any direct influence upon its deliberations; and yet he is undoubtedly the only spokesman of the whole people. They have again and again, as often as they were afforded the opportunity, manifested their satisfaction when he has boldly accepted the role of leader, to which the peculiar origin and character of his authority entitle him. The Constitution bids him speak, and times of stress and change must more and more thrust upon him the attitude of originator of policies.

While, therefore, it is prohibited that any person holding office under the United States shall also be a member of either House of Congress, it is not prohibited that either the President or his Cabinet advisers shall be admitted to the debates of Congress upon questions in which the President and his advisers are immediately interested. They could not vote on these questions, possibly, which is the vital quality in legislative membership; but they could be, and should be, at least in position to advise Congress upon the questions with which Congress must deal. Mr. Wilson has stated more than once that he will be not only the President of the people but the leader of the people as well. We should think that the Congress would welcome a closer touch with the Executive than it has ever had, and that would be effected if the new President and his statutory advisers should insist upon participation in the debates which are to settle not only the policies of the Administration but also the issues in which the country represented by it should be intelligently interested.

The Congress has steadily magnified its authority. "It does not domineer over the President himself," says Mr. Wilson in his work on "Congressional Government," "but it makes the Secretaries its humble servants. Not that it would hesitate, upon occasions, to deal directly with the Chief Magistrate himself; but it has few calls to do so, because our latter-day Presidents live by proxy; they are the Executive in theory, but the Secretaries are the Executive in fact. In spite, however, of the fact that the heads of the executive departments have outgrown their functions—are "too big for their breeches," sometimes, as they say down in Virginia—being "no longer simply the counselors of the President," but "having become in a very real sense members of the Executive," Mr. Wilson points out the inescapable fact that "their guiding power in the conduct of affairs, instead of advancing, has steadily diminished; because while they were being made integral parts of the machinery of administration, Congress was extending its own sphere of activity, was getting into the habit of investigating and managing everything."

Commenting upon the relations between the President and his Cabinet officers, or "Constitutional advisers," as they have been incorrectly styled, Mr. Wilson says:

> "There is no influence except the ascendency or tact of the President himself to keep a Cabinet in harmony, and to dispose it to co-operation." There have been times when the President and his Cabinet were not agreed upon questions of policy. Such was the case in the time of Washington and in the time of Lincoln. "Daniel Webster was bigger than President Fillmore, and President Jackson was bigger than Mr. Secretary Van Buren. It depends for the most part upon the character and training, the previous station, of the Cabinet officers, whether or not they act as governing factors in administration, just as it depends upon the President's talents and preparatory schooling whether or not he is a mere figurehead. A weak President may prove himself wiser than the convention which nominated him, by overshadowing himself with a Cabinet of notables. * * * It is easy to exaggerate the power of the Cabinet. After all has been said, it is evident that they differ from the permanent officials only in not being permanent. Their tenure of office is made to depend upon the supposition that their functions are political rather than simply ministerial, independent rather than merely instrumental. They are made party representatives because of the fiction that they direct policy. In reality the First Controller of the Treasury has almost, if not quite, as much weight in directing departmental business as the Secretary of the Treasury himself."
> The Secretaries "are in the leading-strings of statutes, and all their duties look toward a strict obedience to Congress. Congress made them and can unmake them." This is true only in the sense that the acts creating their several departments were passed by Congress and can be repealed by Congress; but the Cabinet officers can be removed only by the slow method of impeachment unless the shorter cut be taken of abolishing the offices they hold. "Once installed," says Mr. Wilson, "their hold upon their offices does not depend upon the will of Congress. If they please the President and keep upon living terms with their colleagues, they need not seriously regard the displeasure of the houses. * * * They are denied the gratification of possessing real power, but they have the satisfaction of being secure in a petty independence which gives them a chance to be tricky and scheming. * * * Congress did not give them their places, and cannot easily take them away. * * * The President appoints with the sanction of the Senate, and cannot dismiss his advisers without legislative consent; yet the Ministers in reality serve, not the President, but Congress, and Congress can neither appoint nor dismiss."

There is a great deal of idle talk about the men Mr. Wilson will select for places in his Cabinet; but there has been no authoritative word from him upon the subject. The rumor persists that he will offer the State portfolio to Mr. Bryan; but if he has not made any announcement to this effect. The chances are that the next President of the United States will be "Wilson—that's all." J. C. H.

ALIENS' NAMES AGAIN.

Mr. Konta Finds Time Not Yet Ripe for a Society.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have proposed in letters to The Times the controlled and systematic Americanization of alien family names, in order to do away, so far as possible, with the present practice of allowing the naturalized citizen to appropriate any well-known native family name that appeals to his fancy. The Times was kind enough to comment favorably on my proposal; Prof. Todd of Columbia University, a philological authority, approved of my plan in a communication published by you, while at the same time warning me that the prospects for the foundation of a Patronymic Society were "problematical." Encouraged by this reception of my proposal, I made a tentative effort toward the foundation of the society in question. To my great disappointment, I found that Prof. Todd's view of the prospect of the undertaking proved to be correct.

Native Americans, so far as I have gone, have treated the plan with the utmost indifference. Only an occasional word of encouragement has come to me from sufferers from the present anarchical state of affairs and from others who have a pronounced objection to the prospect of sharing the same fate. The naturalized Americans with whom I have spoken on the subject, men of leading among their own nationalities in this country, have, on the whole, expressed themselves as strongly opposed to the plan. They, it seems, are in favor, first of all, of the retention of the Old World family names, however unpronounceable they may be, and of leaving the process of eventual Americanization to time and the Anglo-Saxon tongue—to the process of the past, which has twisted so many German and French and Dutch and Scandinavia patronymics into English equivalents of vowel and consonant. The argument that all these languages are related historically or linguistically to English, while the tongues of Southeastern Europe are utterly alien to it, appeared to make no impression on them. What English has done to the patronymics of earlier immigrants through many centuries, they argued, it can do, and will do, and must do to the names of Southeastern Europe. And as to those anxious to change their names, they, I was informed, being desirous of hiding their origin, might as well take the best that is to be had, so long as there are no laws forbidding it—on the principle, I suppose, of the English Mr. Bugge, who became Mr. Norfolk-Howard—nothing less, if you please—by Act of Parliament, furnishing by his aristocratic choice the English language with still another humorous euphemism for an obnoxious insect.

Strangely enough, the race that has least need of changed patronymics, one of the races of the older immigration that has done well for itself and the country, the race that has given its own patronymics a right of citizenship here even when they are not of English origin, as many of them are—this race I have found to be most decidedly opposed to my proposal. Its opposition is doubly strange because it is itself a victim of the appropriation of its family names by aliens of entirely different races and origins—among them many prizefighters and gangsters. When I pointed this out to a member of this people, he humorously answered that no one believes it who looks into their faces, which, he added, "are maps of any other country but that of my ancestors." The consensus of opinion among the immigrants themselves indicates that they see in changes of name a sort of apostasy, a disloyalty to their own race and country of origin, which, if rendered necessary for reasons of expediency, had better be left to the first generation born here. Beyond that, it appears, they do not care to think.

Meanwhile the problem still confronts us. Shall the immigrant continue to appropriate for his own and his children's use whatever honorable native American patronymic he may decide upon? Shall the rightful bearer of that name continue to have no voice in the matter, no laws to protect him in the possession of what is most closely his own, the symbol and epitome of what his fathers have achieved, of what he himself has added thereto, as an incitement to his children? Shall we be driven to distinctions that would distinguish only imperfectly—between the Virginia Lees and the Lemberg Lees, for instance, or between the New York and the Constantinople Cortlandts? I may add here, as a matter of possible interest, that for some reason or other the alien in search of an American name seems never yet, so far as I have been able to discover, to have fastened upon the greatest of them all, that of Lincoln.

That order will have to be brought into this chaos sooner or later is certain. That its regulation by law cannot begin too soon is hardly less apparent.

Delayed Pushcart Markets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many thanks for your short editorial article on "Pushcart Markets." You have inspired a hope that the time is nigh when pedestrians can walk on the sidewalks of certain streets when they will not have to dodge wagons, pushcarts, monster baskets, and a score of other ingenious contrivances that men, women, and children peddlers use to hold their wares, to obstruct the highways, and, incidentally, to stop the progress of a long-suffering but patient humanity.

CONCERNING THE TURKEY.

When Cortes hit the Aztec pike
And made his immemorial hike
From outside to the inside, he Did something for posterity
Which in its dietetic charm
Made full atonement for the harm
He did to all those Mexicans
Who sought to thwart his cherished plans
Of conquest, loot and such like deeds
As any high-browed conqueror needs
To line him up with heroes who
Make history by what they do,
No matter though it's writ in red
With blood they had no right to shed.
Old Cortes was a chap like those
And what he did to Mexico's
First people was a plenty, yet
He left posterity in debt
To him because, although he slew
And burned and robbed and turned his crew
Of cut-throats loose to do their worst,
He found the turkey and was first
To realize its noble worth
As precious food for all the earth,
And straightway sent it forth to meet
The higher thought of those who eat.
Since then the Turkey, fowl supreme
Above the Eagle and its scream,
Has set its seal of virtue on
The coming of a rosy dawn
Of universal thanks when all
The world, in gratitude will call
For one, all 'round Thanksgiving Day
Because the Turkey came its way,
And Cortes, shriven of his sin,
Will sit up in his grave and grin.

FRANCES M. WARD MAKES HER DEBUT

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Ward Introduced at Reception at Uncle's Home.

DINNER AND THEATRE PARTY

Guests Return to Mr. Ward's Home for Informal Dance—Miss Helen J. Du Bois a Debutante.

Miss Frances Montagu Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Ward, made her début yesterday afternoon at a reception given by her uncle, Henry Marion Ward, at 829 Park Avenue. Mrs. Ward and her daughter were assisted in receiving by the Misses Marion and Louise Clarke, cousins of Miss Ward; Miss Cornelia Cammann, Miss Mary Kopper, and Miss Jessie Coogan. Miss Ward was in white charmeuse.

The rooms were decorated with American Beauty roses and Autumnal flowers, which Miss Ward sent afterward to St. George's Memorial House for distribution among the sick in the parish.

After the reception there was an informal dinner for those receiving and a theatre party. The guests included Miss Hope Hamilton, a débutante of this season; Miss Marion Wall, Bjornstrom Steffanson, McCosh Magie, Alexander Hamilton, Wallace Cohn, Lawrence Braine, Worrall Hyde, Daniel Kellogg, Jr., Ormond Gould, Arthur Hamilton, Jay Coogan, Henry M. Ward, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward. The party occupied three boxes at the Globe Theatre, and then returned to Mr. Ward's home for supper and an informal dance.

Among those asked to the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, A. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, Peter Townsend Barlow, W. A. Brooks of Boston, Mrs. Charles Baylis, Mrs. George Bliss, Miss Bliss, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Astor Bristed, S. Ward Boocock, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Burnett, Mr. and Mrs. Percy R. Pyne, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Reese, Chesley Richardson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Schieffelin, Edward Shippen 2d; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, the Misses Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steele, Prince and Princess Troubetzkoy, Miss Louise Ward McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Brander Matthews, Miss Frances Henry, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fellowes Morgan, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Forbes McCreery.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Monson Morris, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Parsons, the Misses Eugenie Bissell, Priscilla Bull, Caramai Carroll, Marjorie Cleveland, Dorothy Clarke, Dorothy Doubleday, Diantha Fitch, Agnes Fowler, Elise Francke, Janet Gregory, Hilda Holmes, Louise Homer, Gertrude Hoyt, Evangeline Hill, Mary Haskell, Martha Hicks, Nöel Haskins, Elizabeth Ingles, Florence Johnson, Eleanor Kendall, Katherine Lawrence, Harriet Lummis, Lois Martin, Natalie Matthews, Estelle O'Brien, Mary Pyne, Gladys Robbins, Marjorie Shannon, Katherine Schermerhorn, Helene Underwood, Vera Van Buren, Eleanor Taylor, and Cora Weir.

Mrs. Arthur Mason gave a tea yesterday at her residence, 119 East Fifty-seventh Street, for her débutante granddaughter, Miss Helen J. Du Bois. Mrs. Mason and Miss Du Bois had receiving with them the Misses Katherine Du Bois, Maud Van Rensselaer, Josephine Coster, Cornelia Geer, Elise Francke, Lois Keogh, Elizabeth Inglis, and Lucy Wheeler.

Hippodrome Actress to Wed a Pilot.

May Carlisle of the Hippodrome announced yesterday that she would leave the company on Saturday night to become the bride of Ernest Sloat, one of the pilots who bring in the big liners through New York Bay. Miss Carlisle has been with the Hippodrome company for four seasons, and this year she has been appearing in the ballet. The marriage will take place at St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Ninety-ninth Street and Amsterdam Avenue, next Wednesday, and will be performed by the Rev. J. P. Peters. Mr. and Mrs. Sloat will sail for Bermuda for a honeymoon, and when they return they will live in Ridgewood, N. J. Yesterday, after the matinée, Miss Carlisle's companions gave her a farewell luncheon on the stage.

Struthers—Owen Wedding on Dec. 7.

The marriage of Miss Frances Owen, a daughter of Mrs. Edmund C. Owen, and Charles B. Struthers will take place at 4 P. M. on Dec. 7 in the Church of the Transfiguration. There will be no attendants, and only the families and a few close friends will be asked, owing to mourning in the bride's family. There will be no reception.

Miss Virginia Hovey Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. Hovey of Summit, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Virginia Hovey, to Walter Emerson Woodford, Jr., of this city. No date has been set for the wedding.

LEVY—MORRISON.

The betrothal of Miss Dora B. Levy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Levy of 17 East 127th Street, to Isidore D. Morrison has been announced. Mr. Morrison is a member of the law firm of Morrison & Schiff.

Daughter to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Duke.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Duke are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter yesterday at their home, 1,009 Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Duke was Mrs. Nanaline Holt Inman of Atlanta, Ga., the widow of a welathy cotton merchant, when she married Mr. Duke in July, 1907. This is their first child. Mrs. Duke has a son, Walter Inman, by her first marriage. Mr. Duke was married to Mrs. McCreedy in 1904 and two years later obtained a divorce from her. His New Jersey estate at Somerville is one of the largest and finest in the country.

W. Somerset Maugham Arrives.

W. Somerset Maugham, the English playwright, arrived yesterday on the Mauretania from Liverpool, on his way to Calgary, Northwest Canada, where he intends to gather material for a new play, which will be written around Englishmen of good family who go out to that region to seek their fortune in ranching or farming.

WOMEN DANCE INCOGNITO.

Two in Society Appear at Plaza in Aid of Anti-Vivisection.

A benefit for the New York Anti-Vivisection Society was held at the Plaza yesterday afternoon. The identity of two society women, who appeared in Greek and modern dances, was not disclosed. Mrs. Diana Belais, President of the Society, said:

"These two society women, who volunteered to dance for us under the names of Mlle. Mimi Gabaudan and Mlle. Elena Hearne, are serious students of their art, and regard dancing as the most poetical form of expression." A considerable sum was realized from the performance.

Others who contributed to the success of the entertainment were Mlle. Lola Menzeli, M. Roger De Bruyn, Miss Merced de Pina, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Faber, George M. Cohan, and Jack Hines.

The list of patrons and patronesses included Mrs. Elisha Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Lynch, the Misses Lynch, Mrs. Charles R. Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. McCurdy, Mrs. Henry Mills Day, Mr. and Mrs. Denning Duer, Mrs. James Muhlenberg Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. T. Edwin Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Holmes, Mrs. Billings P. Learned, Mrs. F. C. Stimson, Mrs. C. Dinsmore Marvin, Miss Mary Fitzgerald, the Baroness Zglinitzki, the Baroness de Knoop, the Baroness d'Alphen and Lady Onslow.

Mrs. Purley	Lois Arnold
Mrs. Tomlin	Justine Cutting

Those were the happy days. When there was red blood in the plays, the joy of expectancy, the thrill of realization. Happily they have come again, and the Manhattan Opera House rang with the shouts of the enthusiasts last night, the lovers of real melodrama, who don't waste their time discussing the ifs, ands, buts; who don't care a fig for the long arm of coincidence or give a rap for the probabilities or the possibilities. After all, who shall say that such beauty and virtue as that of the lovely lady Diana Sartoris is only to be found in melodrama, who will aver that such bravery and such villainy are not to be met with away from the land of the calcium and the spotlight?

What matter, really, when all is said and done, whether it is truth or fiction?

The main point is that the new melodrama imported from Drury Lane is ripping good stuff, full of thrills, full of laughs, full of surprises, and not without considerable ingenuity expended to advantage. It took brains to develop that Tussaud Chamber of Horrors scene with its blend of laughs and plot; it took something like mechanical genius to create the means to the end in the big railroad scene, with the rush of the locomotive, the crash of the collision, the saving of The Whip, and the Oh-Let-Us-Be-Joyful conclusion to the story.

And it is all highly picturesque, with its pack of hounds, its red-coated huntsmen, and its big race scene for the final touch in proceedings which mark crescendo from the time of the first curtian's rising until the last one falls.

Occasionally the action must halt to place the big sets, but at such times there is Marie Illington, delightful comedienne that she is, to make matters seem interesting even when they really mean only a filling in of time.

And how that Manhattan audience did love it all. And how successive audiences are going to scream at it. Not since Oscar's day has the Manhattan Opera House promised to make the same bid for smart theatre parties looking for good amusement. At "The Whip" they may talk in the boxes if they like, they may come as late as they please, always sure of being in on time for "something big." As for people at large—well, "The Whip" is as good as half a dozen moving picture shows rolled into one, and the crowd is sure to like it.

It is a tale of true love triumphant, of villainy baffled and humiliated, which Mr. Cecil Raleigh and Mr. Henry Hamilton set forth. First of all there is Lady Diana Sartoris, the pretty, charming, and intrepid granddaughter of the Marquis of Beverley, who is not only Master of the famous Beverley Hunt, but also breeder and owner of famous thoroughbreds, destined to maintain the glory of the Beverley stables rather than to fill the pockets of the greedy bookmakers. It is a pretty set showing the Falconhurst kennels on one side, while in the background is a refreshing glimpse of moor and mountain and of running stream. Among the many suitors for Lady Diana's hand is Capt. Greville Sartoris, a nephew of the Marquis, who presently reveals himself as a shameless fortune-hunter and the acknowledged villain of the piece. His accomplice is a Mrs. D'Aquila, a fine, showy woman, who, like the handsome Captain, appears to trust to her wits chiefly as a means of existence.

Both are intensely interested to discover what are the chances of Lord Beverley's horse, The Whip, for the Two Thousand Guineas, and with this view Sartoris endeavors to persuade the frail but fascinating Myrtle Anson, whose brother Harry is to ride the horse at Newmarket, to ferret out of the lad the truth regarding it. Meanwhile, in the course of a morning gallop Lady Di has happened upon a stranger, apparently an artist, but suspected by her grandfather to be a tout in disguise. A little afterward a motor dashes along the road, suddenly capsizes, and its occupant is violently thrown out. The stranger proves to be Lady Di's artist, in whom Capt. Sartoris recognizes Lord Brancaster, the proprietor of an adjoining estate, and a man upon whom, as a notorious gambler, the Marquis looks with the gravest distrust.

The plot began to thicken. The unconscious Brancaster is carried to Falconhurst, where, after a time, he awakens to a sense of events and to a feeling that he is rapidly falling in love with Lady Di. Sartoris, foreseeing what is likely to happen, will leave no stone unturned to sweep so dangerous a rival out of his path. Fortune favors him. Between Brancaster and Mrs. D'Aquila there has been a previous question of marriage; a special license has even been obtained by the former. Now suppose it could be shown that their wedding had really taken place, and Brancaster proved incapable of refuting the charge? Aha!

A pretty scheme, truly, and only needing for its success the acquiescence of an unprincipled clergyman, the co-operation of Mrs. D'Aquila, and the appearance at the altar of Capt. Sartoris himself in the novel character of Lord Brancaster.

So to the scene of the famous hunt breakfast in the great hall at Falconhurst, where Lady Di is elected Deputy Master of the Beverley Hunt, and where her engagement to Lord Brancaster is duly made public. Just as Lord Brancaster is about to reply to the toast of his own and of Lady Di's health, the heavy doors are thrown open, and the false Lady Brancaster sweeps into the hall, determined to maintain her right to the title against all comers.

The lovers meet once more at the Olympian Horse Show, obviously the rendezvous of everybody who pretends to be or is anybody. Accident sends the remaining characters to the same place, together with Joe Kelly, a wealthy bookmaker, who, having imbibed "not wisely but too well," offers to wager anything Brancaster chooses against The Whip reaching the winning post first at Newmarket. Twenty to one in thousands three times over is the amount agreed upon, and, as Brancaster has had a tip from his sweepheart that the Beverley horse must romp home an easy winner, it may be judged that he stands to do pretty well on the transaction. Once more kindly coincidence stretches forth its long arm on behalf of the dramatist. Thanks to its powerful help, the principal characters, unknown of course to each other, determine that their next meeting place shall be the Chamber of Horrors at Mme. Tussaud's.

Here not only does the plot gain further consistency, but the fun becomes fast and furious. Here honest Tom Lambert, head trainer at the Beverley stables, pursued by the Hon. Mrs. Beamish, victim of unreasoning jealousy, takes the place of Dr. Crippen in a group of murderers, and from his position overhears Sartoris and Mrs. D'Aquila arranging to bring about the demolition of the horse box in which The Whip is to be conveyed from Falconhurst to Newmarket. Before Lambert can effect his escape the iron door is swung to, closing automatically, and at 10 o'clock on Saturday evening the unlucky trainer finds himself imprisoned, with only the wax murderers to keep him company, until the attendant arrives on the following Monday morning to reopen the chamber!

And now, with nerves strained to the highest pitch, comes the dénouement. And here tribute must be paid to Mr. Arthur Collins for the striking series of sensational pictures which follow swiftly. First, a glimpse of Falconhurst Station, with the horse box on the rails, awaiting the arrival of its precious freight. Presently The Whip is led in. The train which is to bear the box away slowly backs into the station, the couplings are adjusted, the shrill shriek of the steam whistle is heard, and, puff! puff! puff! off goes the train crowded with passengers who can be seen in the various compartments reading their newspapers or drowsily steeped in slumber. Gradually the open country, the pace increased, the wheels flying round faster and faster, and then, with an ear-piercing whistle, the train dashes into the tunnel.

Presently the door of one of the compartments swings open. Through it emerges Sartoris, who carefully creeps along the footboards until the horse-box is reached. Uncoupling that from the last carriage he regains his place, and away steams the train, leaving the horse-box and its occupant to their fate. Quickly the scene revolves; the other end of the tunnel is revealed. The horse-box has drifted on to the line along which the midnight express will presently come thundering. Happily there is help at hand. Mrs. Beamish, repenting of her cruelty, has telephoned to Mme. Tussaud's to liberate her humble admirer, Lambert. He has communicated to her the news of the conspiracy overheard by him. The next moment she is being whirled along in her motor toward Manfield Junction. There she arrives just in time to call for assistance and have The Whip taken from its box. And none too soon. For now the express dashes out of the tunnel, crashes in upon the horse-box, and reduces it to atoms.

Need it be added that The Whip finally wins the race, and virtue is properly rewarded, while vice gets it, as the popular song has it, where the collar ought to be? It need not. But the fact may be mentioned that good acting helps a lot.

First and foremost, there is Marie Illington, who, with the least possible effort, lands every point, and that, too, without playing to the gallery.

Then, there is Ambrose Manning, her running mate in the comedy honors. John Shine adds his share, and a delightfully fresh-faced English girl, Miss Evylyn Kerry, plays the heroine charmingly.

The surprise of the night was Leonore Harris, who, besides looking very smart, played with much distinction.

Dion Titheradge, Horace Pollock, Herbert Jarman, and Charles Blackall, the last as a very smooth villain, were others who contributed to a generally competent ensemble.

COLUMBIA BOYS IN SKIRTS.

Give an Amusing Performance of "The Shoemaker's Holiday."

Columbia's dramatic season on Morningside Heights was ushered in last night with the successful production of "The Shoemaker's Holiday," in the Brinkerhoff Theatre at Barnard College. The quaint play, written by Thomas Dekker, presented by the Philolexian Society of Columbia University, offered unlimited opportunity for the students in their histrionic sallies, and screams of laughter brought down the house when the youths of ere wand baseball calibre ventured forth in the intricacies and charms of feminine attire.

As in the time when this old English play was first produced, the parts of the women were taken by men—students from across the street at Columbia, and the effect could not have been more realistic in the early days. A. A. Coats, '13, as Rose Oately, the daughter of Sir Roger Oately, Lord Mayor of London, scored hits when he skipped in, off, and around the stage, flouncing about a multitude of skirts, coquetishly tossing long earrings, and never knowing what was banging about her neck, although the audience knew it was meant to be a braid of brown hair. His maid, Sybil, taken by G. Murphy, caused much amusement. Margery and Jane, the two wives in the play, were cleverly handled by W. Logan, '18, erstwhile centre on the basket ball team, and N. B. Ettinger, '15. W. S. Harris, '18, gave a good character delineation of Simon Eyre, the shoemaker.

The setting of the play is the sixteenth century, and the place London. It was splendidly staged, the credit for this and the coaching of the actors belonging to Prof. Tassin of the English department at Columbia. Performances of the play will be given this afternoon and evening.

Augustus Thomas's 'Mere Man' Shown

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The new Augustus Thomas comedy, "Mere Man," was presented here to-night under the direction of William Harris. The play deals with the suffrage movement. Prominent in the company were Chrystal Herne, William Sampson, Orlando Daly, De Witt C. Jennings, Helen Orr Daly, Minnette Barrett, Clifford Bruce, and Katheryn Browne Decker.

Morris Gest Hurt by Stage Train.

Morris Gest, one of the managers of the Manhattan Opera House, was unable to be present at the opening performance of "The Whip" last night, on account of an accident in the afternoon. Mr. Gest was on the stage during a rehearsal of the railroad scene and failed to get out of the way of the moving train. He was struck by the heavy scenery and knocked down a flight of stairs. Mr. Gest was removed to his home at 200 West Seventy-ninth Street, suffering from some severe bruises. Last night he got reports of the progress of the play by telephone from the theatre.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Hugh Ford has begun work on the Liebler Company's production that is to open the Children's Theatre on top of the Century Theatre soon. After completing this work Mr. Ford intends to take a rest from office duties, but will continue in an advisory capacity to the Lieblers and others.

When "A Butterfly on the Wheel" is presented at the West End Theatre next week, Lewis Waller will play two roles on Tuesday evening that of the lover, Collingwood, which is his regular part, and that of the prosecuting attorney in the third act. Mr. Waller once played the two roles at a special matinee during the run of the piece in London.

Laura Hope Crews, H. B. Warner, and the rest of the company that is to appear in Henry Miller's production of "Blackbirds," will leave this afternoon for Boston for the last two weeks of rehearsals under the direct supervision of Mr. Miller. The company will consist of Mathilde Cottrelly, Ethel Winthrop, Bertha Welby, Jean Gailbraith, Sydney Valentine, James Bradbury, and Harry O. Taylor. The first performance will be in Atlantic City on Dec. 5.

Sarah Bernhardt will sail to-day on La Savoie for New York, and is expected to arrive here next Saturday with her company. She will begin her season in Chicago on Dec. 2. Arrangements have been made to send her scenery and costumes to Chicago under bond without customs inspection here.

THE NEW YORK SYMPHONY.

Dufranne Appears Instead of Sammarco—Concerto Grosso by Handel.

At the second concert of the New York Symphony Orchestra in Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon a hasty change in the programme was made necessary by the illness of Mario Sammarco. In place of the distinguished Italian baritone of the Philadelphia-Chicago Opera Company, Hector Dufranne, the equally distinguished French member of the same company, appeared. The notice of the change was evidently so short that there was no time to inform the audience of it. Everybody cannot be expected to know the diference in personal appearance, or even in voice, between Messrs. Sammarco and Dufranne; but it is seriously to be hoped that when the latter began his singing, in French, of the "Legend of the Sage Bush," from Massenet's "Jongleur de Notre Dame," not a single person in the audience thought it was "Non piu Andrai," in Italian, from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro." There is a considerable margin of difference in the styles.

Mr. Dufranne's singing of this singularly successful inspiration of Massenet's is familiar in New York. His powerful baritone, not wholly free from some roughness of quality, resounded vigorously in Aeolian Hall; his singing of the air had nobility as well as tenderness and pathos. Later in the afternoon he sang three songs with piano accompaniment, to the manifest pleasure of his listeners.

The orchestral numbers consisted of Handel's concerto grosso in the version of Max Reger; Goldmark's orchestral scherzo in A, Op. 45, and Rachmaninoff's second symphony in E minor. Handel's concerto grosso is like one of the large utterances of the early gods; music of the stoutest structure and amplest expression. The contrasting sections between the "concertino" and the full orchestra are of fascinating interest. The orchestra never sounded of greater muscularity and solidity than it did in this music of the truly grand style; and the strings had an especial power. The performance was superb.

In Goldmark's scherzo, already played this season by the orchestra, there is much brilliancy, lightness, and buoyancy; and these qualities were successfully reproduced. It was agreeable to hear the full-bodied tone of the players and the nicety and finish, especially, of the wood wind players.

The symphony by Rachmaninoff may now be called the most successful of all recent works in the symphonic form, at least so far as New York is concerned. It has indeed made a new record in the country in the course of the last three years that would entitle it to such a rank. It had been heard in New York already six or seven times before Mr. Damrosch repeated it yesterday, but always with a fuller detail. A rehearing of it makes it a little difficult to understand quite the whole extent of its popularity. It always sounds unduly long—that is, the composer has said what he had to say at much greater length than was needed. It is one of the times when, by saying less he would have said more. The work suffers also to a certain extent by its lack of points of repose and contrast. The composer for a large part of the time is speaking through the full voice of the orchestra. There are not many "breathing spaces" in his orchestration, and the effect is one of undue solidity and thickness.

Beyond and above all this, there is much to please in the melodious beauty of many of the themes—nor is it always an obvious beauty—and especially the rhythmic vigor of the music and the pulsing animation and intensity of the composer's expression. Rachmaninoff, though a Russian, has not allied himself with the Russian school that claims to represent the true Russian inspiration in music. That is to say, he has refrained from using Russian idioms, or native folk song and dance rhythms as constituent elements of his music. It may also be said that he is not a salon musician; and in this respect also is differentiated from certain other Russian composers. The symphony was played with spirit, and was much enjoyed.

Germans Give "Die Journalisten."

Gustav Freytag's old comedy, "Die Journalisten," was presented at the Irving Place German Theatre last night, with the full strength of the stock company in the principal rôles. The costuming was made to suit the period of the play—about 1850—and a special scenic equipment was provided. The chief parts were taken by August Meyer-Eigen, Marianne Lotz, Marie [illegible], and Mac Juergens.

PRESIDENT TAFT AT WEDDING.

Sees Miss Ridgly Married to Dr. Parker on Senator's 83d Birthday.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The marriage of Miss Eleanor Cullom Ridgly to Dr. Henry Parker, both of Washington, took place at noon to-day in the presence of President Taft, Chief Justice and Mrs. White, Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, and Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand. This distinguished addition to the family party and a few girl friends was complimentary to the venerable grandfather of the bride, Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, at whose Washington home the ceremony took place. The bride has made her home with Senator Cullom since the death of her grandmother.

The wedding was originally planned to take place in St. John's Church in December, but was advanced to this date by the desire of Senator Cullom to celebrate his eighty-third birthday. The bride was unattended except for a flower girl, her namesake and niece, Miss Eleanor Ridgly Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phelps Brown of Springfield, Mass. She was escorted by her father, William Barrett Ridgly, former Controller of the Currency. The Rev. Freeland Peters, formerly of St. John's Church, this city, and a personal friend of the bridegroom, officiated.

Dr. Parker's best man was his brother, John Donaldson Parker of Baltimore.

The wedding gown was white satin with panier and Bertha of rose point, the latter originally worn by the bride's maternal grandmother. The going-away gown was blue velvet, with small hat trimmed in lynx.

Dr. and Mrs. Parker left early in the afternoon by motor for the first stage of their wedding journey, which will include a six weeks' trip to Europe. On their return they will reside at 1,728 Connecticut Avenue, which Dr. Parker has purchased.

In addition to the official party and the immediate relatives of the bride the company included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lloyd Winder and the Misses Winder of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker of Newark, N. J.

Edith Wynne Matthison for 'The Spy'

Edith Wynne Matthison has been engaged by Charles Frohman for the principal rôle in Henry Kistemaecker's drama, "The Spy." Miss Matthison was under Mr. Frohman's management in 1903 when she came to America with her husband, Charles Rann Kennedy, to appear in the morality play, "Everyman." "The Spy" will have its first performance in America at Atlantic City on Dec. 20, and will come to New York shortly afterward. It is now being played at the St. James's Theatre, London, under the title of "The Turning Point."

Samuel Arthur Bent.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Samuel Arthur Bent, lawyer, author, and editor, dropped dead in the lobby of a hotel here to-day. Mr. Bent was born in Boston, July 1, 1841. He was graduated from Yale College, receiving the degree of B. A. in 1861 and that of M. A. in 1864. In 1865 he was graduated from the Harvard Law School. He was married Aug. 30, 1890, to Miss Mary E. Thompson of Boston. In 1865 Mr. Bent was admitted to the Suffolk bar. He was American editor of The Swiss Times of Geneva and of Galignani's (Paris) Messenger from 1872 until 1874. From 1878 until 1886 he was Superintendent of Schools in Nashua, N. H., and Clinton, Mass. Mr. Bent served on the Boston School Committee, and was for nine years the Secretary and Treasurer of the Boston Society. He was author of "Familiar Short Sayings of Great Men," "Hints on Language," and "Notes to the Golden Legend."

Denial of Death of Minnie Hauk.

A denial of the death of Mme. Minnie Hauk, the American grand opera singer, was made yesterday by her husband, Baron von Hesse-Wartegg. It was said that the false report that Mme. Hauk had died in Munich, Nov. 16, which came through acquaintances of the singer, had caused much annoyance to her and her husband. The singer, who retired from the stage in 1895, is 60 years old and in good health, her husband says.

Bessie Anthony, Noted Golfer, Dies.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Bernard C. Horne, known to golfing enthusiasts as Bessie Anthony, for years woman Western golf champion, died early to-day at her home, Glenview, near Keswick, Va. One of the brilliant matches which she won on the links was at Exmoor in 1904, when she defeated Miss Mabel Higgins of the Midlothian Club. Mrs. Horne was 32 years old and lived in Chicago until her marriage eight years ago. She was a member of the Glenview Golf Club and gave her home in the Blue Ridge Mountains the name of her club. Three children survive her.

Michael J. A. McCaffery.

Michael J. A. McCaffery, for forty-five years a lawyer of this city, died at his home, 168 West Ninety-fourth Street, yesterday. Mr. McCaffery was a graduate of Fordham College, class of '61. He was the author of "The Siege of Spoletto," and was a frequent contributor to magazines and other periodicals.

HARVARD 5 TO 4 ODDS GO BEGGING AT YALE

Eli Coaches Say Their Team Must Show Big Improvement in Form to Win To-day.

CRIMSON ROOTERS BOASTFUL

New Haven Hotels Filled with Advance Guard for Big Game—Harvard Spends Day at New London.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—Filling every hotel in this football centre to its roof, to-night the advance guard of the Yale-Harvard gridiron crowd surged into town. A noisy, boastful and eager to bet Harvard contingent filled hotel corridors and cafés all evening, freely proffering odds on the Crimson and voicing their opinion that Yale's football downfall was close at hand, and that the Yale goal line would be crossed and the Eli rush line punctured to-morrow for the first time since 1901.

Five to three money was in evidence at many betting centres, creating new records. Never but once before have the Harvard backers swept Yale off their feet, when two seasons ago they covered all the Yale cash at even terms. To-night Harvard money went begging at 5 to 4, and not all that was offered at 5 to 3 was promptly accepted. From Harvard has gone the tip, "Plunge on the Crimson." At Yale the word from the coaches is: "Go slow; unless the eleven shows a big reversal of form over the Princeton game it cannot win."

The ears of the Yale's regular eleven have tingled the past week at the curtain lectures they have heard from the coaches. They have been told that they can play 50 per cent. better football than they exhibited against Princeton, and that it will be necessary for them to play it if they expect to defeat the Crimson. Otherwise a heavy score will be piled against them to-morrow. If Yale can withstand the Harvard attack the first half, Yale's clever second string men—Pumpelly, the long-distance oval propeller; Markle, the place and drop kick goal maker, and Dick Baker, the lightning end runner—should show scoring specialties. Harvard's expected catapulting through the Yale line for touchdowns the first half will, however, change all this possibility.

Several thousand of the 34,000 rooters who have drawn the lucky tickets of admission for the Yale stands to-morrow reached here to-night, but the arrival of the forty-two special trains from Boston and New York to-morrow will transplant the real throng.

To-morrow's game is a farewell to the old wooden stands at Yale, which have stood fifteen years. They have been enlarged to their capacity of construction, and this year fall short by thousands of seating even the Yale and Harvard alumni, who have been allotted only one ticket apiece.

A stern and successful fight has been made by the city and college authorities to keep speculators from the streets. Detectives have scouted several days without finding traces of the speculators.

Extreme care has been taken of the old stands and playing inclosure, watchmen guarding them all the week and carefully raking off the straw after every practice and replacing it each night. To-morrow morning the field will be freshly gridironed with chalk marks, and forty firemen will be stationed at the sections rigidly enforcing the laws against smoking and lighted matches.

Yale's line-up stands unaltered from the Princeton game. To-day, in the final signal drill of the season, it was the same as it has been daily this week. The coaches feel that they must make plenty of changes during the match, but that the line-up selected for the Tigers contains Yale's greatest theoretical strength.

Yale depends on straight football by her backs, by flying end runs which failed to materialize at Princeton, and by forward passes that were hardly used against the Tigers. Yale has nothing left uncovered in attack except several forward pass combinations. Yale's lack of aggressiveness developed slowness and sluggishness at Princeton, and the coaches have spent all the week trying to throw out this defect. If continued to-morrow it will amount to suicide.

Weather predictions for to-morrow indicate cooler, fair weather. Showers were predicted during the night, the general forecast being ideal football conditions.

Yale's line-up at the start will be: Left end, Avery; left tackle, Talbott; left guard, Cooney; centre, Ketcham; right guard, Pendleton; right tackle, Gallouer; right end, Bomeisler; quarter back, Wheeler; left half back, Philbin; right half back, Spalding (captain); full back, Flynn.

The substitutes—End, Carter and Sheldon; tackles, B. Warren and W. Baker; guards, Arnold, Harbinson, and Read; centre, Marting; quarter backs, Carnell and Dyer; half backs, D. Baker and Markle; full back, Pumpelly.

The officials—Referee, W. S. Langford, Trinity; umpire, David Fultz, Brown; linesman, W. R. Morice, University of Pennsylvania.

HARVARD LOOKS TO BRICKLEY.

Half Back's Kicking Expected to Win Against Yale.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 22.—Harvard finished its preparation for to-morrow's football game against Yale this afternoon when the entire squad assembled on the baseball field and ran through its plays for the last time before putting on its attack against the New Haven team. This morning the players who spent yesterday at New Haven had a long automobile ride, and after luncheon awaited the arrival of the linemen from Cambridge.

The guards, tackles, and ends arrived shortly after 3 o'clock, and half an hour later were dressed and ready for the signal drill. The signal work was fast, the team running through all its plays, which has not been done for two days. Particular attention was paid to the protection of the kickers, Brickley and Felton, on whose efforts Harvard feels that it will depend so much to-morrow. There is no question about the splendid physical condition of the Harvard team this year or that the coaches expect the eleven to put on its best football to-morrow.

Harvard, with a much lighter team than Yale's, has been made to feel that only its best and keenest game, and this played all the time, will win from Yale. The team is confident that it will win and so are the coaches, although they still maintain that the betting should not be in the Crimson's favor at 10 to 7.

Harvard is not sanguine that its rushing attack will be powerful enough to carry the ball across the goal line of the New Haven team, but it does believe that there will be many opportunities in the game for Brickley to try for field goals, and this year he has made eleven goals in about twenty trials.

The party of players that arrived here this afternoon included the ends, guards, and tackles, who spent yesterday afternoon practicing on the home field. The tackles are Hitchcock, Storer, Beebe, and Lawson; the guards, Pennock, Driscoll, Trumbull, Weston, McGuire, and Withington, and the ends O'Brien, Dana, Coolidge, and Weatherhead.

Trumbull will be in Harvard's first line-up to-morrow and O'Brien will be at right end. Both of these men are in good shape to play, but the coaches intend to take them out of the game in the second and third periods if it can be done without jeopardizing Harvard's chances for winning the game. Trumbull's place will be taken by Driscoll, while Dana or Coolidge will go in at right end. The line-up in the secret practice session this afternoon was the same as it will be when the team takes the field to-morrow. The men will line up as follows:

Should any change be necessary in the back field Bradlee will be the man to take the place of any of the backs. Capt. Wendell is in wonderful condition to start his final game of 'Varsity football. The staff of coaches increased in numbers to-night. Coaches Haughton, Wigglesworth, and Daly came down with the kickers yesterday, while this afternoon, with the linemen, came Leary and Gil Browne, the end coaches; L. and P. Withington, the line coaches; Ham Corbett, Huntington, Dan Hurley, Crawford, Blagden, and Reggie Brown. Blagden played tackle on the 1901 team at Harvard, this being the last Cambridge eleven that has scored a touchdown against Yale.

To-night after dinner the team retired to one of the dining rooms for a blackboard talk. Reggie Brown, who has seen Yale play all its games this year and who has devised much of Harvard's defense against the New Haven plays, had charge of this session. The players retired at 9:30 o'clock, and at 10 o'clock there was not a sound about their quarters. The team will leave here for New Haven to-morrow at 9:30 o'clock, and will have luncheon before going to the field. The players will reach the Locker Building at Yale Field at 12:30 o'clock, an hour and a half before the game begins.

BOSTON CROWDS START EARLY.

Harvard Students Full of Enthusiasm and Confidence.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—Football enthusiasts monopolized the train service between Boston and New Haven during the afternoon. The exodus began at noon, when the first group of Cambridge college men left the South Station in Boston. Members of Harvard fraternities and clubs from various sections of northern New England continued to leave at short intervals on regular express and special trains.

Enthusiasm was rampant. College yells echoed through the train shed. The forecaster's prediction of fair weather for to-morrow was welcome news to the Harvard followers, but nearly all carried rain coats and blankets over their arms when they boarded the special cars.

The last squad of Harvard players left Cambridge at noon for New London. Sixteen men, all of whom were in excellent physical condition, went to Boston by trolley and boarded a special car attached to a Connecticut train at the Back Bay Station. The players were given a demonstrative send-off, both in this city and after they crossed the Charles River.

WINNERS SINCE 1875.

Harvard Has Been Victorious in Only Five Games with Yale.

Since 1875 Harvard and Yale have played thirty-two games of football under various rules. Yale has tallied twenty-two victories and Harvard five. Tie games were played in 1879, 1897, 1899, 1910, and 1911, in each of which there was no score. The game of 1875 was played under a modification of the Rugby Union Code, known as the "Concessionary Rules," in which Yale gained four goals. In the following year the teams played under the Rugby Union rules, and touchdowns were not used in computing the score.

In 1880 Yale scored a goal and a touchdown, making her tally 5 to 0. Safeties became a scoring play in 1881 under a rule which provided: "In a game otherwise a tie, the side which makes four or more safeties less than their opponents shall win the game." In the game of that year Harvard made four safeties. In 1882 the rule was: "In scoring, four touchdowns shall take precedence over a goal from field, and two safeties shall be equal to a touchdown." Numerical scoring was established in 1883. No games were played in 1877, 1884, 1888, 1895, and 1896. The following summary will show the results of the games to date:

Date.	Location.	Winner.	Score.
1875	New Haven	Harvard	4 to 0
1876	New Haven	Yale	1 to 0
1877	No game.
1878	Boston	Yale	1 to 0

Berkeley Loses to Greenwich.

Berkeley School was defeated at football at Van Cortlandt Park yesterday by the Greenwich Academy team by the score of 46 to 0. Berkeley is to be commended, however, for their plucky game, for the Greenwich team averaged 148 pounds, while Berkeley barely averaged 133 pounds. Capt. Maxwell, and Firth for Berkeley, and Stevens and Nichols for Greenwich, excelled.

NAVY TO PLAY BEST MEN.

N. Y. U. to Encounter Team That Will Oppose Army at Philadelphia.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 22.—Disregarding the custom of former years of playing a substitute team in its last game before the final contest with the Army eleven, the Naval Academy will oppose New York University to-morrow with its full strength. It is likely that if the regulars reach a proper standard of playing early in the game they will be supplanted by substitutes, but Coach Howard will take the chance of injuries to his charges in view of the backwardness of the team this season and the absolute necessity of trying it out in an actual match.

So keen has been the competition during the week that there is considerable doubt as to how two or three positions will be filled finally.

A notable feature of the week has been the work of Alexander in the back field, and he will certainly receive a chance to-morrow. Nicholls has also shown up strongly and one or the other may start the Army game at left half back instead of Leonard. Alexander is a rugged man, considerably heavier than Leonard, and he has been making good gains during the week. He also punts nearly as well as Leonard.

In the line there is still a chance that Redman may be chosen over Ralston or Hall for one of the tackle positions, while Vaughan, former tackle, is pressing Howe hard for left guard. The coaches are much pleased with the work of Brown, the big fellow at guard. He has hit his stride at last and is now breaking through and tackling and getting down the field in the style that caused him to be selected as All-America guard two years ago.

SHARPE'S FOOTBALL TALK.

University Work Prevents Cornell Men from Engaging in Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Although the Cornell football coaches were anxious to get the Ithacans out on the field for a scrimmage with the scrubs this afternoon they were unable to do so because of the Faculty restrictions on practice, which has cost the team twenty days so far this season. The loss of the Friday practice was keenly felt this week, because there were only three more days left for hard practice, the team leaving for Atlantic City Monday night, and no hard work being on the programme after they leave Ithaca. However, it was found that all but a few 'Varsity players had class work up to 5 o'clock, and the coaches abandoned their plans of holding any sort of outdoor work.

A technical blackboard lecture by Coach Sharpe followed by a stereopticon story of the work of the team in the recent game with Michigan, was the only thing in the nature of football this afternoon, although this evening the entire team ran through signals in the university armory.

FORDHAM GOES TO TROY.

Bronx Collegians to Play Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute To-day.

The Fordham football squad of twenty-five men left yesterday afternoon for Troy, where the eleven of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute will be played to-day. Coaches Thorpe and McCarthy and Trainer Besas accompanied the squad, every member of which, as announced by Besas, is in tiptop condition. A larger number of men will be used in this game than in any previous contest this season, because of the Faculty's ban on five players. Dooling and Al Williams will alternate in the full back position, Taylor and Riley at right half back, and O'Toole, McGahren, and Glacken at left guard. Taylor will also be substitute quarter back for Schaffmeister. A formidable aggregation of gridiron warriors, whose strong point is expected to be line plunging, has been whipped into shape by the extraordinary work of the coaches during the past week. The players are looking forward to the hardest game of the year, but are confident that the outcome will be a victory for Fordham.

Indians on Last Trip of Season.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Nov. 22.—The Carlisle Indian football squad, numbering twenty-one players, left Carlisle to-day for what will likely be their last trip of the present season, en route to Springfield, Mass., where they play Springfield Training School to-morrow. After the Springfield game the redskins will retire into Massachusetts country. The exact spot has not been located, although several country clubs have offered the use of their houses to the redskins until Wednesday of next week, when they will leave for Providence, R. I., to conclude the season with the Brown University game. The aborigines, who are early risers, put in an extended signal drill at 7 o'clock this morning. The new signals showed to better advantage in the quick spurts than they have yet done. The probable Indian line-up against Springfield will be: Left end, Brackin; left tackle, Guyono; left guard, Hill; centre, Gurlow; right guard, Busch; right tackle, Calao; right end, Vederneck; quarterback, Welch; left halfback, Thorpe; right halfback, Arcasa; fullback, Berg. Considerable rearrangement of this line-up may be made for the Providence game, but Coach Warner will not determine the line-up against Brown until next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Fordham Prep. vs. St. Peter's College.

The eleven of Fordham Prep meets the St. Peter's College team of Jersey City this afternoon at Fordham Field to decide the Catholic prep championship of the district. The annual clashes of these teams are always productive of excellent games, in which football of the highest class is generally displayed. The coaches of both elevens have their charges primed for this game, and report them as ready to play the game of their lives.

Football Under Rugby Rules.

The first rugby football game of the season will be played this afternoon at Van Cortlandt Park, starting at 3:30 o'clock. A team selected from the clubs in New York will be opposed by the University of Pennsylvania fifteen. Rugby football has made important strides in New York during the past five years, and to-day's contest should furnish a good exposition of the game. English rugby rules will govern the contest.

Columbia "Frats" in Football.

A football match in which the opposing teams will be students of Columbia University will be decided this afternoon. The game will be played between the Phi Kappa Sigma and Delta Upsilon societies, and is scheduled to take place at Horace Mann Field at 2:30 P. M. The former issued the challenge about two weeks ago, and the Delta Upsilon accepted. The teams are composed of members of the crews and the swimming and track teams.

Holbrook, 70; MacKenzie, 0.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The football season at the Holbrook School ended to-day with the Mackenzie game, which Holbrook won by a score of 70 to 0. Features were Johnston's running back of punts and Shanklin's line bucking.

Western Reserve Wins Easily.

ATHENS, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Western Reserve and Ohio University football teams played their annual football game to-day and Reserve won easily by a score of 41 to 7.

Master A. C. to Close Season.

The Master A. C. will close its football season to-morrow at Astoria Field, Astoria, L. I., when the St. Cecilia A. C. will be the opposing team. The Master eleven has had a successful season and expects to wind up the season with a victory.

Pratt Institute Beats Poly.

The Pratt Institute basket ball team defeated the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute quintet last night on the latter's court, by the score of 24 to 17. The Polytechnic team, by hard playing, managed to have the score in their favor at the end of the first half by 12 to 9. In the last half of the game, however, the Pratt Institute five played consistently and allowed them only five points, while they tallied fifteen for a total of 24. The line-up:

Pratt.	Position.	Polytechnic.
Johnson, Wells	Left forward	Maine, Anderson
Randall	Right forward	Waterman, Brislow
Wiley, Whitehead	Centre	Seigel
Bristol, Griswold	Right guard	Fischel, Green

Goals—From field—Johnson, (2,) Randall, (2,) Wiley, Bristol, Whitehead, Griswold, Brislow, Maine, (4,) Seigel. Goals from foul line—Randall, (3,) Whitehead, (5,) Brislow, (2,) Maine, (2,) Fischel, (1.) Referee—J. J. O'Shea of St. John's College. Time of halves—Twenty minutes.

Ottenger and Vermilyea Victors.

In the first game last night of the amateur Class C 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at the Morningside Academy, 125th Street and Lenox Avenue, B. Ottenger defeated H. Silverstein by the score of 50 to 49 in forty-two innings. Ottenger made a high run of seven and averaged 1 8-42. The second game proved a victory for J. Vermilyea over M. Eisoffer by the score of 50 to 31 in thirty-two innings. The winner made a high run of eleven points and averaged 1 18-32.

AUTO POLO THRILLS CROWD IN BALL PARK

New Game from West Seen Here Yesterday Proves Fast and Dangerous.

Auto polo had its first tryout in the East yesterday at American League Park, where a special demonstration was given by a squad of Western professionals which immediately converted the onlookers, among whom were many men who do not enthuse quickly over every new game, into ardent fans who wondered as to what the possibilities of the sport were like.

As the name implies, auto polo is played with the aid of an automobile, a driver, and a mallet man. Only two machines are used. The ball is about an inch smaller than the regulation basket ball and weighs about two pounds, while the mallets used weigh about three and a half pounds, and are similar in size to a croquet mallet.

The cars have an iron circular frame which shapes up behind the driver's seat in order to protect the men from injury in the case of their being unable to disentangle themselves from the car in the event of a tip-over. Parallel to the running board is a brace which the mallet wielder clings to when in action. The gears, which are of the spur planetary type, warrant the most absolute control of the cars, which have been clocked to make a full turn in the length of the machine in a second and a half.

The ball is placed in the middle of the field with the machines ranged up at either end. Five periods of ten minutes each is the regular length of a game, with time taken out for accidents, tire blowouts, &c. Upon a given signal the cars are rushed at the ball and the attendant danger which threatens when the drivers open up to full power keeps every one on the jump.

Nineteen games have been played since the game was first instituted, all being in the West. Kansas City, Wichita, St. Joseph, Des Moines, Lincoln, Neb., and Detroit have each seen the thriller, and return matches have been played in each city.

Polo on skates, on bicycles, and on horseback all have their devotees, with the speed and cleverness shown in these agreed to be about the limit of the combination of mechanical and equine power and speed with a person directing.

Yesterday's handling of the machines used, however, put to blush any stunt ever seen in any gymkhana exhibition probably anywhere, and an old circus man who witnessed the evolutions through which the cars were put stated that they were the most spectacular he had ever seen attempted in field competition.

From the time the machines were put on the field to the finish of the game played the contestants kept the spectators on the tiptoe of expectancy, every one anticipating a serious accident to the players because of the freak things the drivers made their cars do.

The drivers of the cars, which had been stripped down to the chassis and scaled about 1,150 pounds, were Rolz King and Blondie Sterling, while the mallet men were Clyde Freiter and Jack Jackson.

It was conceded that what King and Sterling did not make their cars do was not worth thinking about. The control by each bordered on the marvelous, and time and again while dashing along at a forty-five-mile pace the reverse would be thrown in, and immediately following this the car would swing around in its own length, and be sent scurrying in the opposite direction at similar speed.

No skater ever stopped shorter or made a greater variety of angles than the drivers. The manner in which they zigzagged here, there, and almost everywhere on the field was bewildering. With the mallet men dribbling, poking, and smashing the ball with full-arm swings, the pace was as variable as in horse polo, with the difference that when opened up the engines gave vent to exhaunts which were thunderous, with the speed all that could be desired.

Dangerous as the play appeared, the men entered into it with great zest, with the result that within the first five minutes King, in attempting to head off his opponent, had his car turn turtle when the right rear wheel struck a hard piece of earth, and overturned. Both men were flung clear of the machine, and neither sustained any injury. They immediately righted the car and were in the thick of the battle quickly, as though the mishap were an ordinary occurrence.

It developed that because of similar incidents to the game seven men are now being cared for in Western hospitals.

New Yorkers generally will have their opportunity to witness the game in Madison Square Garden Dec. 2 and 3, when matches will be played. It has also been arranged to have a tournament in the Garden during the period between Dec. 18 and 28, inclusive.

COFFEY WINS HARD BOUT.

"Special Delivery" Hirsch Good Match for Harlem Lightweight.

Jimmy Coffey, the Harlem lightweight, had his work cut out for him last night when he barely won his ten-round bout with "Special Delivery" Hirsch of Chicago at the New Polo A. A. The local boy had the better of the weight proposition by three pounds, weighing 134. Recently the Harlemite has been unusually successful, but in Hirsch he met a formidable foe, and had to show his best in every round to hold the visitor at bay.

Coffey garnered the honors in six of the ten rounds, but on each occasion only by a shade, while three of the others favored the boy from the Windy City and one was even. The pair were practically the same type of boxer, depending largely on strong punches and ruggedness. Coffey also displayed some ability to jab with his left hand, scoring numerous times, but never made the visitor slow up.

Coffey began like a whirlwind and for five rounds carried the work to Hirsch in masterly fashion, but in the fifth period let up when Hirsch met him at his own game and exchanged blows on almost even terms. In the next period the Chicagoan won the honors by a large margin, showering Coffey with both hands to the face. The eighth round was productive of a rough and ready session. Both boys engaged in continued clinches and pummeled away until separated by the referee. In the final round both stood up and pounded away to the end of the bout.

Bachman in Fine Form.

The first set of indoor games of the Ozanam Association was held at their clubhouse in West Fifty-sixth Street last night. In every event new association records were established, and the performances of Ruddie Backman in the different events kept the spectators very enthusiastic. Bachman formerly competed for the Irish-Americans, and is the present junior National champion for three standing jumps. The summary:

Potato Race.—Won by J. J. Eagar; Thomas Murphy, second; J. F. Murdock, third. Time, 0:52 4-5.

Standing High Jump.—Won by R. Bachman, with 4 feet 8 inches; Charles Jackson, second, with 4 feet 6 inches; H. Ahearn, third, with 3 feet 6 inches.

Three Standing Jumps.—Won by Rudolph Bachman, with 31 feet 6½ inches; Charles Jackson, second, with 25 feet 9 inches; H. Ahearn, third, with 24 feet 2 inches.

Sack Race.—Won by R. Bachman; Thomas Murphy, second; J. F. Murdock, third. Time, 0:04 1-5.

Standing Broad Jump.—Won by R. Bachman, with 10 feet 1 inch; H. Ahearn, second, with 8 feet 8 inches; Charles Jackson, third, with 8 feet 6 inches.

Three-Mile Road Run.—Won by E. Reilly; S. McGrath, second; J. J. Eagar, third; J. F. Murdock, fourth; R. Lillis, fifth; L. Degnan, sixth. Time, 16:02 1-5.

Colonial Yacht Club Dinner To-night.

The annual dinner of the Colonial Yacht Club will be held to-night at Shanley's on West Forty-second Street. Over twenty-five cups and trophys, won during the present season, will be presented. Commodore Franklin P. Pratt will preside. The club has enjoyed the most successful season in its history, promoting over fifteen special races and regattas, which exceeds that of any other organization on the Hudson. The Cornfield Light, Poughkeepsie, Rockland Light, and Around Manhattan Island races of 1912 brought out large classes of starters, and the club regattas also were well attended. Much of the credit for this activity is due to the regatta committee, L. Huxtable, Charles Newman, Edward Knowles, and C. Von Culin.

SCHOOLBOYS AS MARKSMEN.

Commerce and Bryant Among Winners in Rifle Matches.

The teams representing the High School of Commerce, Bryant High School, and Morris High School were winners in the matches decided yesterday afternoon in continuation of the Public Schools Athletic League rifle tournament. The shooters of the former school defeated the Stuyvesant High School eight on the Commerce range by the score of 265 to 250. Horton was the only member of the winning team who failed to tally 33 points or over. Camuti and Shapiro both scored a perfect card. This is the fourth time the latter has shot perfectly in the five matches in which he centested this season. He missed in his first match. The scores:

Commerce High School.—Grieco, 34; Pullman, 33; Horton, 29; Halstead, 33; Behrman, 33; Camuti, 35; Suffield, 33; Shapiro, 35. Total, 265.

Stuyvesant High School.—Petzel, 30; Neilson, 31; Ratner, 32; Blackman, 30; Layton, 27; Pfeiffer, 33; Albertine, 33; Benson, 34. Total, 250.

In the Bryant-Eastern District Match, decided on the former's range, Bryant was victorious by the score of 259 to 231. The Eastern District team displayed poor form and the highest individual score was 32 points, made by Busch. Dornes was the only member of the winning team to score a perfect card. The scores:

Bryant High School.—Hubble, 32; Eliot, 33; Patane, 29; Genovese, 31; Iorio, 34; Dornes, 35; McKeon, 31; Schmucker, 34. Total, 259.

Eastern District High School.—Danzinger, 29; Snell, 23; Kein, 28; Busch, 32; Pilatusky, 29; Buckett, 29; Mandelbaum, 31; Blatt, 30. Total, 231.

Yesterday proved to be a banner day for both the first and second teams of Morris High School. Each team broke a record. The first team defeated the De Witt Clinton High School shooters on the latter's range by the score of 269 to 256, breaking the record for high score in the P. S. A. L. round-robin tournament by one point. This record was made by Bryant High School in one of their matches this season, in which they scored 268 points. The Morris team, which showed rather poor form at the beginning of the tournament, seemed to have struck their stride, and will give the Bryant team a hard fight for the leadership of the race. These teams will be opponents in their next match. Bryant is at present leading with a record of five matches won and none lost, while Morris is second, with four matches won and one lost.

The Morris second team yesterday clinched their hold on the Manhattan championship, and, incidentally, broke their own record for high score of 161 points by two points, defeating the Clinton team by the score of 163 to 147. This is the last match for Morris, and they win the second team championship with a record of five matches won and none lost. They will oppose the winner of the Brooklyn-Queens tournament as soon as it is decided in a match that will decide the championship of Greater New York. The scores:

FIRST TEAMS.

Morris High School.—Furlo, 34; Jaeger, 33; Kerr, 35; Gersch, 33; McHugh, 32; Rescorl, 33; Pickett, 34; Draumsteky, 35. Total, 269.

De Witt Clinton High School.—Goldberg, 31; Cohn, 32; Weg, 28; Welton, 33; Schwartz, 33; Morvay, 31; Dutton, 35; Danzel, 33. Total, 256.

SECOND TEAMS.

Morris High School.—Dugan, 33; Nenaker, 33; Hoffmann, 33; Reppert, 33; Levenson, 32. Total, 163.

Yale Shooters Beat Harvard.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—Yale won the dual gun club shoot from Harvard this afternoon, 220 to 204. Scott of Yale made the high individual score of 47 and Bullock of Harvard was high man for his team, with 42, the same score as Hoyt, who was low for Yale. With two exceptions this is the best team score ever made in a Yale-Harvard meet. The scores:

YALE.	Pts.	HARVARD.	Pts.
Scott	47	Cutting	40
Banks	43	Bullock	42
Newton	44	Lockwood, (Capt.)	40

MANTELL MAKES A RECORD.

West Side Y. M. C. A. Swimmer Does 1:01 2-5 for 100 Yards.

Members of the West Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A. held a handicap swimming series last night, during which J. Mantell, the fastest man in the association, made a new record for 100 yards when he covered the route in the excellent time of 1:01 2-5. Despite this fine performance, he could not get better than second in the event to S. Lothian, to whom he was conceding five seconds and who was clocked in 1:00 4-5.

W. Friedlander was the greatest point-getter of the series. This expert was second in the forty-yard handicap, third in the hundred, both from low marks, but he later testified to his ability by a win in the forty-yard backstroke event, in which he showed fine form.

Mantell gave away long marks in the quarter-mile handicap, and proved unable to concede two minutes to G. Muth and G. Hippard, both of whom led him to the finish, with the winner's time 7:32 4-5. H. Powers, with an allotment of four seconds, showed the way in the forty-yard handicap in the good time of 0:25 2-5. The summary:

40 Yards, Handicap.—Won by W. Powers, (4 seconds;) W. Friedlander, (1 second,) second; G. Hanscom, (4 seconds,) third. Time—0:25 2-5.

100 Yards, Handicap.—Won by S. Lothian, (5 seconds;) J. Mantell, (scratch,) second; W. Friedlander, (3 seconds,) third. Time—1:00 4-5.

40 Yards, Backstroke, Scratch.—Won by W. Friedlander; G. McCormick, second; G. Hippard, third. Time—0:33 2-5.

440 Yards, Handicap.—Won by G. Muth, (2 minutes;) G. Hippard, (2 minutes,) second; J. Mantell, (scratch,) third. Time—7:32 4-5.

Regimental Games To-night.

An all-star programme will be presented at the joint athletic carnival of the Brooklyn Post Office Clerks and the Forty-seventh Regiment A. A., at the Forty-seventh Regiment Armory to-night. As an added attraction there will be the regular army (Department of the East), with their own band, who will give a drill, and a treat will be in store for those who have never seen Uncle Sam's boys in action. As an extra feature there will be the Olympic tug-of-war, in which various nationalities will be represented together with the different regiments and other organizations. In the relay races the competition will be keen, as each present holder of a trophy is determined to win, as several teams have two victories to their credit with but one more required. The events are the 100-yard dash, half-mile run, bicycle race, rescue race, and wall scaling. The largest entry ever seen will be on hand to-night, which will include all the stars and Olympian champions in the metropolitan district.

Picquart A. C. Offers Silver Cup.

A silver loving cup will be presented to the winner of the Piquart A. C. Thanksgiving Day twelve mile road race at Newark, N. J. The race will start from the clubhouse, 199 Bruce Street, Newark, at 2:30 P. M., and all A. A. U. athletes are invited. Entries will be received up to within thirty minutes of starting the race.

Chicago Cueist Wins in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Chicago to-night won its second game from Boston in the National Billiard League. James Shea of Chicago made fifty, with a high run of five and an average of .51, while Dr. Hudson of Boston made forty-six, with a high run of four and an average of .47.

New Record for Siwanoy Golf Links.

Elijah Horton, the professional of the Siwanoy Country Club, established a new record for that course yesterday when he went twice around the nine-hole circuit in 72, getting 36 each time around. A year ago Horton set the record at 73. The card follows:

First Round ..4 4 4 3 4 5 4 4 4—36
Second Round ..4 4 5 3 3 5 4 4 4—36—72

COLLEGE MEN TO RUN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

Shrubb Says Harvard Will Win—Hillman Picks Cornell—Moakley Hopeful.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 22.—With the crack distance runners of eleven colleges and universities here to-day to take part in the annual intercollegiate cross-country race which is to be run over Cornell's hill-and-dale course to-morrow, interest in this Fall running classic is keen, and coaches and runners are looking forward to the greatest contest in the history of the sport, with Cornell, Harvard, and Dartmouth vieing for first place.

At Shrubb, the Harvard coach, declared to-night that he expected the race would be a memorable one, and that Harvard, Cornell, and Dartmouth would fight it out for first place. He said that, while it was true that Boyd had suffered a slight injury a few days ago, he was in good shape, and he expected him to finish among the first three to-morrow. He declared that Copeland had also suffered a slight injury and was not running as fast as Boyd at this time. Shrubb asserted that, barring accidents, John Paul Jones of Cornell would win individual honors, and that Taber of Brown would be a close second. He is delighted with the course and while he said that one feature of it, the fording of a brook, had worried him at first, he had no doubt that the runners would make it satisfactorily.

According to Harry Hillman, the Dartmouth coach, the Green expects to run third. Hillman declares that Cornell will win, and picks Harvard for second. He is pleased with the course, and declared that the arrangements for conducting the meet were the best he had ever seen at an intercollegiate contest.

Jack Moakley, Cornell's great trainer, was reticent to-night. He expects Jones to run a great race, but he is none too sanguine of the chances of his team.

The course for to-morrow is six miles in length, starting and finishing on the Cornell Campus. It is a hill and dale affair, and not considered very difficult, though more attractive than the usual course over which this race is run. Thousands of spectators are expected to be massed at various points along the route, and enterprising Cornell cheer leaders will go into the suburbs to encourage the Ithaca team.

All of the runners are camped at the various fraternity houses to-night, the Princeton and College of the City of New York teams being the last to arrive. Track Manager Beardsley of Cornell announced that he had word from Columbia that the New Yorkers would not send a team, in spite of the fact that they were entered, and for the first time in several years Michigan will not be represented. Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Brown all think they have a good chance for fourth place. Other teams entered are Yale and Colgate.

DARTMOUTH BOYS WIN.

Hanover Freshmen Best in Cross-Country Race at Andover.

ANDOVER, Mass., Nov. 22.—Dartmouth's freshman cross-country team won a three-and-one-half-mile hill-and-dale race held to-day under the auspices of Phillips Andover Academy. University of Pennsylvania freshmen were second, Harvard freshmen, Worcester Academy, Andover, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology freshmen finishing in the order given.

TWO CLUBS IN HUNT.

Meadow Brook and Smithtown in Joint Run on Long Island.

Special to The New York Times.

WOODBURY, N. Y., Nov. 22.—A joint meeting of the Meadow Brook and Smithtown Hunt Clubs was held to-day, with J. E. Davis, M. F. H. of the former and host of the occasion, and Clarence Robbins, M. F. H. of the latter club, in the saddle. It was one of the best runs of the season and one of the biggest fields that has attended a run of the hounds in a long time.

The meet was at Woodbury Church and the hounds were put down on the Pickett farm. They led the field over the Watson Webb place to Syosset, where the check occurred near the Syosset crossroads. The hounds were laid on again on Horn's farm, and from there the course led in a direct line to Cold Spring. They circled at the Columbia Stock Farm and finished near Dr. Jones's at Cold Spring.

Those out included, besides the two Masters of Hounds, Mrs. J. A. Burden, Jeremiah Beall, H. V. Bell, F. S. Van Stade, Fletcher Harper, Mr. Gaitens, M. S. Bloodgood, Ambrose Clark, Henry Higginson, M. F. H. Middlesex Hunt; Miss Eugenie May Ladenburg, Mr. Hoffmann, David Dows, Harvey Ladew, Harry S. Page, Douglas Campbell, James Parks, Mr. Voss, Mr. Russell, and J. P. Grace.

Just after the check Harvey Ladew came to grief. He lost his mount at the first fence, and while the animal galloped through to the finish Mr. Ladew walked in.

Press Paper for Cloth Finishing Lowered—Other Protests Lost.

The Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday sustained protests filed by Hensel, Bruckmann & Lorbacher and Brown & Roese regarding the classification under the tariff of 1909 of press paper or press board used to impart a finish to cloth. The goods were valued at less than 10 cents a pound, and were assessed at 35 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 415, as "cardboard." The merchandise was claimed dutiable at 30 per cent. under the same paragraph for "paper not specially provided for."

Bernard, Judae & Co. failed to secure lower rates on hair nets, scarfs, and laces, taxed at 70 per cent., and the board also rejected a protest by the Theodore Ascher Company on braids and untrimmed hats composed wholly or in chief value of horsehair against duty at 60 per cent. ad valorem.

Isaac McNiven brought in "packing grass," which must stand duty under the act of 1909 at $4 per ton as hay. The importer asked free entry under Paragraph 578 for a crude vegetable substance. Judge Waite found that it was used for feed purposes.

MILLINERS NOT VERY BUSY.

Local Market Quiet Following End of Fall Season—Orders for Milan Good.

The local millinery trade is quiet now that the Fall season is over, and little activity is looked for until the new Spring styles are shown. Some jobbers have salesmen on the road now who are sending in good advance orders, but all the trade is not showing the new lines. The straw hat manufacturers report excellent business from the road on Milan, real hair, chip straw and hemp shapes. Considerable early buying has been done by local jobbers also.

One large dealer in flowers and feathers said yesterday that the demand for the former for Spring was very strong, and that the orders placed so far were 40 per cent. larger than those of last season. Jobbers in the West were said to be reordering quite heavily, having had good results from the initial trips of their salesmen.

CROCKERY GOING SLOWLY.

Spot Buying Rather Light, with Mail Business Fair—Lamps Active.

There was not a great deal of activity in the local crockery and glassware market during the week, but mail orders were of fair proportions generally. The call for import lines was not what it should have been, considering the general condition of the market, though Japanese porcelains furnished the exception to the rule. Advices from the cut-glass factories indicated general activity, with practically all grades in work. The lamp trade is in very good condition, with a scarcity of the better grades threatened by the retailers having held off so long. Some unusually good general buying is looked for after the holiday rush of consumers is over.

Reports received by The Crockery and Glass Journal from East Liverpool and Pittsburgh told of continued activity in the potteries and glass factories. The latter are in some cases refusing orders for shipment on or before the middle of next month.

FLOOR COVERINGS IN DEMAND

Spot Business Large and Road Orders Increased.

Despite the fact that most of the buyers who were in the city for the Spring opening had returned, there was a fair amount of spot business done in the local market for floor coverings this week. Carpets and rugs were taken in a fair way here, but, from all accounts, linoleums and floor oilcloths were the more active.

Practically all the salesmen representing the larger houses are now on the road, and, notwithstanding the fact that they have been in their respective territories but a short time, are already turning in some excellent business. The recent advance in carpet and rug prices has apparently stimulated the activities of buyers, and if the results of the first week on the road can be taken as criteria predictions of a record season will doubtless be justified. Linoleums and oilcloths are said to be moving surprisingly well on the road.

PRINTCLOTH PRICES FIRM.

The printcloth market was strong yesterday under a good demand for near-by goods. Prices were firm, and in some instances buyers were willing to pay small premiums for spot delivery. The day's quotations follow:

Twenty-seven-inch, 56-52s, 3¼c; 27-inch, 56-56s, 3 5-16c; 27-inch, 64-60s, 3¾c; 28-inch, 64-60s, 3 15-16c; 28-inch, 64-64s, 4 1-16c; 38½-inch, 64-56s, 5 3-16c@5¼c; 38½-inch, 64-64s, 5⅝c; 39-inch, 68-72s, 5⅞c; 39-inch, 72-76s, 6⅝c; 39-inch, 80-80s, 7¼c; brown sheetings, Southern standard, 8c@8½c; brown sheetings, 4-yard, 56-60s, 6¾c@6½c; brown sheetings, 3-yard, 7½c; brown drills, standard, 8c@8½c; denims, 9-ounce, Eastern, 16½c@17c, Southern 13½c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13c@13½c; standard prints, 5½c, and standard staple ginghams, 6¼c.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Customs figures covering exports of domestics and cotton duck from this port in the week ended Nov. 16 show them to be valued at $440,865, and to have aggregated 5,452 packages. These figures show a substantial decline in size and value from those of the week preceding.

Weinstein Brothers, cloaks and suits, 134 Spring Street, have leased quarters in the new building at 114 East Twenty-third Street. They will occupy some 70,000 square feet of floor space in their new location.

Albert B. Balcom, milliner and ladies' tailor, now at 15 East Forty-seventh Street, has taken half of the seventh floor at 663 Fifth Avenue.

Willett & Gray report the total stock of sugar in Europe and America at 1,707,571 tons, against 1,182,170 last year at the same uneven dates. The increase of stock is 525,401 tons, against an increase of 270,923 last week. Total stock and afloats together show a visible supply of 1,777,571 tons, against 1,356,170 last year, an increase of 421,401 tons.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

According to information received from the Commissioner of Customs and Excise at Pretoria, the general manager of the South African Railways Administration has announced a proposed expansion of the railway workshops, in some of which extensions are already being carried out. In anticipation of the further growth of the traffic, and the consequent importance of having the shops properly equipped, the general manager proposes very shortly to urge the administration to purchase teak to the value of $350,000.

The exports from Burma to the United States as invoiced through the Consulate at Rangoon were valued at $298,600 in 1911, a gain of $45,654 compared with 1910. Actually, however, there was a loss of $15,116, as a shipment of benzine valued at $60,770 never reached the United States, the destination having been changed en route to the United Kingdom.

According to the Nachrichten fur Handel of Berlin, the Russian State Bank has made arrangements for the erection by harvest time in 1916 of 71 additional grain elevators, with a total capacity of 772,800 tons. Moreover, the State Bank will organize an elevator department equipped with the necessary technical staff to attend to the management and working of grain elevators.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

There is a difference of opinion in the millinery trade regarding the size of the flowers which will be most favored for Spring. Some dealers claim that indications point very strongly to the smaller flowers, while others say large roses will be all the rage.

Corsage bouquets composed of several kinds of imitation flowers are selling well for immediate delivery. Small roses, violets, lilies of the valley, and mixed small flowers are particularly favored.

Nell Rose, the new color named for Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, has found its way into millinery circles. Flowers and feathers made up in this popular color are being well taken both for immediate and Spring delivery.

DEMAND FOR SPICES HEAVY.

Evidences of Approaching Holidays Seen in Local Trade.

This is the time of the year when the demand for spices increases, and sales are made in larger quantities because of the approaching holidays. A scarcity of Zanzibar cloves, coupled with increased demand, has sent values up apparently in the last week or two. A recent day's sales aggregated 1,000 bales, spot and for shipment. Further advances are expected, based on cable advices that the crop will be small, perhaps 30,000 bales, against 210,000 bales last year.

Black pepper is quiet, but holders are firm and the movement is restricted by the difficulty in securing concessions. Nutmegs are a shade lower. The supply is closely controlled, however, and most holders refuse to accept lower values. Allspice is unchanged. Cinnamon is not plentiful, and is held closely. Cassia seems a shade firmer in all positions. White pepper is unchanged.

Paprika is scarce and sales are restricted in consequence. Prices rule high, and holders refuse concessions. Inquiries show that a slight reduction in price would bring moderately heavy business from all directions.

GOOD SEASON FOR TOYS.

Buying Much Heavier Than Last Year—Factory Deliveries Slow.

Holiday buying of domestic toys, so far as the out-of-town trade is concerned, is now practically completed. Business in these lines has been better than usual this year, according to a representative of one of the largest houses in the market, and shows a marked improvement over last season. The demand was generally good from all parts of the country, with a considerable part of the attention of buyers given to doll carriages, rocking horses, blackboards, and toy chairs and rockers. Some very good local buying is looked for during the next few weeks.

The delivery problem is a difficult one at the moment, for, owing to the scarcity of labor in the various producing centres, shipments from the factories have been slow. Because of this inability of the factories to make good deliveries, wholesalers have been obliged to curtail their activities somewhat.

HARDWARE BUSINESS GOOD.

Mills Working Overtime to Catch Up with Their Orders.

Business continues active in the local hardware market. The trade as a whole seems well satisfied with present conditions, and optimistic regarding the future. There is a good general demand from all sections of the country. The factories are working night and day to take care of the orders now on hand, and in many instances are reported to be behind on deliveries from sixty to ninety days.

Prices are firm owing to the strength of the raw materials. In certain quarters of the trade prices have been advanced within the last week, but, as a rule, quotations are steady at recent levels. Stocks are low throughout the country, and manufacturers say that dealers will find trouble in securing goods later in the year unless they place orders far enough in advance to permit the mills to handle them.

COASTWISE SHIPPING RULING.

Canal Zone Cargoes May Be Carried in Foreign Bottoms.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Inter-State Commerce Commission to-day announced its withdrawal of a recent administrative ruling that shipments to Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, and the Philippines came within the definition of coastwise commerce. Enforcement of the ruling would have barred foreign ships from carrying American goods to these territories.

"On Nov. 11, 1912, the commission voted that shipments destined from points in the United States to Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, or the Philippine Islands were coastwise, and not export, shipments," said the announcement. "Upon presentation of further information and for the purpose of further consideration of the subject, that ruling is hereby rescinded."

An effort was made by the commission so to modify the ruling as to make it inapplicable to commerce between the United States and the Canal Zone, but finally it was found necessary absolutely to rescind it, in order to prevent delay in the canal work.

STILL THE BREAD PROVIDER.

The World's Calls on Our Foodstuffs Steadily Increase.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The United States is still the "bread basket of the world," according to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which issued to-day a report showing that this country is furnishing foodstuffs to other nations at a steadily rising ratio. While the exports of corn and meat fell off sharply, more than 100,000,000 bushels of wheat were sent abroad in the past ten months, as against 83,000,000 bushels the whole of last year.

The heavy wheat exports were offset somewhat by the decline in other farm products. The United States as a provider, however, maintained its position, for the report proceeds:

"While the products of the farm will show but little change in the general export record of 1912, those of the factory show a marked advance, the value of the manufactures exported in the period, for which figures are now available, exceeding by more than $100,000,000 those of the corresponding months of last year, and indicating that the grand total of manufactures exported in the full year of 1912 will considerably exceed $1,000,000,000 and form about one-half of the total exports."

TOBACCO TRUST IN GERMANY.

Talk of Measures Against It Probably Refers to British Company.

Reports from Berlin recently have told of efforts to interest the German Government in measures against the American Tobacco Trust along lines similar to the move against the Standard Oil Company. The reference is undoubtedly to the British-American Tobacco Company, which under the old arrangements had as its field the whole world outside of the United States and the United Kingdom. Two-thirds of its stock was owned by the American Tobacco Company and one-third by the Imperial Tobacco Company, the English trust. When the American trust was dissolved its stock was distributed to its common stockholders, and James B. Duke, who had been President of the American Tobacco Company, resigned and went to London to become the head of the British-American. The stock of the British-American has been heavily dealt in on the Curb since the dissolution, and it is said in well-informed circles that many of the American stockholders have sold out and their shares have been bought by English interests, probably including the Imperial Tobacco Company. It is estimated that fully half the stock of the company is now held in England.

The British-American company undertook a vigorous campaign in Germany, which it is understood has been pushed still more aggressively since Mr. Duke became Chairman. The German business is handled chiefly through a subsidiary, the George A. Jasmatzi Company, with a large cigarette factory in Dresden.

Receiver for Insurance Company.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 22.—The appointment of the Commerce Trust Company of Kansas City as receiver for the Great Western Life Insurance Company was announced to-day. Five shareholders applied for the receivership yesterday in the Circuit Court.

BUYS INSURANCE STOCK

But Manhattan Co. Explains Control Hasn't Passed to New Interest.

The basis for the recent stories of a pending change in the control of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, which persisted in the face of official denials, was disclosed yesterday with the anouncement that Thomas E. Lovejoy of Montgomery, Ala., and his associates, had acquired a large block of the company's floating stock, but not enough to give them control of the company. Mr. Lovejoy is President of the Montgomery Bank and Trust Company, and is a close friend of President Torrey of the Manhattan.

Mr. Torrey said yesterday that Mr. Lovejoy had not acquired a majority of the outstanding stock, and he pointed out that under the charter of the company both the policy holders and stockholders have the right to vote. The management of the company remains in the hands of the present Board of Directors, and no change is contemplated.

H. B. Stokes, a former President of the Manhattan, is said to be the largest stockholder, although he has less than one-tenth of the company's shares, which are widely distributed. An attempt made a few weeks ago to pick up enough stock in the open market to carry control of the company failed, and A. A. Green, who was credited with being the principal figure in the negotiations, severed his connection with the Manhattan soon afterward.

INDICTED FOR REBATING.

New York Central Subsidiaries and Coal Concern Under Charges.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Three subsidiary lines of the New York Central Railway system and a Chicago Coal Corporation were indicted to-day by the Federal Grand Jury, charged with giving and receiving rebates. The companies named in the bills are, the Lake Shore, the Big Four, the Chicago, Indiana & Southern Railroad Company, and the O'Gara Coal Company.

The indictments grew out of the payment of $60,000 by the railroads in the latter part of November, 1909, to the coal company, for which no proper accounting was made. The investigation will continue and high officials of the New York Central lines may be involved. The Government alleges that officials of the railroads own and control in names other than their own certain stock in the O'Gara Coal Company.

The O'Gara Company operates mines at Harrisburg, Ill., in Saline County. Shipments of coal from the mines to Danville, Ill., are especially mentioned in the indictment, it being charged that the railroads gave and the coal company accepted rebates on the invoices of the shipments.

New Orleans Cotton Report.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton shows the total visible is 5,365,408 bales, against 5,049,060 bales last week, 4,419,834 bales last year and 4,006,898 bales year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 4,455,408 bales, against 4,178,060 bales last week and 3,812,832 bales last year.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

WAPNIK COMPANY.—A petition has been filed against the Max Wapnik Company, manufacturer of women's hats, 520 West Broadway, by these creditors: Heinsheimer Brothers, $325; Gregory Martin, $182, and Charles Beckmann, $1. Judge Mayer appointed Malcolm Sundheimer, receiver; bond, $3,000. The liabilities are $12,000, and assets, $4,000.

LOUIS RUDOLPH.—A petition has been filed against Louis Rudolph, clothing dealer, 104 and 106 Essex Street, by these creditors: Emil Friedman, $223; Henry Warshow, $226, and Herman Cohen, $335. The liabilities are said to be $3,000, and assets, $1,000.

PETER BOORAS, clerk, of 50 James Street, formerly a grocer, has filed a petition, with liabilities, $1,359, and assets, $311.

BUTLER FLORIST, INC.—A petition has been filed against Butler Florist, Inc., dealer in flowers, 18 East Forty-sixth Street, by these creditors: Badgley, Riedel & Meyer, $386; Paul Meconi, $116, and N. Lecakes & Co., Inc., $57. The liabilities are $3,000, and assets $1,500.

OLIVER DOWIE, clothing fitter of 750 Ninth Avenue, has filed a petition with liabilities $1,218, to three creditors, and no assets. He owes $400 to John McMullen for funeral expenses in 1904, and $700 to James Horton of Larchmont.

WILBUR W. C. WALKER.—Judge Mayer has dismissed the petition, filed on June 13, by Wilbur W. C. Walker, who was employed at 75 Fulton Street, on the application of Samuel H. Bowman, a creditor, who contended that Mr. Wilbur was not a bona fide resident of this city at the time the petition was filed, and was not engaged in business here on his own account. He resided at Point Pleasant, N. J., and some years ago was a pastor in Jersey City.

SELIG JACOBSON.—Schedules of Selig Jacobson, manufacturer of men's neckwear, 196 Allen Street, show liabilities $9,097, and assets $1,035.

HARRY PAUKER.—Schedules of Harry Pauker, dealer in dry goods, at 108 Rivington Street, show liabilities $5,993, and assets $1,311.

MILLER MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—Schedules of William Miller, trading as the Miller Manufacturing Company, waists and dresses, 10 West Eighteenth Street, show liabilities of $17,183 and assets of $5,561.

ATWELL CONTRACTING AND CONSTRUCTION COMPANY.—Judge Mayer has appointed W. R. Conklin receiver for the Atwell Contracting and Construction Company of First Avenue, near Thirty-fourth Street, bond $1,200, with authority to continue business ten days. The liabilities are said to be $10,000 and assets $2,500.

MICHAEL AGUGLIARO.—Judge Mayer has appointed Benjamin Hartstein receiver for Michael Agugliaro, real estate dealer, 848 East 213th Street. The liabilities are $4,300 and assets $500.

WYCKOFF, CHURCH & PARTRIDGE, INCORPORATED.—A meeting of creditors of Wyckoff, Church & Partridge, Incorporated, manufacturers of automobiles and trucks, of Fifty-sixth Street and Broadway, and Kingston, was held yesterday before Seaman Miller, referee in bankruptcy, 2 Rector Street, who acted for Referee N. A. Prentiss. John S. Sheppard, Jr., the receiver, was unanimously elected Trustee under a bond of $25,000. The creditors voted unanimously to accept the offer of Chester Griswold, George A. Ellis, and Howard C. Dickinson, to purchase all the assets except the bankrupt's claim against the Driggs Seabury Ordnance Company of Sharon, Penn., for $150,000, to be paid in three installments of $50,000 each in four, eight, and twelve months. The appraised value of the property is about $171,000. In addition to the $150,000, the receiver said he would probably have $39,304 cash on hand at the date of the transfer of the property, realized from running the business. The unsecured claims are about $575,000, and the receiver expects that the dividend to creditors will be 28 cents on the dollar. There are about 800 creditors. Robert B. Honeyman, representing the committee of creditors, said that the above offer was the best they could get. They had a plan to sell the assets to the United States Motor Company, but that company failed just about the time the papers were to be signed. Another party tried to finance a proposition, but the trust companies would not advance the money.

Out of Town.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed to-day by William J. Mendum of Brookline, salesman. His liabilities are $42,390, of which $30,390 is unsecured. There are no assets scheduled. The principal creditor is the Maryland Casualty Company, $30,000, amount paid in connection with the estate of Charles H. Mendum of Portsmouth, N. H. Schedules in bankruptcy were filed today by the Hurley Company of Brockton. The liabilities are $20,008, and the assets $7,992.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Great activity continues in practically all lines of trade. Dun's Review says:

Trade in the United States shows further expansion, reports from different sections and all statistics of traffic and exchanges speaking loudly of a great activity that in some instances is bounded only by the limit of capacity. Bank clearings this week show a gain of 15.0 per cent. over last year and 37.0 per cent. over 1910, and it is noteworthy that every part of the country shares in varying degree in the increases. Railroad gross earnings in the first two weeks of November gained 6.5 per cent., and the railroads are moving the immense traffic of the country, including an enormous quantity of grain and an unusual tonnage of manufactured products, with as much dispatch as their facilities will permit, while they are buying liberally of rails and equipment for future needs. The dry goods trade presents a picture of well-sustained activity, in marked contrast to the depression that existed a year ago. The activity in the shoe trade has now reached close to the point of productive capacity. Leather and hides continue very strong.

All the New England industries have assurance of full business for months ahead. The prospects for the retail holiday trade are most gratifying and foreshadow a record-breaking business. The long-continued mild weather retards certain branches of retail trade, though helping others, and, generally speaking, the volume is very large. The iron and steel industry continues to report heavy buying and some mills are unable to keep up with the demand. Clothing factories are very busy. Paper mills are doing a larger business. Lumber is fairly active and firm. The year is closing not only with these many evidences of expansion, but, what is still more promising for the future, with an optimism that rises above all unsettled issues, which would have caused worry and disturbance a few months ago.

Bradstreet's reviews the current situation in trade as follows:

Trade channels are running full, with optimism predominant, and this despite widespread evidences that mild weather is a bar to fullest activities in final distribution. To summarize the trade situation briefly, retail trade, though hampered in heavyweight lines by warm weather, is good, and better certainly than a year ago; that jobbing trade is active, both in house sales and by means of road orders; that wholesale trade is brisk, and in textiles for future delivery certainly is broader than it was a short time ago, and that the chief complaints of manufacturers flow rather from scarcity of labor or of cars than from paucity of orders.

PROPOSALS.

$250,000 CITY OF AUGUSTA, GEORGIA, FLOOD PROTECTION BONDS OF 1912.

NOTICE OF SALE.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Finance Committee of The City Council of Augusta, Georgia, to be filed with the Clerk of Council, at his office, Augusta, Georgia, until 12 o'clock noon, City or Eastern time, on the 30th day of November, 1912, for the purchase for cash of all or any part of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) principal amount of bonds of The City Council of Augusta, known as "City of Augusta Flood Protection Bonds of 1912." The amount thus to be sold is a portion of a series of bonds known as "City of Augusta Flood Protection Bonds of 1912," for the aggregate principal amount of One Million Dollars ($1,000,000). Each of said bonds is for the principal amount of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), bears date November 1, 1912, matures thirty years after date, and bears interest at the rate of four and one-half (4½) per cent. per annum, payable on May and November first of each year, represented by coupons. The above amount of such issue of bonds are offered for sale in accordance with Section 7 of the ordinance of the City Council of Augusta, providing for such issue, as follows:

"Such bonds shall be sold by the Finance Committee in lots or blocks not exceeding in any one sale the principal amount of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000), but all of such bonds whenever sold shall have the same dignity and no bond shall have any priority or preference over any other bond of such issue. Such sales shall be by competitive bid to the highest bidder for cash. Each sale of said bond shall be advertised in at least one newspaper in each of the cities of Augusta, Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago and New York once a week for two weeks before the sale. No sale shall be made so as to include therein any past due coupons, but all past due coupons shall be detached before delivery of the bonds to which they belong. The time when sales of said bonds shall be made and the amount to be sold at any time, subject to the maximum amount herein prescribed, shall be fixed by The City Council of Augusta, according to the requirements of the work to be done for the purpose of protection against floods. All the requirements, notices or details in connection with any of such sales shall be left to the discretion and power of the Finance Committee."

The time of the sale of the bonds now offered for sale, and the amount to be sold have been fixed by The City Council of Augusta, for the date herein set out and for the amount herein expressed, according to the requirements of the work to be done for the purpose of protection against floods, by a resolution adopted by it on the 11th day of November, 1912. These bonds have been validated in accordance with the laws of the State of Georgia, and provision has been made for the levy of sufficient taxes each year to pay the interest and the entire amount of the principal at maturity. Such entire issue of bonds, of which those now offered for sale are a part, are secured by a mortgage or deed of trust from The City Council of Augusta to the United States Mortgage & Trust Company, covering and creating a lien upon both the power producing canal and municipal waterworks of such City; said mortgage being the first and only lien upon the said properties.

All bids must be made out on blanks that will be furnished by William Lyon Martin, Clerk of Council, Augusta, Georgia, and must be accompanied by a duly certified check, payable to the order of "The City Council of Augusta," for two per cent. of the principal amount of the bonds bid for, which check is to become the property of said "The City Council of Augusta," as payment of liquidated damages should the bidder fail to comply with his bid within ten (10) days after written notice of the acceptance of his bid shall have been given him. The bid and certified check must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Bid for City of Augusta Flood Protection Bonds of 1912," and addressed to "Finance Committee of The City Council of Augusta, Georgia." It is suggested, though not insisted upon, that this sealed envelope be enclosed in another envelope and addressed to "William Lyon Martin, Clerk of Council, Augusta, Georgia." Any additional information can be had by addressing said Clerk of Council.

There will be furnished to the purchaser an opinion by Messrs. Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge, Attorneys at Law, Boston, Mass., favorable to the legality of such bonds. Such bonds will be certified by the Clerk of the Superior Court of Richmond County as to their validation; will be engraved by and executed under the supervision of the United States Mortgage & Trust Company; and each bond will bear the certificate of that Company as to its genuineness.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Recede Under Influence of Renewed Selling by Europe.

Resumption of foreign selling in this market yesterday put a check on the improvement which was under way on the Stock Exchange and resulted in a small net decline in the general level of quotations, Union Pacific standing out somewhat prominently in the list of declines with a loss of 1¼ points. This seemed directly attributable to European liquidation, for it was upon Union Pacific and United States Steel that most of the foreign selling was concentrated. This amounted, it was estimated, to between 30,000 and 40,000 shares, and was in volume enough to discourage traders from following up the previous day's advance. Trading again contracted sharply, suggesting that but very little home liquidation was called forth by the reappearance of selling from the other side. This selling, presumably, was prompted by the uneasiness caused by the resumption of fighting between the Bulgarians and Turks. Prices abroad, particularly in London and Paris, were irregular rather than weak, but there was enough disappointment over the failure of the first effort to establish an armistice as a preliminary to peace between Turkey and the Balkan States to cause a setback in London and on the Continent. The day's news served to strengthen the indications that the allies were quite willing to hear counter-proposals from Turkey. It does not look as if the armed conflict would last much longer.

Our engagement of gold in London, which was increased yesterday to $1,250,000, was suggested as one cause of the reopening of European selling of American stocks, but the connection between the two is not clear, particularly in view of the fact that discounts in London showed an easing tendency, notwithstanding our purchase of gold in that market and the possibility of our being bidders for part of Monday's South African arrivals. The chance, however, that we will get any share of Monday's new gold supply was less yesterday than it had been the day before, for another advance in sterling exchange carried us some 10 points further away from the gold import level. This hardening in exchange was a natural enough sequel to the European selling of stocks here. Our ability to draw any considerable amount of gold from Europe just at this time has seemed dependent upon European buying, or, at all events, absence of European selling of our stocks, and that, in turn, upon a favorable course of events in respect to the Balkan situation.

Current reports of trade tell of increased activity in many lines and the maintenance of previous high scale of output in many others. They contain little or no suggestion of curtailment, or even of uneasiness, owing to the coming tariff revision, although under the surface more or less concern is being expressed by those engaged in industries which have enjoyed a large measure of protection. The orders coming to the United States Steel Corporation are not quite as large as they were last month, when they ran so far ahead of production that over 1,000,000 tons were added during that month to the unfilled orders on the books of the corporation. Current orders, however, are very considerably in excess of current output, and, barring any unforeseen change between now and the end of the month, November will bring a further large addition to the volume of unfilled orders. Increasing railroad earnings and expanding bank exchanges testify similarly to the continuance of great commercial activity.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Money on call loaned on Stock Exchange collateral at 5¾@6 per cent., with the last loan at 5¾ per cent. Most of the day's loans were made at 5¾ per cent.

Time money rates were 5¾@6 per cent. for sixty days, 5¼@5¾ per cent. for ninety days, and 5¼@5¼ per cent. for four, five, and six months.

Commercial paper was quoted at 5½@6 per cent. for best names.

New York Clearing House statement: Exchanges, $334,322,376; balances, $14,209,568; Sub-Treasury credit balance, $718,528.

FOREIGN RATES.

Discount rates abroad yesterday were: London, 4⅞@4 15-16 per cent. for short bills, and 4⅞@4 13-16 for three months' bills; Paris, 3⅜ per cent., and Berlin, 5⅝ per cent. Money was 3¼@3½ per cent. in London and 4½ per cent. in Berlin.

The Paris check rate on London was 25 francs 24 centimes, and the Berlin check rate on London was 20 marks 50 pfennigs.

Foreign exchange rates at the points noted were quoted as follows at the close of business yesterday:

CABLE AND SIGHT RATES.

London—Cable, $4.85½; demand, $4.85.

Paris—Cable, 5.20 plus 1-16; check, 5.20 less 1-32.

Berlin—Cable, 94¾; check, 94⅝.

Switzerland—Cable, 5.21⅞; check, 5.22½.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Dull Trading Day.

Visitors to the Stock Exchange yesterday saw little evidence of the noisy turbulence that usually proves a drawing card in the "seeing New York" list of attractions. The total sales for the day were only 284,725, or 213,269 less than the business done on the previous day. Of the decrease, 103,800 was borne by Reading, Union Pacific, and United States Steel. In Reading 55,600 fewer shares were dealt in yesterday, and in Steel 33,200 shares less. What business there was spread out pretty thinly over the list, for in spite of the decrease in the volume of sales there were transactions in 160 stocks, or only eleven issues less than were traded in on Thursday. The younger brokers had a busy day comparing information on the Yale and Harvard teams, and in making their arrangements for transportation to the battle scheduled at New Haven to-day. Judging by the plans being discussed on the floor yesterday, to-day's session of the Exchange will be in the hands of a relatively small number of traders.

More Early Trading.

As far as most of the Stock Exchange brokers were concerned, they might have left the floor at the end of the first hour and stayed away until a few minutes before the close without missing any business. From 10 to 11 yesterday transactions totaled about 134,000 shares. Had that rate been maintained it would have meant a total for the day of 670,000 shares. In the second hour, however, the total business done was less than one-third of the amount turned over in the first hour, and from 12 o'clock until 1 it seemed as if the ticker operators had gone out for luncheon. The total sales in that hour were less than 16,000 shares. The next hour was practically as quiet, but from 2 to 3 a great burst of activity rolled up a total of 67,000 shares.

City Bonds Go Lower.

For no apparent reason, beyond the prevailing high price of money and the larger yield obtainable from investments in other securities, the New York bond issues continue to decline. The 4s of 1957 made another low record for the year yesterday by selling at 96¾. The old 4½s sold down to par, and the 4½s of 1957 declined to 104½.

Brokers Expect Harvard to Win.

The Harvard men on the floor of the Stock Exchange were wishing yesterday that their team had made a less creditable showing this season, or that Yale had been able to do a little better. Opinions on the probable outcome of the game differed so little that it was hard to get up an argument, and impossible to arrange a friendly wager except at long odds. A number of Crimson sympathizers contributed to a $1,000 pool to be bet against Yale, and this was offered against $600. Only a small part of the amount was taken even at those odds, the Yale supporters holding out for two to one. On the Curb a loyal son of Cambridge put up $100 against $150 that Harvard would double Yale's score, and a few wagers were made at two to one that Harvard would defeat or tie Yale. A report from a Stone Street café that wagers were being taken at 10 to 7 on Harvard resulted in a visit from an agent of a pool made up of Cambridge alumni, who discovered that the odds were quoted for the benefit of any one who might have Yale money to wager. It was said on the floor of the Exchange that there had been much less betting on to-day's game than there was on last Saturday's contest at Princeton.

American Banks Abroad.

A strictly American bank in Frankfort or Berlin, organized by well-known and trustworthy American financiers and business men, and with ample capital to insure confidence, would soon be able to do a big and paying business in the opinion of the United States Deputy Consul General at Frankfort-on-the-Main. Up to now the shares of only two American railroads are dealt in at the Stock Exchanges of these two cities, and the dealings in American railroad bonds amount to comparatively little. American banks should prove efficient in distributing American securities in Europe, in promoting export trade, and also in aiding to secure foreign contracts for construction of railroads, cars, and equipment, public works, electric plants, and to enter into various other large enterprises for which constructors and promoters of this country possess ability and capital.

December Disbursements.

The total dividends and interest disbursements for December are estimated by Dow, Jones & Co. at $91,000,000. Strange to say, the dividends paid by the industrial companies promise to fall short of the total for December of last year by some $2,200,000, in spite of the fact that business is now well ahead of the volume of a year ago. This situation is explained largely by the fact that many companies distributed extra dividends a year ago, which they are not expected to repeat in the current period. The United Fruit Company paid an extra dividend of $2,705,000 last December, and the Eastman Kodak Company one of $978,000. The disbursements by the Standard Oil companies will be smaller for the single month than they were in December of 1911, although the total for the year ending with next month will be considerably above the amount paid out in 1911. In December of last year the Standard of New Jersey paid out nearly $7,000,000, while this year's corresponding payment will be about $5,000,000. The Standard Oil Company of New York paid $3,000,000 in December of last year and has not yet declared its last quarterly payment for 1912. A number of the Standard companies which paid nothing in December, 1911, have declared dividends to be distributed next month, which will almost offset the reductions in the payments by the two big companies. The Atchison and New Haven together will distribute about $5,000,000 in quarterly dividends in December.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Cigar Stores Makes a New High Record and Other Tobacco Issues Are Strong.

On the Curb yesterday interest centred largely around the various tobacco issues. United Cigar Stores made a new high price at 118⅝, from which it reacted to 117¼, so that it closed the day ½ point below the opening quotation. There were sales of 8,000 shares of this issue. Tobacco Products opened at 103 and quickly advanced to 104¼, but the reaction carried it back to 103⅝. The recent activity in the oil issues was reflected in a sharp upward movement in Houston Oil, which sold from 24 up to 26¼. Profit taking induced by the advance caused a recession to 24½ at the close. There were sales of 30,000 New Haven 5 per cent. notes at 99 13-16 and 99¾.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Lower Prices Followed Failure of the Peace Negotiations in the East.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 23.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There was enough inquiry for money yesterday to maintain the rates for short fixtures at Thursday's level, the supply being still restricted. The discount market was easier, there being a feeling of relief that the American demand for gold does not seem likely to be very formidable, though it is believed that some arriving South African bars may be bought for New York.

"The approach of the settlement appears, in conjunction with rather less favorable news as to the state of the Balkan question, to have weakened most stock markets a little. As a rule, prices left off above the worst. There was no serious depression at any time, but a fairly general fall for a day of moderate extent established. The exception was supplied by Grand Trunk stocks, which were favorably affected by the announcement from New York that the United States Grand Jury would not now be called upon to investigate the company's relations with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. This was doubtless felt by the Grand Trunk bears to be a good reason for closing or reducing their holdings.

"The American market was dull most of the day, with a weak tendency after the House closed. Canadian Pacific shares and shipping securities were offered and did not find ready buyers in the present state of the market.

"The foreign market was inclined to be dull owing to a less confident tone in Paris respecting the Balkan war, which produced a few sales of De Beers, Rio Tintos, and some other French favorites."

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 89f 87½c for the account.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The Boerse was weak to-day, and prices closed considerably lower.

LONDON INVESTORS CHANGING

Look with Favor Now on American Public Utilities Securities.

Henry L. Doherty of the firm of Henry L. Doherty & Co., who arrived from Liverpool yesterday on the Cunarder Mauretania, said that the investment public abroad was beginning to realize that it was not necessary to safety to confine its investments to securities that yielded a return of not more than 3 or 3½ per cent.

"I was agreeably surprised," said he, "to find that the demand for public utilities securities in London and on the Continent is growing very rapidly. On some of my other visits to London I found more or less skepticism with regard to the investment of foreign capital in public utilities of American organization. On this visit, however, I found that not only were the prominent banks in London greatly interested in public utility stocks and bonds, but the large insurance companies were also agreeably disposed toward the investment of funds in such securities."

The First Mortgage Bonds on the highest class of Chicago real estate, owned and offered by us, are a direct, first lien on improved, income-earning property whose conservatively estimated value is never less than double the total amount of the bond issue.

During the 30 years in which we have been engaged in the purchase and sale of this type of security, no investor has ever lost a dollar, either of principal or interest on any security purchased from us.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Turkey's decision to continue the war against the Balkan allies was mainly responsible for a renewal of bearish sentiment on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The market opened weak at 9:30 o'clock and on subsequent rallies appeared to meet stock, with the tone at the close reflecting heaviness. Some of the best trading of the day was at the opening call in the half hour before business began elsewhere in Wall Street. The call sales totaled 7,660 shares out of a grand total for the entire session of 82,850 shares. The call prices reflected general fractional declines from Thursday's closing quotations, the losses ranging from ⅛ to ½ of a point.

STEEL SUIT ADJOURNED.

Additional Witnesses in Dissolution Case to be Called on Dec. 4.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Testimony of the Government's principal statisticians in the dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation was completed to-day before Examiner Henry P. Brown. Adjournment of the hearing was taken until about Dec. 4, when additional witnesses will be called by the Government at a hearing in New York.

Luther Conant, Jr., United States Commissioner of Corporations, occupied the stand to-day. He furnished a mass of reports, most of which had already been published in the bureau's report on the steel industry. They dealt with the market and appraised value of the Steel Corporation properties at different periods.

COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Grain Markets Steady on Light Trade—Slow Foreign Demand—Cotton Rises.

The wheat market closed at the lowest prices of the decline on indifferent foreign demand and pressure of cash wheat. Corn was lower on continued good weather. Oats were steady on the cash situation. Provisions reacted on the liberal hog movement. Cottonseed oil was irregular. Cotton advanced despite heavy profit-taking. Trade interests bought. Foreign and home crop estimates were more bullish. Coffee reacted after early steadiness.

WHEAT.

Fluctuations in wheat were narrow, the market showing a fairly steady tone at a little decline for the day in all markets. Foreign markets showed dullness and indifference, with prices lower. Export bidding for American wheat continued out of line, and there was very little interest shown in Canadian wheat. The Argentine weather news was of fair conditions for harvest. Argentine exports for the week were 1,080,000 bushels; Australian, 256,000 bushels; Indian, 1,088,000 bushels; American, 6,115,000 bushels, making with the estimated shipments from other countries possible world's exports of 14,100,000 against 10,080,000 bushels last year. Australian reports were of beneficial rains. The Modern Miller statement was of continued good condition for the Winter wheat, with some plowing still in progress and a little increase in the total acreage. The Western receipts were 1,634,000 bushels, against 1,881,000 bushels last week, and interior shipments were 1,486,000 bushels. Business in Canadian wheat is restricted by the transportation situation. A large amount is held up outside of the Buffalo breakwater, while the stocks at Western lake ports are big and the question of moving grain down all rail is being considered. The speculative interest in the market was limited all day, and largely professional. The demand for cash wheat on fresh export orders is small. Buying by the mills is also reported quiet. Demand for flour is discouraged by the decline and buyers are holding off for more favorable terms. Cash wheat locally was nominal, with No. 2 red quoted at $1.06; No. 1 Northern, 95⅝c.; No. 2 hard Winter, 95½c, and No. 1 Manitoba, 95c.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN—The market was very quiet for corn, with prices showing some decline early owing to better weather conditions, the market steadying in the afternoon with rather limited offerings. Interior cash markets were reported easier with demand slow. American exports for the week were only 59,000 bushels. The Argentine exports were 5,286,000 and since May 1 have been 164,000,000 bushels. Cash corn was steady, with export grade quoted at 53¼c f. o. b., and c. i. f. corn was quoted at 58c down to 56c nearby and forward shipment.

OATS—The market was firm but quiet. Prices were influenced by the further decrease in the receipts and increase in the interior shipments. In the past five days the interior shipments have slightly exceeded the total interior receipts and exports from New York have been 1,176,000 bushels. Cash oats were steady, with Standards 37c to 37½c; No. 3 whites, 36½c to 37c; No. 4 white, 36c to 36½c; white clipped, 37c to 39½c.

PROVISIONS.

Prices showed a general recession in values, owing to a weaker hog situation and some increase in speculative selling. Hog receipts were about 100,000 at all points, making somewhat in excess of 500,000 for the past five days. Hog prices were generally lower throughout the West.

COTTON.

During the forenoon session the cotton market faintly wavered, but in the ensuing dealings there was latent strength displayed and rapid recoveries occurred. It appeared as though the enormous profit-taking, which has been so noticeable during the last few days and which was discerned yesterday, was not sufficient to appease the inquiry. [illegible] made that the absorption for [illegible] mills was being underestimated [illegible] parent that the buoyancy of [illegible] in check. [illegible] cables were practically disregarded. The realization that the market had risen substantially seemed to prompt the liquidation rather than the tenor of the news. What weakness was shown by the foreign market, however, was counterbalanced by the fact that the spot sales there were 10,000 bales, the largest for some time. Moreover, Manchester claimed a strong market in yarns and cloths, with the opinion expressed that additional improvement will manifest itself as the political difficulties of Europe terminate.

Bulls had the advantage of more bullish crop information. The Memphis Commercial Appeal estimated the crop at 13,595,000 bales, exclusive of linters. The trade was not unprepared for a report of this character, inasmuch as the recent figures from the districts adjacent to Memphis were about of this amount. Then, again, private cables were at hand stating that the crop in East India was deteriorating because of excessive rains, and there was mail correspondence confirming recent advices of a reduced promise in Egypt. The favorable outlook in Russia is evidently maintained.

The fact that the into-sight movement for the week was a record, totaling 727,000 bales, as compared with 672,000 bales last year, did not exert any material influence, or at least failed to create an appreciable selling movement. Confident assertions are made that the heavier receipts indicate an incessant demand, rapid picking, and active ginning. It is undisputed that the constant advancing tendency of the cloth markets at domestic points serves as a basis for much of the bullish enthusiasm. Most of the dispatches from the South are indicative of holders remaining firm and of the inquiry showing little, if any, diminution, while the wires to the contrary are in the minority and are virtually ignored.

Spinners' takings of American cotton for the week were placed at 421,000 bales, against 379,000 last week and 413,000 last year. These takings and the volume of exports will be closely followed, inasmuch as those opposed to higher levels contend that in the near future there will be a contraction in both items. The shipments to the other side to date approximate 3,472,000 bales, or less than 25,000 bales under those of a year ago to this time. The visible supply of American cotton aggregates 4,500,000, against 3,763,000 in 1911.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The tendency of the price-list was not definite during yesterday's session, but there seemed to be a very steady undertone. It was evident that the pronounced strength in crude had taken many unawares. Claims were made that refiners were paying as high as 39½c. for the raw material. Futures on this basis are substantially below a parity. Leading refining interests were active in the absorption of the near months. Liberal profit taking for the account of speculative holders was experienced, but the aggressiveness on the part of bear interests was restricted. Consuming advices suggest an irregular trade but a demand which is fair in the aggregate and seemingly more than commensurate with the volume of crude received at the South.

COFFEE.

Coffee trading was more active, sales amounting to 110,750 bags. Prices were irregular, opening easy for near positions, firm for the late months, and with September unchanged, October 1 point higher, and the other positions 5 to 6 points lower. During the forenoon a firmer feeling developed, but the late future market was again easy, closing barely steady 5 points down to 2 up. Havre was ½ franc lower early, but closed net unchanged, while Hamburg declined ¼ pfennig. Brazilian markets were barely steady, 75 to 100 reis lower.

TO INVESTORS, BANKERS AND BROKERS

On December 14th the Public Utilities Supplement of the New York Commercial will be issued FREE, in bound form, with each copy of the regular paper. It will analyze in plain, every-day language, the physical and financial operations of the larger, representative Public Utility Corporations whose securities are before the public. Practically all leading issuing houses and operators have contracted for representation of such companies in this Supplement, and the foremost banking houses identified with the distribution of these issues have taken substantial advertising space.

The Public Utilities Supplement will analyze and review: Territory Served, Franchises, Earnings, Balance Sheets, Physical Condition, Improvements, etc., etc. Official, up-to-date maps, illustrating territory served, will accompany the analytical reviews. The Supplement will be invaluable as a guide to the investor and a fine reference for bankers and brokers during the year to come.

Advertising is restricted to Public Utility Companies, and to Bankers and Brokers, Engineers, Certified Public Accountants and others particularly interested in the Public Utility field. Advertising rates on application. Reservations for space should be forwarded immediately.

THE COLORADO MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY

First Mortgage 4 Per Cent. Fifty Year Gold Bonds

In view of the default of the Railway Company under one of its outstanding notes, it is evident that the holders of bonds should unite in prompt and concerted action for the protection of their interests. At the request of holders of said bonds to a large amount the undersigned have consented to act as a committee for the bondholders, reserving the right to associate others with themselves as members of said committee. A protective agreement, to be dated November 15, 1912, is in course of preparation. Holders of bonds are urged to at once deposit the same in negotiable form, with the coupon of January 1, 1913, and all subsequent coupons. Deposits should be made with CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF NEW YORK, the depositary to be named in said agreement, at its office, 54 Wall Street, New York City. Certificates of deposit will be issued for all bonds deposited. For further information and for copies of said agreement when prepared apply to the members of the committee or to the depositary.

10% ON HARVESTER NOTES.

Prosecutor Says the International Charged Farmers That Interest.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Information was read into the records to-day by the prosecution in the case against the International Harvester Company of America, charged with violation of the Federal anti-trust laws, which purported to show high rates of interest exacted by the company from farmers in its debt for implements. The hearing was resumed before Robert S. Taylor, Special Examiner. Edwin P. Grosvenor, Special Assistant Attorney General, contended that interest ranging from 6 to 10 per cent. was charged on notes held by the Harvester Company. The corporation holds notes aggregating $55,000,000, according to evidence submitted by the Government. They were made mostly by retail dealers in agricultural implements and by farmers.

The Government will place officials of independent harvesting companies on the stand to-morrow and endeavor to show by their testimony how the operations of the International Company have been detrimental to their business. In such an attempt to-day the defense, it was considered, scored a point when an independent manufacturer testified under cross-examination that the output of his company had increased since the formation of the International. Paul D. Middlekuff, President of the Acme Harvesting Machine Company of Peoria, gave figures which showed that since 1908 the number of binders put out by his concern had grown from 2,588 to 11,000, estimated output in 1912. In the same time the number of mowers manufactured increased from 3,488 to 9,000.

E. N. Wood, Secretary of the International, was on the stand at adjournment. He identified exhibits of confidential instructions to agents, said to have been sent out by the defendant company. Counsel to the defense waived cross-examination of Rodney B. Swift, formerly confidential clerk of the McCormicks, who at the last hearing told of alleged plans for the "fixing" of a Kansas legislator.

CASH REGISTER TRIAL DRAGS.

Witness Tells of "Knock-Out" Agents Employed to Wipe Out Rivals.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 22.—The trial of President John H. Patterson and twenty-nine other officials or former officials of the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, charged in the United States District Court here with violating the Sherman Anti-Trust act, promises to be long drawn. The examination of the first witness, Henry G. James, an automobile dealer of Detroit, lasted all day and will continue on Monday morning, the court having adjourned until then.

"Knocker cards," or cards sent to agents of the company, according to James, to be filled out whenever a rival machine was "wiped out of the agent's territory," were put in evidence over an objection by the defense, as were also National Cash Register magazines.

In one of the magazines the prosecution read an article stating that $5 would be taken from the sale of each National machine in order to maintain a "competition department." Attorney Wilson, for the defense, read a statement from the magazine that the National company paid $200,000 to protect its patent rights.

James testified that Capt. James Crane, President of Crane & Co. of this city, general agents for the National Company, had followed him about when he was an agent for Bensinger & Co., telling him he had better come over to the National Company, as Bensinger & Co. was infringing upon patent rights. Later he learned that Bensinger & Co. had been sold to the National, and he was sent to Cleveland as sub-agent for Crane & Co. A letter was read from Crane to James stating: "Try to get the salesman of the Lamson Company to come over to the National."

James testified that "knockout men" worked only in sales where opposition was found, and that it was his duty to place National machines by any means rather than allow opposition to enter the territory.

COAL INQUIRY ADJOURNED.

Case Against Pennsylvania Railroads Put Over Until December.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—The case of the city and several business men's associations against the Philadelphia and Reading Railways on a complaint before the State Railroad Commission that excessive and discriminatory rates are charged on local anthracite coal deliveries was rested to-day.

Harry E. Bellis, a freight rate expert who, on Thursday, submitted facts and statistics about railroad operations, including what he claimed to be the cost per ton per mile on coal shipments, was subjected to further cross-examination by Charles H. Heebner, general counsel of the railroad before Judge Nathaniel B. Ewing of Uniontown, who announced that the inquiry would be adjourned until Dec. 3.

Without further delay, unless the present plans are amended, the cases against the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, the Lehigh Valley, and the Central Railroad of New Jersey, named in the petition of complaint, together with the Reading, will be pressed.

One of the significant developments was a declaration by George Stuart Patterson, chief counsel for the Pennsylvania, that he would submit all statistics bearing upon rates that were obtainable at the Broad Street Station. Ward W. Pierson, acting for the petitioners, and Harold S. Shortz, a special assistant city solicitor, laid much stress upon this assertion, pointing out that the Reading witnesses who testified were reluctant in disclosing figures.

Dock Railway Wants to Issue Stock.

The New York Dock Railway Company, which was incorporated in 1910 to take over the railway owned by the New York Dock Company and to extend its line in Brooklyn, has applied to the Public Service Commission for permission to issue $500,000 in capital stock, of which 4,500 shares will be 6 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and the other 500 shares common stock. The company has not yet issued any stocks or bonds, but it owes $452,461, of which $360,789 is due to the New York Dock Company. Commissioner Maltbie will hold a hearing on Dec. 6.

BROKERS OVERLOOK DIVIDEND

They Didn't Know Porto Rican Tobacco Paid 20% Scrip Dividend.

American brokers who have dealt in the shares of the Porto Rican-American Tobacco Company in recent weeks were thrown into alarm yesterday by the announcement that an extra dividend of 20 per cent. in scrip, bearing interest at 6 per cent., had been declared some time ago without their knowledge. The books for the regular 4 per cent. cash dividend and the extra scrip payment closed on Nov. 15, and brokers who have made sales of the stock since then without knowing that the shares were ex dividend were wondering yesterday if they could compel the buyers to take the stock without the scrip dividend.

A demand for a ruling by the Curb Association was at once made, and an investigation will be held by a committee. Since the books closed between 300 and 400 shares have changed hands at from 260 to 265. With the announcement of the extra dividend yesterday the stock was quoted ex dividend at 235. The scrip was quoted at 100 bid, 125 asked.

SURROGATE CITATION.

STINE, WILHELMINE.—The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent, to Nellie S. Ehrich, Lillie S. Zulzer, John Barschall, the heirs and next of kin of WILHELMINE STINE, deceased, send greeting:

Whereas, Marcus Stine, of the City of New York, has lately applied to the Surrogates' Court of our County of New York to have a certain instrument in writing, dated November 14, 1911, relating to both real and personal property, duly proved as the last will and testament of Wilhelmine Stine, late of the County of New York, deceased, Therefore you and each of you are cited to appear before the Surrogate of our County of New York, at his office in the County of New York, on the 7th day of January, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, at half-past ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, then and there to attend the probate of the said last will and testament.

And such of you as are hereby cited, as are under the age of twenty-one years, are required to appear by your guardian, if you have one, or if you have none to appear and apply for one to be appointed, or in the event of your neglect or failure to do so a guardian will be appointed by the Surrogate to represent and act for you in the proceeding.

In testimony whereof we have caused the seal of the Surrogates' Court of the said [L. S.] County of New York to be hereunto affixed. Witness, Hon. Robert Ludlow Fowler, a Surrogate of our said County of New York, at said County, the 11th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twelve.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

RECEIVER'S SALE.

RECEIVER'S SALE.—In the Matter of the Receivership of The Mount Vernon National Bank of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

By virtue of an order issued out of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, dated November 16th, 1912, Philip Tillinghast, Receiver of The Mount Vernon National Bank of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will expose to sale at public auction on the premises hereinafter described, known as The Mount Vernon National Bank Building, in the City of Mount Vernon, County of Westchester and State of New York, on at 12 o'clock, noon, of said day, all that tract or parcel of land, together with the building thereon, including three vaults, vault doors, and the safety deposit boxes and safes contained in said vaults, being particularly described as follows, to wit: "All the easterly parts of those certain lots, pieces, or parcels of land, situate, lying, and being in the City of Mount Vernon, County of Westchester and State of New York, known and designated by the Numbers Twenty-four (24) and Twenty-five (25) on a certain map entitled 'Map of Thirteen Acres of land adjoining the Village of Mount Vernon, in the Town of East Chester, County of Westchester,' made by C. F. Ehrhard, Surveyor, dated September 1st, 1851, and filed in the office of the Clerk (now Register) of the said county, said pieces or parcels of land, taken together, being bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the corner formed by the intersection of the westerly side of South Second Avenue and the southerly side of East First Street, and running thence southerly along the westerly side of South Second Avenue seventy-six and sixty-four one-hundredths (76.64) feet to Lot Number Twenty-three (23) on said map; thence westerly at right angles to South Second Avenue, and along the said northerly line of Lot Number Twenty-three (23) forty-three and eighty-one one-hundredths (43.81) feet; running thence northerly along the easterly line eighty-six and four one-hundredths (86.04) feet to the southerly side or line of East First Street, and thence along the southerly side or line of East First Street forty-four and eighty one-hundredths (44.80) feet to the point or place of beginning, be said several distances and dimensions more or less."

The terms of the said sale will be 10% cash when the property is knocked down, the balance of the purchase money to be paid within thirty (30) days of the date of sale on delivery of a deed of conveyance; and the said sale will be subject to the approval of said District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York.

PHILIP TILLINGHAST,
Receiver of The Mount Vernon National Bank of Mount Vernon, N. Y.
Dated November 16th, 1912.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Ernesto Fabbri Buys Plot in 95th Street near Fifth Avenue for Residence—$40 a Square Foot for 42d Street Store Lease—Park Avenue Deal—Good Suburban Market.

The movement northward for high-class private residences, which has been clearly indicated recently in the purchase of upper Fifth Avenue plots above the Carnegie home by Justice Gerard, Miss Bryce, and others, received additional impetus yesterday in the purchase by Ernesto G. Fabbri of a large vacant plot on the north side of Ninety-fifth Street just beyond Fifth Avenue. The plot is 150 feet east of Fifth Avenue, and has a frontage of 100 feet on Ninety-fifth Street by 100.8½ deep. It was sold for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company by Pease & Elliman.

The interesting feature about the sale is that Mr. Fabbri intends to use the westerly 50-foot plot for a fine residence, which he plans to erect in the near future. Mr. Fabbri sold his former home, at 11 East Sixty-second Street, one of the handsomest private houses in the Fifth Avenue residential locality, to Charles Steele of the J. P. Morgan firm. In part payment Mr. Fabbri took 11, 13, and 15 East Sixty-fourth Street. The westerly twenty-nine feet he has since sold to Orme Wilson, Jr., for improvement with a private dwelling.

It was rumored that Mr. Fabbri intended to use the remaining portion for his own home, but his recent purchase shows that he favors the growing district in the Carnegie Hill section. Pease & Elliman also acted as Mr. Fabbri's brokers in the former deals. The present transaction involved about $150,000.

Record Rental for Forty-second Street Store.

The highest rental ever paid for Forty-second Street property will be paid by the United Cigar Stores Company for a small store on the ground floor of the old building at the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street. The lease has just been taken from Walter J. Salomon, who recently leased the entire structure on a long term, paying $36,000 for the first fourteen years. The cigar company will pay on an average of $40 a square foot.

The store contains but 375 square feet, being about 15 by 25 feet. The annual rental is fixed at $15,000 a year, and the lease has been taken for a term of years. The small size of the store naturally enhances its square-foot average, for a space of 100 square feet would average considerably less. It exemplifies, however, the high value of desirable situations and particularly choice corners in the Grand Central Terminal locality. Immediately opposite this Madison Avenue building a twenty-story office building is being erected on the southwest corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street. With the new Biltmore Hotel, the seven-story building to be erected on the Vanderbilt Avenue front opposite the station, and other business improvements in the neighborhood, the section will soon become one of the busiest and most valuable centres in the city.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

Lincoln Cromwell has purchased from the Barney Estate 711 Park Avenue, a four-story dwelling on lot 20 by 88.11 feet. This sale disposes of the last but one of the Barney holdings in that block. The house just sold is south of the new home of Robert S. Brewster, at the corner of Seventieth Street, and is directly opposite the new residences of Arthur Curtiss James and George Blumenthal.

At the northeast corner of Sixty-ninth Street and Park Avenue the dwellings are being razed, and the site will be improved with two American basement dwellings. Worthington Whitehouse negotiated the transaction.

James B. Boyd has purchased from Mrs. Susan E. Swezey and other heirs of G. H. Swezey, 141 East Sixty-third Street, a three-story dwelling, on plot 12.6 by 105, for occupancy. Post & Reese were the brokers.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society sold the private dwelling 105 East 103d Street, a lot 16 by 100.11, which was acquired at a foreclosure proceeding on Oct. 31, for $6,000, a sum barely covering the incumbrances. The buyer is Minnie Witte, who was one of the defendants in the foreclosure suit.

Albert P. Baumand has resold 154 East Forty-fifth Street to an abutting owner. The property, which measures 18.9 by 100.5 feet, is covered by a three-story brownstone dwelling, and is 113.9 feet west of Third Avenue. The buyer is said to be G. E. Walter.

Cobweb Hall Is Sold.

Cobwell Hall, at 80 Duane Street, east of Broadway, and which has been for many years a popular political headquarters, was sold in the Vesey Street Auction Room yesterday in foreclosure proceedings, Joseph P. Day being the auctioneer. The property was bought by Francis H. Higgins, who is said to represent the second mortgage holders, for $70,000. The plot is 25 by 77.3 and irregular. The action was brought by the City Savings Bank against M. J. Ferrigan, a son of the original proprietor of the celebrated eating house and political rendezvous.

East Side Synagogue Purchase.

A plot 32 by 100.11, at 105 and 107 East 103d Street, has been purchased by a Jewish congregation for a new upper east side synagogue. The property was bought from the Equitable Life Assurance Society and the Lawyers' Mortgage Company, which lately bought it in at foreclosure sale. The plot is occupied by two dwellings.

Recent Buyers.

The Jermay Realty Company is the buyer of the five-story apartment house 384 and 386 Mott Avenue. The same company is negotiating for the adjoining house. The A. F. Realty Company was the broker in the transaction.

$1,750,000 Loan on Aeolian Hall.

Pease & Elliman have secured for the Aeolian Hall Company a loan of $1,750,000 from the Mutual Life Insurance Company on the new Aeolian Hall, a seventeen-story office building at 27 to 31 West Forty-second Street, running through the block to Forty-third Street, a plot 78 feet by 200.10.

Bronx.

George Price has sold for the Gierisch estate to a client for investment the block front on the west side of Cypress Avenue, 137th to 138th Street, being 200 feet front and 101.96 feet in depth. The parcel was sold for cash.

The Podger Realty Company has sold to an investor 989 Simpson Street, a five-story new law house on plot 42 by 110, located north of 163d Street. The same company purchased a plot adjoining, being 126 feet front, running through to Fox Street, from the American Real Estate Company, and the northeast corner of Simpson and 163d Streets, 100 by 110, to be improved with a high-class elevator apartment.

The block front on the westerly side of Cypress Avenue from 137th to 138th Street, which the Gierisch estate has owned for many years, has been sold for the estate to Constantin Wagner as an investment. The property comprises a plot 200 by 101.11, and was held at $65,000.

Jacob Cohen has bought from B. S. Deane a plot 50 by 118 on the east side of Heath Avenue, 645 feet south of Kingsbridge Terrace.

Brooklyn.

E. T. Newman has sold the three-story single apartment house 181 Eighth Avenue on a lot 22 by 95. The buyer is an investor.

Frank A. Seaver has sold a plot 125 by 100 on the southerly side of Ninetieth Street, 125 feet east of Fourth Avenue, for M. Merrick to a client for investment.

Long Island.

The Queens Land and Title Company has sold at Massapequa: To H. L. Beyer, a plot 40 by 100 on Massachusetts Avenue; to E. M. Beyer, a plot 40 by 100 on Pittsburgh Avenue; to D. W. Newton, a plot 40 by 100 on Massachusetts Avenue; to F. Bollin, a plot 40 by 100 on Euclid Avenue; to A. E. Johnston, a plot 40 by 100 on Massachusetts Avenue; to S. S. Sanders, a plot 40 by 100 on Massachusetts Avenue.

The old John D. Cooper estate has been sold by the heirs. The property fronts 325 feet on Cypress Hill Road, and has been occupied by the Coopers for more than sixty years, during which the ownership was kept intact. The sale was effected by Charles G. Goldsmith, representing an investor.

The New York and Suburban Land Company have sold in the Fourth Ward of the Borough of Queens: To Joseph Heitzmark, two lots on Union Avenue, 40 feet front by 100 feet deep; to Miss Mary Begley, two lots on Park Avenue, 40 feet front by 100 feet deep; to J. A. Currie, two lots on Oxford Place, 40 feet by 100 feet; to John Henry Spenkorh, three lots on Park Avenue, 60 feet front by 100 feet deep.

New Jersey.

L. N. Nicholson & Co. have sold at Lyndhurst to Fred Wagner a six-room bungalow on Front Street, for John H. Burke, at $3,200; to John Speier, a seven-room house, with half acre of land, on Riverside Drive, for Charles G. Hauck, and to John J. Campbell a six-room house on Page Avenue, for Louis Favier, for $2,800 cash.

Suburban.

The J. C. Construction Company has sold to C. Byron, 206 Fifth Avenue, North Pelham, Westchester County, a three-story brick tenement with stores, on a lot 25 by 100. A. Mantinband and J. J. Pittman were the brokers.

Steven B. Ayres and Walter F. Baylis have sold for the Wheeler Corporation, to William Scherrer, Lots 87 and 88, Vernon Park, Mount Vernon. The property will be improved by the purchaser.

Commercial Leases.

William H. Archibald and Wilber C. Goodale have leased for the Haslam estate, for a long term of years, the three-story building at the southeast corner of Third Avenue and Sixteenth Street. The tenant will make extensive improvements.

John W. Woodward leased for the Beck Shoe Company, to P. K. Ramswamy, the store and basement at 1,177 Broadway.

James Kyle & Sons has leased the building at 747 Lexington Avenue, for Misses Josephine L. and Emma L. Graham, for a term of years; extensive alterations are to be made.

L. Tanenbaum, Strauss & Co. have leased for the O. B. Potter Trust, the store, basement, first and second lofts at 92-6 Bleecker Street, southwest corner of Mercer Street, to J. W. Goddard & Sons, for a term of years.

S. M. Bondy has leased for the Waldeman Company the store at 1,655 Broadway to W. M. McRae, for a term of ten years, at an aggregate rental of about $70,000.

Realty Notes.

Twenty-six new Model 1 family houses have just been completed at Floral Park, Long Island, by the Greater City Homes Company, owners of the property.

United Real Estate Owners' Association will meet next Tuesday, Nov. 26, in Parlor A, Grand Union Hotel.

The Federal District Court has confirmed the report of Commissioners Morrison and George Page Ely, appointed to condemn land for the site of the new Bronx Post Office, at 149th Street, Mott Avenue, and Spencer Place. Prices originally demanded aggregated $189,000, but by condemnation the Government is to get the land for $180,000.

Kew Gardens

15 MINUTES from Pennsylvania Terminal

An Assured Success

Great activity in sale of lots, large numbers of houses in course of erection for buyers, continuous and concentrated demand, unwillingness of owners to sell for speculative purposes, perpetual restrictions against nuisances—all point to a future of great value. This means that Kew Gardens is a safe place to buy or build a permanent home, where the future is clearly defined and permanently assured, where every risk on the part of the purchaser is eliminated, and where increase in values should more than offset interest and taxes as they accrue.

Kew Gardens is in the Borough of Queens, on the summit of Long Island, with a mile frontage on Forest Park. Surrounding Kew Station, it combines all the pleasures of country life with every city convenience. Visit Kew Gardens and form your own judgment. Prices are moderate and terms reasonable and convenient.

Views and full details of our method of building and financing homes will be furnished on application to Kew Gardens Corporation, Marbridge Building, 34th St. & Broadway, N. Y. Office at Kew. Representative on property every day.

Among upwards of 100 trains a day to Kew and Richmond Hill the following are suggested for inspecting Kew: Leave Pennsylvania Station, Thirty-third Street and Seventh Avenue, via L. I. R. R., WEEK DAYS—9:12, 10:09, 11:05 A. M.; 12:30, 1:10, (Saturday only), 2:07, 3:03, 3:39, 4:09, 4:30, 4:58, 5:10, 5:20 P. M.; SUNDAYS—8:28, 9:47, 10:02, 11:16, 11:37 A. M.; 1:09, 1:56, 4:22 P. M., returning at frequent intervals.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A disturbance from the Canadian northwest has moved to southeast Minnesota, but with no precipitation except a little snow. Rains continued in Florida and Texas, and extended into Louisiana and Mississippi, while over the remainder of the country the weather was fair.

Temperatures are above the seasonal average over all States, except the southwest, although there was a moderate fall from Texas northeastward and in the extreme northwest.

Fair weather will continue Saturday and Sunday over practically the entire country.

Winds along the New England and Middle Atlantic Coast will be moderate southwest and west; South Atlantic Coast, light to moderate variable.

Steamships departing Saturday for European ports will have moderate southwest and west winds with fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair Saturday, colder in extreme south; Sunday unsettled; moderate west winds.

Southern New England—Fair, somewhat colder Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness, moderate southwest and west winds.

New Jersey—Fair, somewhat colder Saturday; Sunday fair, light to moderate west winds.

Western New York—Fair Saturday; Sunday cloudy, somewhat colder by night; moderate west to southwest winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Saturday and Sunday. Light to moderate west winds.

Northern New England—Fair Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness; light to moderate southwest and west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Fire Department.

General Order 68—General Order 6, Paragraph III., dated Feb. 3, 1910, is hereby corrected as to assignments for Stations 15-62 and 15-67. New cards for these stations have been issued; on receipt commanding officers will substitute them for the old cards, which will be returned, with the number of the division, battalion or company marked on the face of the cards returned. (Old cards will be marked in pencil and promptly returned in the same envelope in which the new cards are delivered.)

Above assignments to take effect at 8 A. M. Nov. 23. By order of the Commissioner.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission has ordered examinations for Deputy and Assistant Corporation Counsel and for Plan Examiner, (sanitary plumbing,) grade B.

Applications for Deputy and Assistant Corporation Council will be issued until Dec. 8. The minimum age is twenty-one years. The salary ranges from $1,500 to $2,500. Candidates must be members of the bar at the time of filing application and should be familiar with the subjects of negligence, contracts, evidence, Admiralty law and practice. The mental test will be held on Dec. 30.

Applications for Plan Examiner will be issued until Dec. 4. The mental test will be held Dec. 22. The minimum age is twenty-one years. There is one vacancy in the Bureau of Buildings, Queens, at a salary of $1,050. Candidates must have served five years as apprentice or journeyman plumber. They should have training in drawing, be able to make good sketches, and be thoroughly apt in the reading of plans. They will be tested as draughtsmen, and their knowledge of the different piping systems used in buildings, of the Sanitary Code, and of the principles of sanitation will also be tested.

United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination, for men only, on Nov. 25, to fill a vacancy in the position of alloy chemist at a salary ranging from $2,400 to $3,000 a year, Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications. The duties will consist of an investigation covering the methods of preparing non-ferrous alloys, the furnaces and other appliances used in their manufacture, and the prevention of waste in their production. Applicants must have a knowledge of physical chemistry with special reference to the phase rule and its application to the composition and structure of alloys; a knowledge of michrochemistry and metallography, and a reading knowledge of French and German. They must have had experience in foundry practice for non-ferrous alloys, in the construction and manipulation of electrical furnaces, and in accurate high temperature measurements. Competitors will not be required to appear at any place for examination, but will be rated on the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: General education and scientific training, 40; practical experience and fitness, 40; publication or theses, 20.

An educational training equivalent to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, in chemistry is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. If a competitor fails in the examination the documentary matter submitted will be returned to him upon request. Applicants must have reached their twenty-fifth but not their fortieth birthday on the date of examination.

Censored Want Advertisements

"Only advertisements fit to print."

This little advertisement—

> Partner, active, with $1,500, to join me in operating new sales system; right party is offered connection that will prove highly profitable, with no risk; principals only. G 128 Times.

brought five times as many replies from the readers of The New York Times as from the readers of the four or five other well-known newspapers combined in which it appeared.

Write an advertisement of your own, state your proposition, whether it involves an investment of your time or money, or another's time or money, as clearly and conservatively as the proposition is stated above, and you will be pleased with the results—

PROVIDED, the proposition is one which will appeal to the intelligent men and women who read more than 200,000 copies of The New York Times daily.

Send copy for to-morrow's (Sunday's) New York Times to uptown, downtown or any branch office, (see head of editorial page,) or advertising agency, or telephone 1000 Bryant before 10 o'clock to-night.

The type used for "Wants" is called agate. By counting seven words to the line in small type, or four words if set in capitals, you may readily estimate what your advertisement will cost by consulting the following table:

5 shares of National Monument Company, par value $100.00 per share.

1,000 shares of North Butte Extension Copper Mining Company, par value $5.00 per share.

The trustee reserves the right to withdraw any of said property from said sale unless it shall bring at least seventy-five per centum (75%) of its appraised value.

New York City, November 22, 1912.
WILLIAM H. WILLIS,
Referee in Bankruptcy, 82 Beaver Street, New York City.
CHARLES F. BISHOP, Esq., Trustee in Bankruptcy, 67 Wall Street, New York City.
HAROLD C. MITCHELL, Attorney for Trustee, 60 Wall Street, New York City.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DIStrict of New Jersey.—In the matter of the TEXTILE AMERICAN EMBROIDERY WORKS, alleged bankrupt.

To the creditors of the above-named alleged bankrupt:

Pursuant to an order duly made in this matter the receiver of the estate of the alleged bankrupt will sell at public auction property belonging thereto, consisting of sewing machines, one seven-yard shuttle embroidery machine, one nine-yard shuttle embroidery machine, two bobbin machines, other machinery and merchandise, consisting of yarns, threads, goods, as well as electric motors, fans, foot warmers, safe, and office fixtures. The property will be sold at public auction on November 26, 1912, at 10 A. M., at Nos. 532 and 534 Franklin Street, Union Hill, New Jersey. The receiver reserves the right to withdraw any or all of the property from sale unless it shall bring at least seventy-five per cent. of the appraised value. WANTED NOTORIETY, GOT STOMACH PUMP

Lonely Young Man Attracted Plenty of Attention, but of the Wrong Kind.

SAID HE HAD TAKEN POISON

Whereupon the Hotel Force Became Properly Alarmed and Gave Him Treatment.

A young man whose appearance indicates that he is about 23, and lives in New York, where he is well known about one of the biggest hotels, was feeling in a very penitent mood yesterday, according to reports that reached that particular hotel. He was still ill from the effects of the stomach pump they had worked on him.

The manager of the hotel refuses to disclose the young man's name, because he affirms that the other just wanted to attract a lot of sympathy and get his name in the newspapers.

Anyhow, the youngster sat himself on one of the chairs that face the room clerks' desk and the marble water cooler, alongside of which is a stack of individual drinking cups. The water is not always cold in the cooler, but the paper drinking cups are free, so the management thinks there is no kick coming. At the time the young man took his seat, there was a big crowd between the chairs and the desk on Thursday afternoon, and the young man waited until the end of the crowd nearest the cooler had been cleared away, when he arose, approached the cup rack, procured a cup, and filled it with water.

He purposely turned and drank the water, then went back to his chair and sat down. To an elderly stranger who had the next chair, he remarked, in what was intended to be a casual tone, "I have just swallowed twenty-five grains of bichloride of mercury."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the other, jumping up. He ran to the desk. "Where is the manager? Get a doctor, quick! That man there is dying!" he cried.

There was some confusion until an assistant manager, a detective, two hallboys and two porters got hold of the young man and hurried him into the elevator and took him down to the basement. Meantime word had been sent to the most available physician, together with a hurried diagnosis of the case.

The doctor arrived in a hurry and took from a bag a formidable looking instrument. By this time the young man was moaning, though, according to the manager he appeared to be unconscious. They took off his coat and then laid him on a table. From the pocket of the coat two letters dropped. The assistant manager hurriedly went through them. They were addressed to relatives, and gave the news that the writer had come to the conclusion that he ought not live any longer. He was tired of life, and was going to end it all.

By this time the doctor was forcing one end of a tube between the lips of the patient. This seemed to revive the latter somewhat, and he opened his eyes, discovered what the doctor had in his hand, and struggled to get away. The porters held him down. There was little time to spare, and the doctor was taking no chances.

The patient tried to speak, but words took time, and the doctor kept jamming the tube down his throat. In a short time, the young man was groaning in earnest. Still the doctor would not let up. He kept on with the tube, and then he began to pump.

Finally the physician decided that the patient's life was safe. Then he made an investigation, with the result that he said some things to the assistant manager, whereat those present lost their concern for the life of the patient, and the doctor and the assistant manager began to question him closely.

He admitted, according to the latter, that he had not taken any poison. He had merely swallowed a glass of water. He was feeling lonely, and he wanted sympathy. After a severe verbal spanking, they let him go.

"I guess," said the manager in telling the story yesterday, "he won't try that trick again. He'll remember how his life was saved for a long time to come. He just wanted to make a fuss and get his name in print."

CUNARD LINE IN THE POOL.

Adhered to Atlantic Traffic Agreement and Once Paid a Fine.

Sidney J. Lister, passenger agent of the Cunard Line in this city, admitted yesterday at the hearing of the Government suit under the Sherman act against a number of passenger steamship companies using this port that the Cunard was a member of the North Atlantic Conference, and declared that it and the other British steamship companies had joined, when they realized that the Continental lines were able to equalize business through their agreements.

The Cunard, he said, had always adhered to the terms of the agreement, and on one occasion had paid a penalty of $25,000 for carrying more than its quota of passengers. When he was asked about the running of "fighting steamships" he suggested that such a description was somewhat boisterous, and said he preferred the term "protective steamships," but, he admitted, that they were intended to stave off competition. Thus if it had been necessary to reduce the rate on a fighting steamship from $28 to $18 to meet a rival, the members of the conference, in compliance with the agreement, would contribute the $10 needed to make up the rate. The Cunard Line, said Mr. Lister, had run but a single fighting steamer.

Asked as to the life of a liner, Mr. Lister stated that each vessel of the Cunard Line was debited with an annual depreciation of 5 per cent., and this estimate of the aging of vessels, he testified, had been borne out by the experience with twenty-four old steamships.

MUTE ON GRAND TRUNK CASE.

Wickersham and Wise Have Conference, but Withhold Details.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Attorney General Wickersham and Henry A. Wise, United States Attorney in New York, discussed to-day the plans of the Department of Justice for investigating the proposed agreement between the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada and the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, to determine whether it would violate the Sherman anti-trust law. Officials declined to discuss the details of the conference.

Mr. Wise also took up with the Attorney General the status of the many cases pending in the New York courts, to formulate a plan of expediting them as much as possible, thus clearing the decks to the utmost for the incoming Democratic Administration.

WALDO ON INSPECTION TRIP.

Police Commissioner Sees That Patrolmen Warn Gamblers' Patrons.

Police Commissioner Waldo, accompanied by Fourth Deputy Police Commissioner Dillon, and Capt. Burfeind of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, visited twelve suspected gambling resorts in the territory of the West Forty-seventh Street Station last night, to make sure that the patrolmen stationed before them, to warn visitors of the suspected nature of the resorts, were on duty.

The Commissioner's party made the inspection on foot. Mr. Waldo, when it was completed announced that everything was satisfactory. The places visited were between Broadway and Sixth Avenue and between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, from Forty-third to Forty-eighth Streets.

McADOO DECLINES DINNER.

Says All His Associates in Managing Campaign Should Be Included.

William G. McAdoo, Vice Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, declined yesterday the honor of being the guest at a public dinner to be given by a committee of well-known Democrats in recognition of his services to the Democratic Party. Mr. McAdoo said he felt that any public dinner should include all of his associates of the Campaign Committee.

The invitation was extended to Mr. McAdoo by William De H. Washington, Secretary of the committee, which consisted of George Gordon Battle, Lathrop Brown, John D. Crimmins, Cleveland H. Dodge, John F. Galvin, Stuart G. Gibboney, Bryan L. Kennelly, John J. Kindred, Ralph Pulitzer, W. L. Saunders, Francis Lynde Stetson, Nathan Straus, Calvin Tomkins, Oswald G. Villard, Archibald R. Watson, H. Otto Wittpenn, John Purroy Mitchel, Thomas R. Mulry, William Church Osborn, Walter H. Page, and John A. Wyeth.

In his reply Mr. McAdoo said:

"Permit me to thank you and your associates and my friends heartily for this mark of your esteem and appreciation. I assure you that I consider your invitation alone sufficient recognition of any services that I may have been able to render, and that I regard it as a greater tribute than any dinner could possibly be. I say unaffectedly that I feel that you are entirely too generous in offering to me so great an honor. I regret sincerely my inability to accept.

"Personally, I have always had a decided feeling against being the object of a tribute of this character, because the finer the motive of my friends the less inclined I am to have their regard and friendship manifested in such a public way.

"I also feel that any public dinner given should include all of my associates of the Campaign Committee, namely, W. F. McCombs, Senator James A. O'Gorman, Senator T. P. Gore, Senator James A. Reed, the Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, the Hon. Daniel J. McGillicuddy, the Hon. A. S. Burleson, Judge Robert Hudspeth, Judge W. R. King, Col. Robert Ewing, Josephus Daniels, Willard Saulsbury, Joseph E. Davies, Charles R. Crane, Henry Morgenthau, and Rolla Wells, all of whom contributed conspicuously to the splendid results achieved and are at least equally deserving of honor."

BLAZE IN FIELD HOUSE.

Owner With a Broken Ankle Carried to Safety by Firemen.

Cortland de P. Field, President of the C. de P. Field Company of 127 Water Street, who for sixty-two years has lived in the five-story brownstone house at 21 East Twenty-sixth Street, surrounded by towering office and loft buildings, awoke with his wife early to-day to find their bedroom on the second floor full of smoke. Fire they discovered had started in a prayer room on the same floor. Mrs. Field hurried downstairs and summoned by telephone Engine Company 16, with quarters in East Twenty-fifth Street, between Second and Third Avenues.

Mr. Field fell a year ago and broke his right ankle, from which he has never fully recovered. He was carried by firemen in an armchair to the ground floor of his home, where oil paintings hang said to be worth $50,000. While the firemen put out the blaze on the floor above Mr. Field calmly smoked a cigar and saw that the valuable paintings were in no way damaged.

The flames were put out after a few minutes' work, and the damage was slight.

MODIFIES FREE SHIP PLAN.

Treasury Yields to Indignant Builders in Interpreting Panama Act.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—President Taft and Secretary MacVeagh have decided to modify in several important particulars the order, recently drawn, but not issued, to carry into effect the so-called free ship provisions of the recent Panama Canal act. The modified order is being put into shape by James F. Curtis, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and may be issued formally to-morrow.

Among other things, the act permitted the free entry into the United States of material, at present dutiable, to be used in the construction, equipment, and repair of ships owned by American citizens and flying the American flag.

The Treasury Department had obtained the impression that the shipbuilders would be glad to obtain the free entry of ship machinery and parts of ship machinery constructed abroad. But the builders of ships explained at the hearing, where approximately 75 per cent. of the shipbuilding interests of the United States was represented, that this was exactly what was not wanted.

Fire Next Door Causes 200 to Make a Rush for the Exits.

When a fire worked its way up from the basement of the tenement building at 1,722 Pitkin Avenue, East New York, last evening, and drove all the tenants down the fire escapes, the cries of fear and the shouts of the people in the street penetrated to the audience of 200 in the moving-picture house next door. The cries were caught up in there, and the stampede for the exits started immediately. Lillian Kermann, the young daughter of the proprietor, who was at the piano, rattled away bravely, but the music did not subdue the panic, and it took a small detail of policemen to drive the men back, and make way for the women and children to pass out first.

The fire in the tenement, which started among some gasoline stored in the basement by the dyeing and cleaning establishment occupying the first floor, did only $1,000 damage, and no one was hurt. Helen Cohen, the eight-year-old daughter of the owner of the building, escaped injury when she leaped from the second-story window, for she landed safely in the arms of Sergt. Plant.

Long Island Extra Fare Under Fire.

The Long Island Railroad Company is at present charging a 10-cent fare on its through trains between Flatbush Avenue and East New York, whereas on local trains the charge is only 5 cents. As the Public Service Commission has found that the running time between these stations is the same for both locals and expresses, and they make the same stops, Commissioner Williams will hold an inquiry on Dec. 5 into the justice of the extra charge.

TUBES FOR MAILS BETWEEN TERMINALS

Hitchcock Arranges for Pneumatic Service from Grand Central to Pennsylvania.

100 POUNDS IN EACH LOAD

Two Tubes, Each 24 Inches in Diameter, Are Expected to Revolutionize Movements by Next July.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has been in the city several days arranging for the purchase by the Federal Government of a system of pneumatic mail tubes to connect the Pennsylvania and Grand Central Terminals. The system will be the finest and most efficient of any in the world, it was said yesterday, and will cost, complete, upward of $350,000. The Postmaster General hopes to finish the plans for this modern device before the new administration comes into office, but the system is not expected to be completed until July 1, 1913.

At present in this city about three miles of pneumatic tubes connect the General Post Office with important branches. These tubes, however, are only eight inches in diameter, and mail matter cannot be carried through them in bags. The new system will carry 100-pound bags as unit packages, and its capacity, according to the manufacturer yesterday, is eighteen times the capacity of the tubes now in use.

Postmaster General Hitchcock, with Postmaster Morgan and expert Commissioners, examined all the engineers' reports as to the route and method of construction of the proposed new system, and it was said yesterday that the route from the Grand Central Post Office at Lexington Avenue and Forty-fifth Street would be west on Forty-fifth Street to Eighth Avenue, then under Eighth Avenue to Thirty-third Street, and into the new Federal Post Office Building, connecting with the new Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal.

An efficient large-scale pneumatic mail carrying system has been in operation for several years between the United States Capitol and the House office building. The Senate recently allowed an appropriation of $250,000 to extend this system to include the Congressional Library, the Senate office building, the Union Station, the Government Printing Office, and the new Post Office Building in Washington. By this new system it will be possible to send a ton of documents from the Government Printing Office to the Union Station in five minutes. It was the efficiency of this service, it was declared, which led Hitchcock to propose the installment of an even larger system of the same kind in New York.

There will be two tubes in the New York system, each twenty-four inches in diameter, and capable of carrying mail bags in either direction at the same time. There will be about one and one-third miles of the double tubes. Under the existing system of transportation between the Grand Central and the Pennsylvania Terminals the mail wagons run twenty hours a day to transfer 4,000 or more bags of mail. At the average weight of 100 pounds to a bag this means that 400,000 pounds, or 200 tons, must be handled, rehandled, and carted every day at and between these stations. The new system, shooting the unopened mail bags from station to station at the rate of 30 to 90 miles an hour, it is estimated, will be able to dispose of all of this work in a few hours, and allow for increase in business for generations to come. A minimum of two minutes for the transportation of each bag is figured.

According to present plans, construction will be begun April 1, 1913, and completed by July 1.

LITTLE THANKS FOR CHASE.

Police Capture Intruders, but Woman Says She Can't Identify Them.

Summoned from the West 125th Street station by the superintendent of the Edgar Court Apartments, 111th Street and Manhattan Street, early last evening on his statement that there were two men hanging about the place whose business there he could not understand, two patrolmen entered the building just in time to hear a door crash in on the second floor quickly followed by a woman's scream. They ran up and into one of the apartments where they saw two young men leaving by the fire escape.

These they finally ran to earth in distant and separate backyards and dragged them back to the apartment, where they confronted them with its tenant, Miss Margaret Hall. Miss Hall said she had never seen them before. They refused to speak, and the patrolmen, a little at a loss to understand the situation, took the simplest course of locking the two men up on a charge of attempted burglary.

One of them said he was John Garland of 35 West 125th Street, and the other was Harry Wessler of 52 Lawrence Street.

BOMBS CAN RUIN CANAL.

Easily Dropped from Airships Into Locks, Declares Miss Moisant.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PANAMA, Nov. 22.—Matilde Moisant, the aviatrice, who is here, says that the canal can be easily destroyed in a few minutes by bombs dropped into the lock chambers from airships flying from warships out of range of the forts.

Miss Moisant is a sister of the airman of that name who lost his life in an aeroplane mishap nearly two years ago.

COLD DETAINS J. P. MORGAN.

He Is Unable to Testify in a Suit Against the Southern Railway.

J. Piermont Morgan was prevented by a cold from appearing yesterday at the office of Thornton Earle, 38 Park Row, to give evidence in the suit brought by Thornton N. Metley against the Southern Railway Company. Mr. Morgan is the sole surviving member of the Reorganization Committee of the Georgia Pacific Railway Company, which was taken over by the Southern, and Rollin M. Morgan, counsel for the plaintiff, desires his testimony. The hearing before the referee was postponed to a date not yet fixed.

Mr. Morgan, on account of his cold, did not attend on Thursday night the dinner of the Chamber of Commerce.

Administrators for Pinkney Estate.

Surrogate Fowler signed an order yesterday appointing Grace Watts Thomas and Charles E. Littlefield administrators of the estate of Mary G. Pinkney, to succeed Curtis B. Pierce, the last surviving executor, who died Oct. 21. The Surrogate fixed their bond at $2,500,000. The Pinkney estate is about $1,250,000.
